

Twisters pound southeast

One tornado death reported in nation

By The Associated Press

A line of thunderstorms pushed across the Southeastern states Wednesday night producing tornadoes, hail and high winds.

One tornado fatality was reported near Louisville, Miss., about 50 miles southwest of Columbus, Miss. Three other tornadoes struck in Alabama. Preliminary reports indicated no extensive damage or injuries.

A tornado watch was in effect through dawn for much of Georgia, the Florida panhandle and extreme Southeast Alabama.

In all 10 confirmed tornadoes were reported, five in Mississippi.

While the Southeast was having its problems with severe thunderstorms, the North Central area was being plagued by severe winter weather.

Snow, mixed with rain in some areas, was widespread from the Northern Plains across the upper Mississippi Valley into the upper Great Lakes region.

International Falls, Minn., recorded five inches of snow in 6 hours. Two inches was measured at Aberdeen, S.D.

Winter storm warnings continued early today across eastern South Dakota, northern Wisconsin, most of Minnesota, Upper Michigan and northern Lower Michigan.

Travel advisories were in effect early today for hazardous driving conditions due to snow in eastern Nebraska, southeast North Dakota and northwest Iowa.

Rain continued across much of the central Pacific Coast early today with snow extending from the Sierra Nevada Mountains of California into the central Intermountain Region. Travelers advisories for snow continued across much of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, northern Nevada and northern Utah.

Mild weather continued across the eastern U.S. with today's early morning temperatures in the 50s and 60s extending from the Southeastern states into the Middle Atlantic Coast states and the Ohio River valley.

The mild weather combined with the threat of heavy rain caused flash flood watches to be posted across western North Carolina, most of West Virginia and for several western Pennsylvania rivers.

Temperatures at 2 a.m., EST, ranged from seven below zero at Limestone, Maine, to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Rain brought the threat of flooding to snow-laden western New York and the promise of water to thirsty southern California, but officials said only the bad news was for real.

Temperatures in the 50s — and more rain — were forecast for the Buffalo area today, and the National Weather Service issued a flash flood watch, based on the threat of ice jams. The service said six streams were on the brink of overflowing.

The Army Corps of Engineers shipped sandbags to riverfront areas in Erie, Chautauque, Genesee, Niagara and Orleans counties and said bulldozers would be available to deal with ice in shallow water.

The weather service said melting snow — up to 25 inches left from this winter's record snowfall — could add the equivalent of seven inches of rain to any downpour in warm weather.

The light rain that teased drought-stricken areas of California — about two-tenths of an inch in Los Angeles — was more welcome but less consequential, officials said.

National Weather Service forecaster Bill Hackle said that while the Pacific storm that came in Wednesday normally would be followed by others, a high-pressure system was developing that probably would block them off.

"From all indications, this is just about it," Hackle said. "There's no rain

THE SECOND annual Central Ohio Senior Citizens Hall of Fame awards banquet will be held at 12 noon Wednesday, May 11 in the Rhodes Center on the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The Senior Citizens Hall of Fame is sponsored by the Central Ohio Area Agency on Aging in cooperation with its advisory council and the central Ohio county committees on aging.

All senior citizens clubs and organizations and other groups are invited to participate by nominating a person 65 years of age or over to become a permanent member of the hall of fame.

All nominations in Fayette County will be reviewed by the Fayette County Commission on Aging and one elderly person will be selected to be honored at the banquet on the basis of the person's contributions and achievements since reaching retirement age.

Last year's inductee from Fayette County was retired newspaperman and author B.E. Kelley and he was honored at a banquet attended by nearly 700 persons.

Nomination forms are available from Julianna Harris, elderly supporting services coordinator, at her office in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 733 Ohio 41-S. The deadline for submitting nominations is April 6.

Tickets for the May 11 banquet will be available soon at a cost of $3 for senior citizens and $5 for others.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Ms. Harris at 335-2159 or 335-4144.

IF YOUR drinking water has an odd taste or odor, don't be alarmed.

Everitt Robbins, manager of the Ohio Water Service Co., said today that for the first time in more than two months the company is pumping water from Paint Creek to its reservoir.

In the past this process has caused drinking water to have an odd taste.

Robbins said the company may be able "to whip the problem" at its filtering plant before the water reaches the customer.

"It's better to have funny tasting water than none at all," Robbins said, referring to the severe drought that has hit the western portion of the nation.

CONGRESSMAN William H. Harsha will be holding office hours in Washington C.H. on Friday.

The Sixth District congressman will meet with constituents from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Area residents having problems pertaining to federal government should report with Social Security or Veterans Administration numbers and correspondence and other pertinent information.

Fayette County commissioner about developing such a program. He added that animal control equipment must be located before the program can be instituted.

The city stands to receive funds under both Title II and Title VI of the CETA program this year. The program is currently being developed for a period ending September 30.

A.J. (Tony) Pack 403½ Market St., has been hired by the city to head the program. He will have the title of administrative assistant. Shapter had been in charge of the overall program.

Lions variety show could be remedy

Got the mid-winter blahs?

What's an effective way to remedy the mid-winter humdrums? The Washington C.H. Lions Club's annual variety show, of course.

Currently, a total of 85 Lions and Lioness club members are rehearsing in preparation for two performances of the always-popular show. This year's theme is "Showboat: Then and Now."

The variety show, which is the major fund-raising project for the Lions Club, will be presented at 8 p.m. Monday, March 28 and Tuesday, March 29 in the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium.

Mrs. Cinda Stinson, who has directed the Lions Club variety show for the past eight years, said that rehearsals (twice weekly) were launched in mid-January in the Fayette Progressive School. But, because of the severe winter weather and the energy crisis, the singers and dancers have only been able to practice on a regular basis for the past couple of weeks.

Despite nice weather

By TOM GILLEM

Associated Press Writer
"What energy shortage?" asked the grocery sack boy in Columbus whose employer cut operating hours to conserve energy last month but started opening 24 hours a day again this week.

With temperatures warmer, gas supplies less critical, layoffs fewer and schools planning to reopen soon, some Ohioans may believe energy-related problems are over.

But officials monitoring problems caused by Ohio's worst winter on record know the situation hasn't ended, despite this week's spring-like weather. Looking ahead to March, they say the trend back to normal conditions still depends on one undependable factor—the weather.

"The National Weather Service is predicting 'below normal temperatures' for the next 30 days," Chuck Morris of the state energy emergency management committee said Wednesday. "But that could be one degree, a half-degree or 15 degrees below normal."

Milder weather in recent weeks, coupled with emergency gas purchases and public conservation efforts, has allowed Columbia Gas of Ohio to ease curtailments for many businesses and industries beginning March 1. Alternate fuel sources are also more available, officials say.

William Costello, energy liaison for the Ohio Manufacturers Association said Wednesday his reports indicate most Ohioans laid off because of the energy crisis are going back to work.

"If we can get a week or two of pretty good weather where the temperature doesn't get down in the teens and single digit numbers, we would be in pretty good shape," Costello said.

Dr. John Hug, energy coordinator for the state Department of Education, said many school districts plan to return to classes soon, although accurate figures are unavailable.

But Hug said some districts still find themselves in trouble because they ran over winter allocations and into summer allocations, which begin March 1 for some gas utilities and later for others.

"So it's still every man for himself, trying to do the best he can," Hug said.

adding that districts such as Upper Arlington, Worthington and those in Stark County are buying gas from independent producers in an effort to get operations back to normal.

At the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, officials are keeping a wary eye on gas supplies and the weather while they look beyond this winter heating season to next winter.

"The picture is not very clear at this point," John Barrows, PUCO's director

PUCO chief questions Columbia's gas supply

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbia Gas of Ohio is holding steadfastly to its claims to have enough residential gas for the rest of the winter, but the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission says his figures don't substantiate that claim.

As of Wednesday, figures supplied to the PUCO by Columbia Gas show that the utility is 1.3 billion cubic feet short for the rest of the winter even under normal consumption by residential and small business customers.

C. Luther Heckman, PUCO chairman, disclosed those figures before the House Energy and Environment Committee which is investigating the roles of the utilities commission and the Energy Resource and Development Agency during the current energy crisis.

"Columbia is running on figures now that show a priority one (home and small business) shortfall, but they have consistently said it won't happen because of residential conservation," Heckman testified.

The supply figures also run contrary to the firm's actions last Monday.

The company has announced that beginning March 1 it will roll back curtailments to large commercial and some industrial customers. The large commercial customers will see supplies increase by 35 per cent while certain industrial users will see it jump by 15 per cent.

William Chaddock, a spokesman for drummer, and Bob Ford will play the bass guitar.

Mrs. Carmen Johnson is handling the choreography for the two-hour program and Gene Sagar and Phil Warner are co-stage managers.

The show has been an annual event in Washington C.H. continuously since the first performance in the former Fayette Theatre in 1936, except for a period during World War II.

Last year's bicentennial-flavored show, which shattered all previous attendance records, raised more than $3,000. All proceeds from the variety show are used in the Lions Club's sightsaving program and much of the money is spent locally for eye examinations and glasses for needy Fayette County residents.

Tickets, priced at $2 per person, can be purchased from any Lions Club member. The seats can be reserved at the Patton's Office Supplies store.

On sewer project note

Dissenting vote forces two more Council meetings

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

A lone dissenting vote on an ordinance concerning the proposed sewage treatment project has forced the Washington C.H. City Council to hastily call two more meetings before Saturday.

The ordinance concerns the renewal of notes issued last February to fund a phase of the multi-million dollar sewer project. The dissenting vote to have the ordinance approved with the rules suspended was cast by City Council member Billie Wilson.

Six votes in favor of the ordinance would have been needed to pass the legislation as an emergency ordinance with the suspension of rules, meaning the ordinance would go into effect immediately without undergoing the usual three readings and the 30-day waiting period.

With City Council member Ralph Cook absent from Wednesday night's Council meeting, Wilson's vote blocked the passage of the ordinance. The other five Council members voted in favor of the ordinance, but could not provide the needed three-fourths majority.

Then the ordinance was placed on first reading Wednesday night and declared an emergency. A three-fourths majority is not needed for this action and Wilson's vote was ineffective.

Council chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough proposed that two special meetings be held to place the ordinance on its second and third readings before Saturday. The renewal deadline on the $310,000 note is Friday.

"To protect the financial integrity of the city of Washington C.H., we must renew this note," Mrs. McCullough said. She added that the city has never defaulted on a note and if the ordinance is not passed by Friday, the city will default.

One of the meetings is scheduled for 5 p.m. today and the other is scheduled for 8 a.m. Friday. Both meetings will be held in the City Office Building.

Once the ordinance is placed on three readings and approved it can go into effect immediately, thus saving the city from defaulting. Wilson, a long-time opponent of the proposed sewer system, would carry little weight with his vote since a simple majority is all that is needed to pass the ordinance after the required three readings.

Wilson said he has been voting against proposed sewer project legislation ever since it was brought to City Council, and he planned to continue his opposition.

The $310,000 note was issued last year in anticipation of the issuance of bonds for construction and improvements on the city's waste water treatment system.

City Manager George H. Shapter, who prepared the ordinance, proposed that $62,000 of the note be paid this year. That figure amounts to five per cent of the original note. The renewal note will be for $248,000.

One other piece of legislation was brought before Council Wednesday night, and it passed with no difficulty.

The ordinance grants a zoning change for a building at 220 N. Fayette St. from residential to business. The building is owned by the Lafayette Agency, Inc.

The emergency measure was placed on a third reading and then passed unanimously by Council.

placed to jobs under the new program. The filling of three key positions are also on the priority list. The six employees laid off were working for the city street department.

A parking meter control officer, a field inspector trainee, and a clerk typist are now being sought. Shapter also stated that CETA funds may be used to combat the city's animal control problem.

"This could be a good opportunity to do something with dog and animal control," Shapter said. He added that "possibly three persons" could be hired under CETA for an animal control program.

Shapter said he had met with one

CETA program returns to city

CETA has returned to Washington C.H., according to City Manager George H. Shapter.

Shapter told City Council Wednesday night that a new Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program was being developed. A similar program came to an end last September. It died when federal money used to fund the project ran out.

Until Sept. 30, the city had employed 17 persons under the CETA program. When funds ran dry, 11 of the employees were deemed vital to the city's operation and placed on the city's payroll. The other six were furloughed.

Shapter said those six who were laid off in September will be the first to be needs customers."

Energy Resource and Development Agency Director Robert S. Ryan has said that Columbia is about to wrap up deals for emergency purchases of one billion cubic feet and it may be those deals that make Columbia confident it can last the winter.

Heckman, while questioning the company's forecasting, credited Columbia with consistency, noting that it has never predicted the home service shortage.

"I question that stance, but it has been consistent," he said.

Heckman also announced that the commission will have a detailed plan and funding request ready on Friday for its investigation of gas utilities.

He said the commission will investigate two areas:

—The supply situation this winter and how the Federal Power Commission affected delivery of Ohio supplies.

—The possibility that gas companies reaped excess earnings because of the crisis and if the earnings shifted substantially from commercial and industrial customers to residential users.

The committee members, in taking testimony from Heckman and in an earlier session with Peter Susey, ERDA deputy director, haven't taken off the gloves. Both men essentially have been allowed to give presentations and have answered questions seeking to clarify the testimony.

Seek federal aid for Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum urged President Carter on Wednesday to declare Ohio eligible for major federal disaster relief, citing an "overwhelming crisis" in the state because of storm damage.

The Ohio senator, in a letter to Carter, noted that the President's declaration of an emergency in Ohio provided federal funds for essential road clearing services following the blizzard that struck the state on the last weekend in January.

State school bill backs income tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill sponsored by Rep. Robert E. Netzley, R-81 Laura, proposes that a one-half of one per cent local option income tax for education be permitted without a vote of those to be taxed.

But Netzley told the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday that "I don't approve of the one-half per cent factor." He did not explain why it was in the bill which would require voter approval of any larger tax.

Netzley and two Republican colleagues also told the committee they favor exempting corporations and nonresidents from any such tax.

Joining him with their own versions of the tax concept were Reps. James E. Betts, R-3 Rocky River, and Waldo B. Rose, R-64 Lima.

Netzley and Rose presented copies of their bills, which deal at length with collection and administrative machinery. Betts said his bill had not yet been referred to the committee.

Stanley J. Bowers, counsel for the Ohio Manufacturers Association, joined them in asking for corporate exemptions.

Air crash kills Pennsy official

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A twin-engine plane exploded in flight and crashed into a house near here today, killing Pennsylvania's transportation secretary and seven other persons, police said.

There was no immediate word on whether anyone was killed in the house, which was set afire.

A. H. Childs, director of the transportation department's bureau of aviation, confirmed that William Sherlock, 36, the secretary, and his chief of staff, William Smith, were among the dead.

Department officials also said Senate Republican leader Richard Frame was on board, but they could not confirm that he was among the dead.

William Campbell, information officer for the department, said two other agency officials may have been in the plane when it crashed outside Harrisburg in suburban Swatara Township.

Witnesses said the plane hit a small tree, skidded 300 feet, flattened the house and came to rest 150 feet across another street in the residential area.

Ljubica Vranicar, who lives near the crash site, said, "I was upstairs weeping. I heard this noise. This crash. I came outside and everything was on fire."

The officials were going to St. Marys, Elk County, to present a $52,000 check to the Area Transportation Authority of North Central Pennsylvania.

Tanker hits bridge

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP) — A tanker tore out a section of a bridge over the James River here during commuting time this morning, and a Coast Guard spokesman said four cars on the bridge fell into the river.

The spokesman said two persons had been pulled alive from the river, about 25 feet deep at the point of the accident, but that it was not known how many others were in the cars that fell into the water. No bodies had been recovered.

One end of the broken section of the Benjamin Harrison Bridge came to rest atop the tanker Marine Floridian, which was immobilized beneath the bridge.

Police said the 612-foot tanker, an empty sulphur carrier, was en route from Hopewell, an industrial city about 25 miles southeast of Richmond, to Newport News when the accident happened.

The State Highway Department said the drawbridge, near the middle of the span, had been raised to allow the tanker to pass but that the ship missed the opening and hit the bridge just north of the drawbridge.

The Coast Guard said one of its cutters, the Red Cedar, reported that the tanker was experiencing steering difficulties.

The 4,463-foot bridge, named for a three-time Virginia governor, was built at a cost of $5.5 million and opened in 1967. It links Jordan Point with Charles City County.

in the three-day outlook" after today.

Heavy snow continued in northern California. It meant new life for the skiing industry there, but its effect on the watershed areas that feed the southern areas was difficult to calculate. It was of no immediate help to the south.

"State taxes on Ohio manufacturers are among the highest in the nation," Bowers said. "Taxes on individuals are among the lowest. Ohio taxes lack equality."

He later noted that business with low investment in equipment and inventory enjoy tax advantages in Ohio.

"But where you have to invest in equipment, inventory, Ohio (taxes) is among the highest," he added.

Bowers said it was difficult to say whether an income or payroll tax would be best.

"I would favor an income tax graduated on the basis of those most able to pay," he said.

Netzley proposed to piggyback any such tax on existing tax systems rather than having counties or school districts set up separate systems. His bill would permit local boards of education to set up county education income tax districts to levy a tax on adjusted gross income and be deducted from pay checks by employers.

"This would be an individual income tax," he said. "Business already has its share."

Rose estimated that about $6.5 billion of Ohio taxes will go for education in the next two years.

"We will have a more efficient system if we maintain voter control" over taxes, he said.

City Council

A SPOKESMAN from Volunteers in Action, Rev. Dr. Leroy Davis, attended the Council meeting to request that the city serve as a pass through agency for expected federal funds to the organization.

The organization has received a $13,000 government grant but needs a government agency to accept the money and pass it to the organization.

"This program is an example of how we, as a city, can be instrumental in helping outside agencies receive federal funds for worthwhile local projects," Shapter said in recommending the action to Council.

Shapter said the only direct involvement the city will have in the program is the receipt and accountability of the funds. It will not cost the city any money or paper work, according to Shapter. When the funds are received, they will be appropriated in a lump sum to the program operators.

Volunteers in Action is an organization which develops guiding relationships with juveniles.

The proposal to serve as a pass through agency passed by a 5-1 vote, with Council member John Morris voting no.

COMPUTER USED

Shapter explained a new type of filing of fiscal reports made available by the city's computer system.

The new method reportedly allows city officials to find the current fiscal situation on any given day.

"A fantastic amount of work has gone into the converting of hand written reports to computerized reports," Shapter said adding that the transition was a 17-month effort by city employees.

Mrs. McCullough commended Shapter for his efforts in making the system change.

"I was on the finance committee and it used to take four or five months to receive a balance (city budget). Now, we can find the exact balance on any given day," she said.

LIFE SQUAD EXPLAINED

David Morrow of the Fayette County Emergency Services, Inc. was present at Wednesday's meeting to outline the status of the newly formed life squad.

Morrow explained the functions of the life squad and noted it was a non-profit organization founded to provide emergency medical care to county residents.

INSURANCE WOES

Shapter told Council that liability insurance for city police and fire personnel has increased in cost over the previous year.

The premium for the insurance through the National Sheriff's Association has been set at $2,200 for the coming year, which is about a 40 per cent increase over the previous year.

The insurance coverage expires Feb. 28, and Council voted to renew the coverage.

"It's quite an increase," Shapter said. "It puts us the gun, but this is one of the things I don't know how to control."

SEWER STUDY CONTINUES

Shapter told Council that Bird and Bull, Ltd., the engineering firm working on the city's sewer project, has requested a 60-day extension on the deadline to submit project plans to the Environmental Protection Agency.

The EPA had set March 31 as the deadline, but the recent bad weather has limited the firm's field studies.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today, continuing the slow decline that began a week ago.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped more than a point in the early going. Losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was still troubled by inflation worries. Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board warned Wednesday that business confidence had been hurt by fears that increased government spending would create added inflationary pressures.

Burns also said he wasn't optimistic about chances for reducing the inflation rate this year.

Wilmington College economist says

Ag careers 'begging to be filled'

WILMINGTON, Ohio — American agriculture has failed to tell the nation's young people what great opportunities it offers in the final quarter of the 20th century, according to an agricultural economist at Wilmington College.

"Job and career opportunities in agriculture and related fields are practically begging to be filled," said Dr. Donald Chafin, chairman of the agriculture department at the College.

"More bright young people are needed in agriculture, and job opportunities for college graduates in this field are excellent," he added.

"Yet we have failed to explain this. We have failed to tell high school students that each year thousands of new opportunities in agriculture are available to college graduates.

"And we have failed to point out that there are not nearly enough college graduates with agricultural backgrounds to fill even half of these opportunities."

Chafin explained that agriculture employs nearly 40 per cent of the nation's entire work force.

"Agriculture is the nation's largest industry, although only about nine per cent of the population lives on farms," he added.

"But there are about 500 distinct occupations that are a part of the agriculture industry."

Included among such occupations are engineering, research, sales, banking and finance, education and journalism.

"It's interesting, and not well-known, that agricultural journalists have comparatively high average salaries. And yet few young people think of a career in ag journalism or ag communications," Chafin said.

He added that agricultural scientists and researchers have given society such things as frozen fruit concentrates, dehydrated food, and even a blood plasma substitute.

"Banks," he said, "along with other credit agencies and insurance companies and more than 12,000 farm co-ops play a major role in agriculture. They will need several thousand college graduates with agricultural training in the next decade."

Careers in other business-related agriculture fields also are expanding rapidly, Chafin said.

"Economics, management, transportation, sales—all play vital roles in the agricultural industry of the United States," he added.

Before coming to Wilmington College last summer, Chafin served as farm manager for the Northern Trust Company, of Chicago, managing thousands of acres of farm land in the south.

"I've seen for myself what opportunities there are in agriculture," he said.

Chafin said that the great challenge facing world agriculture is "how to feed more people on fewer acres."

He says the challenge can be met by the application of research and education to the entire agriculture industry.

"This nation, on the whole, is well-fed because men and women have been trying for years to grow two ears of corn where one grew before—and succeeding at it," he said.

"The job ahead is to make three ears grow where two grow now. And we'll succeed at that, too, if we have enough trained people in agriculture.

"And ag education in college is the best possible training."

Wilmington College is the only private, liberal arts college in Ohio with a fully-accredited, degree-granting, four-year program in agriculture and its related fields, Chafin added.

"We stress the practical approach for both farm-reared students and those with urban or suburban backgrounds," he explained.

"Wilmington College has nearly 1,000 acres of farm land it uses both as commercial enterprises and as learning laboratories for students. Our ag facilities and equipment are valued at more than $2 million."

Enrollment in agricultural programs at Wilmington College has more than tripled in recent years, Chafin added.

"At a place like Wilmington College, the student can combine ag studies with other disciplines to suit his or her career goals. The nation needs people like this, trained for a career and yet possessing strong leadership possibilities," he explained.

Three minor traffic mishaps probed

A malfunction of a semi-tractor-trailer rig's rear brakes resulted in a vehicle fire on Interstate 71 early Wednesday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the rig's rear brakes locked and the resulting friction caused a fire. Flames engulfed the rear drive wheels of the rig.

The driver of the rig, Richard A. Mills, 41, of Martinsville, was able to extinguish the fire before firemen from Grange Township in Madison County reached the scene.

There was no major damage sustained by the rig, according to the sheriff's department report.

Area law enforcement officers also investigated three minor traffic accidents Tuesday.

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 11:19 a.m. — A car driven by Edith M. Hawkins, 25, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., reportedly struck a pickup truck driven by Sue A. Hamilton, 36, Bainbridge on the McDonald's Restaurant parking lot, S. Elm Street.

The Hawkins vehicle was backing from a parking spot and the Hamilton truck had just entered the lot at the time of the mishap.

5:05 p.m. — Richard M. Ackley, 20, Twin Acres Motel, was cited by police officers for failure to yield the right of way following a two-car collision in the 800 block of S. North Street.

Ackley reportedly turned onto North Street from an alley and did not see a car driven by Isaac J. Holbert, 22, of Xenia, resulting in the collision.

SHERIFF

WEDNESDAY, 11:15 a.m. — John L. Stark, 78, of Cincinnati, was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance following a rear-end collision on an I-71 exit ramp at U.S. 35-NW.

The Stark auto reportedly struck a semi tractor-trailer rig in the rear on the ramp. The rig was driven by Elza May Jr., 46, of 1016 Temple St.

Rhodes gets 'suggestions'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If he didn't know it already, Gov. James A. Rhodes is learning there are plenty of smartalecks out there.

"Have visitors and guests only in winter," wrote one respondent. "Their body heat will cut your fuel bill. Explain to friends and in-laws that you must live alone from April to November."

That was one suggestion offered to the governor, who is scouring North America for natural gas and solutions to Ohio's energy crisis.

The state spent about $12,000 recently on newspaper advertisements soliciting gas supplies in the Southwest. The governor and his top energy advisors also have made flying trips to Canada, Texas and Oklahoma beating the bushes for gas supplies.

Peter Susey, deputy director of the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency, has seen most of the replies solicited by the advertising campaign and notes that many show little sympathy for Ohioans and their gas crisis.

Clark lawyer loses privilege

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court has indefinitely suspended Robert E. Renshaw's right to practice law in Ohio.

The court accepted the recommendation of the Ohio Bar Association in making the ruling Wednesday. The Clark County lawyer was accused of three counts of misconduct in handling estates.

The court did not call for disbarment on grounds that there were "mitigating circumstances" and that Renshaw had made restitution.

"Some people have just torn the ad out of their papers and scrawled four-letter words on it and mailed it in," Susey said.

Other thoughtful tips for the governor:

"Avoid using petroleum based charcoal lighter on picnics. Use precision ground magnifying glass fueled by ever renewable solar energy to start your fire."

An 11-year-old in Elyria, Ohio wrote asking for a list of schools that would be closed. "The reason I would like to know is because if the schools shut down we kids will have to go to school in the summer and I'm sure you would not like to go to school in the summer if you were a kid."

Local reappraisal topic at meeting

The recent reappraisal of Fayette County real property was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Board of Realtors Wednesday in the Terrace Lounge.

Fayette County Auditor Mary Morris and Dale Teeters, of the Sabre Systems reappraisal firm, discussed the re-evaluation process and the rate determination for 1976 taxes.

The meeting was conducted by realtor president James Polk. Twenty-five members attended.

Howard Miller, chairman of the board-sponsored private property week, discussed plans for this year's event. Miller is investigating the possibility of the board sponsoring a parade of outstanding homes in the Washington C.H. area and also providing speakers from the meetings of clubs and civic organizations.

Mothers' Circle holds meeting

The February meeting of Mothers' Circle took place in the home of Mrs. Birch Rice. Mr. and Mrs. David Roe were introduced by Mrs. Patrick Riley, and they in turn presented a very interesting and educational program on "Diamonds the Timeless Gem."

Mrs. Allen Myers, president, conducted the meeting, and Mrs. Bill Pool and Mrs. Ray Loudner presented reports.

Mrs. Tom Vrettos will be hostess for

March, and assisting her will be Mrs. Gordon Boyer, Mrs. Sidney Terhune and Mrs. Donald Wald.

Plans for the husband's party for June were discussed. Eldon Miller is invited for that function.

Suggestions for use of the funds of the circle were given to Mrs. Gene Elliott, philanthropic chairman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rachel Marti, Mrs. Leonard Bach and Mrs. Phil Lines.

Garden Presidents Council announces plans for 1977

The Garden Club Presidents Council met at Anderson's Restaurant for the first meeting of 1977. Four of the five clubs were represented.

The Fayette County Fair Flower Show schedule is ready to be presented to the Fair Board on March 1. The theme this year will be "Curling Up With a Book." The entire schedule will be ready to present to the clubs at their March meetings. It will also appear in The Record-Herald the first of April.

The Council plans a flower show workshop to be held May 12 at the Fish and Game Lodge. Mrs. Nell Hughes, an accredited Flower Show Judge, will demonstrate different arrangements using the Ohio Garden Manual Chapter 5, traditional exhibits as her topic. The demonstrations will begin promptly at 10 a.m. Members are requested to bring their own containers and flowers for the afternoon session for member participation. Members and guests are also asked to bring a sack lunch. Mrs. Hughes will give pointers on these arrangements and also answer questions. This is listed as a "Fun Day for Gardeners." This will be interesting, informative and fun.

The Council will cooperate with the Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary in planting flowers in the new courtyard at the hospital. The presidents of each garden club will form a committee to investigate further this project.

A brief meeting of the Council will be held during the "Fun Day" activities on May 12 to evaluate the workshop and make plans possibly for another later in the season.

All garden clubs in Fayette County are welcome to participate in this spring workshop. Make plans now to be at the Fish and Game Lodge on Thursday, May 12 at 10 a.m. with flowers, containers and a sack lunch for the all-day session with gardeners.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer, Fayette County contact chairman for Region 16, presided at the meeting.

Need for EMT explained to Welcome Wagon

The monthly meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club was held recently in the Main St., Mall. Guest speaker for the occasion was John Lachet of the Fayette County Life Squad.

Mr. Lachet showed the club the movie which demonstrated the need for a life squad. He also talked about the training program for EMT (Emergency Medical Technicians) and answered many questions.

Mrs. Warren Huber conducted the meeting when Mrs. Richard Glass and Mrs. John Heiby made reports.

Refreshments of heart-shaped cakes and punch were served to Mrs. Mike Lander, Mrs. Jack Lago, Mrs. Ralph Dolan, Mrs. Robert Snodgrass, Mrs. Glass, Mrs. Robert Munn, Mrs. Hank Shafer, Mrs. Bill Tippet, Mrs. Bob Yates, Mrs. Bate Middlebrook, Mrs. Steve Reiter, Mrs. Bill Katenkamp, Mrs. Dennis Wollam, Mrs. Huber, Mrs. Heiby, Mrs. Mike McCormick, Miss Shirley Fenter, Mrs. Rose Ella Lachet and Ms. Larry Lawrie.

SALMON PIE — It's thrifty because only a small can of salmon is used in its filling.

Salmon pie can be thrifty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

One of the best ways we know to stretch a small can of salmon is to use it in a pie that makes a lovely main dish for lunch or supper. When we tried the following recipe with the deep red Sockeye variety of salmon, we found the delightful flavor of the fish permeated the filling.

We also found that, served at lunch, all the Salmon Pie needed to accompany it was a salad of greens tossed with olive oil, wine vinegar, salt and pepper. For supper service you might like to accompany it with a steamed green vegetable and crisp cole slaw.

One caution: be sure to follow our directions and let the pie "sit" before cutting so you can remove wedges neatly. After we took the pie out of the oven, we put it on a counter near the range; even after a half-hour wait, it was quite hot enough to be enjoyable — and we like our hot food served hot!

SALMON PIE

Margarine Pastry, see below
Milk
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1/4 cup finely diced green pepper
1 small scallion, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour

MERRY MAIDENS 4-H

The Merry Maidens 4-H club held its organization meeting recently at the Madison Mills Grade School following school dismissal. Mrs. Marcy showed slides of the past year's activities.

Cheryl Blue, retiring president, opened the meeting by asking Lisa Melvin to lead the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H Pledge. Cynthia Blue gas the inspirational thought by reading a poem entitled "The Snow" by Henry Beer. Cheryl read a letter received thanking the group for the donation of money and canceled postage stamps saved for the Bald Eagle Fund in the Bicentennial Year.

Mrs. Melvin told of the officer's responsibilities pertaining to the club program. Cheryl and Lisa led the group in the election of officers. The club officers are: President — Cynthia Blue; vice-president — Brenda Delay; secretary — Pam Hollar; treasurer — Cheryl Blue; news reporter — Coleen Blue; safety leader — Angie Autry; health leader — Jodi Huff; historian, Caren Mowery; and recreational leaders, Carol Bihl and Julie Hidy.

The next meeting new officers will be installed at the Madison Mills Grade School. Jodi Hanawalt and Susan Payne volunteered refreshments.

PERRY PEPPY FARMERS 4-H

The first meeting of the Perry Peppy Farmers was held at Max Carson's house on February 21, 1977. The meeting came to order under last year's secretary Sue Mitchell. Pledges were given by Bruce Carson (the American Pledge) and Danny Wehner (the 4-H Pledge). We then decided to elect officers this meeting. Officers are as follows: President: Mike Wehner; vice-president: Randy Hinkley; secretary, Anna Wehner; treasurer: Sue Mitchell; news reporter: Monica Wehner; Senior health and safety: Kathy Mitchell, Jr.; health and safety: Teresa Gross; recreation: Joe Vanddyke; Kris Clouse and Todd Fox.

New Business discussed dues and had a motion for $2.00 per person. Family of five pays $6.00. The motion was approved. Dues are to be in by the end of March. We also discussed the lamb banquet which is March 10, when all members who take sheep are welcome to attend. Then we had a discussion on a money making project. We are going to raffle something off. The next meeting is at Gary Garrison's house, March 14 at 7:30 p.m. Meeting closed by Monica Wehner, seconded by Danny Wehner.

Mrs. Graham is honored

Mrs. Leora Graham was pleasantly surprised when members of her family and friends gathered in the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Graham, 736 E. Temple St., to honor her birthday.

Guests present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bussert of Harrisburg; Mr. Paul Bussert, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Presnell of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. John Graham and son, Brian of Cincinnati; Mrs. Sarah Haines, Miss Debbie Haines, Mrs. Bessie Reeves, Owen Reeves, Robert Graham, Miss Barbara Moore, and Tim Graham.

An afternoon of visiting was enjoyed and cake and fruit punch were served.

Names omitted

The names of Mrs. Chester Dean and Mrs. Shirley Storer were omitted from the report given The Record-Herald in the story of those present at the layette shower given for Mrs. Terry Newman and new infant daughter, January Lyn by Kathy Hart and Diane Thompson, hostesses.

Esther Circle has new officers

Seven members of the Esther Circle of the Jeffersonville United Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Fred DeMent for the February meeting. Due to weather conditions, there was no January meeting.

During the election of new officers, Mrs. DeMent was announced leader; Mrs. Vida Streitenberger, assistant leader; Miss Margaret Smith, secretary; Mrs. John Wright, treasurer; and Mrs. Emma Roush, sunshine chairman.

The program was presented Mrs. Clyde Rings and Mrs. George Reedy. First, Mrs. Rings presented her theme, "Call to Prayer and Self Denial" and the "Worlds of Women." All repeated the Lord's Prayer in unison, and Mrs. Reedy led the Pledge service, for which the theme was "Lord What Can I Do?"

Each made a pledge and a contribution was made to the World Day of Prayer to be held Friday, March 4, at the church.

Announcement of the United Methodist Women's regular meeting for 2 p.m. March 2 was also made.

Mrs. Rings closed with prayer and a dessert course was served by Mrs. Dement and Miss Smith.

Zeta Upsilon Chapter meets

Mrs. Jack Elliott presented the topic "Esthetics-Perception of Beauty" when the members of Zeta Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Steve Lewis on Feb. 22.

Reports were made by the social committee concerning the husband's social for March 19; the ways and means committee for the March 8 plant auction; and the Easter Egg Hunt planned for members' children.

Mrs. Don Jones and Mrs. Bruce Houghton served a dessert course to Mrs. Willis Geyer Jr., Mr. Bob Snodgrass, Mrs. Bill Tippet, Mrs. Doug Grubb, Mrs. Ralph Dolan, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Robert Knecht and Mrs. Warren Huber.

Busy Bee Club hears reviews

The Busy Bee Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Bernice Janes, and the meeting was opened by Mrs. Rowena Cummins, who read "Winter." Miss Helen Fults gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Janice Creamer the treasurer's report, and read "Song for a Winter Day." Members answered roll call by naming a "flower Garden they would like to visit."

Mrs. Cummins gave the first report on "Flowers and Gardens of England." She told about the "Royal Botanist Gardens of Kew" at Richmond on the Thames not far from England; the Wisley Gardens about 30 miles north of London; and the Chelsea Flower Show held annually the third week in May with exhibitors from all over the world.

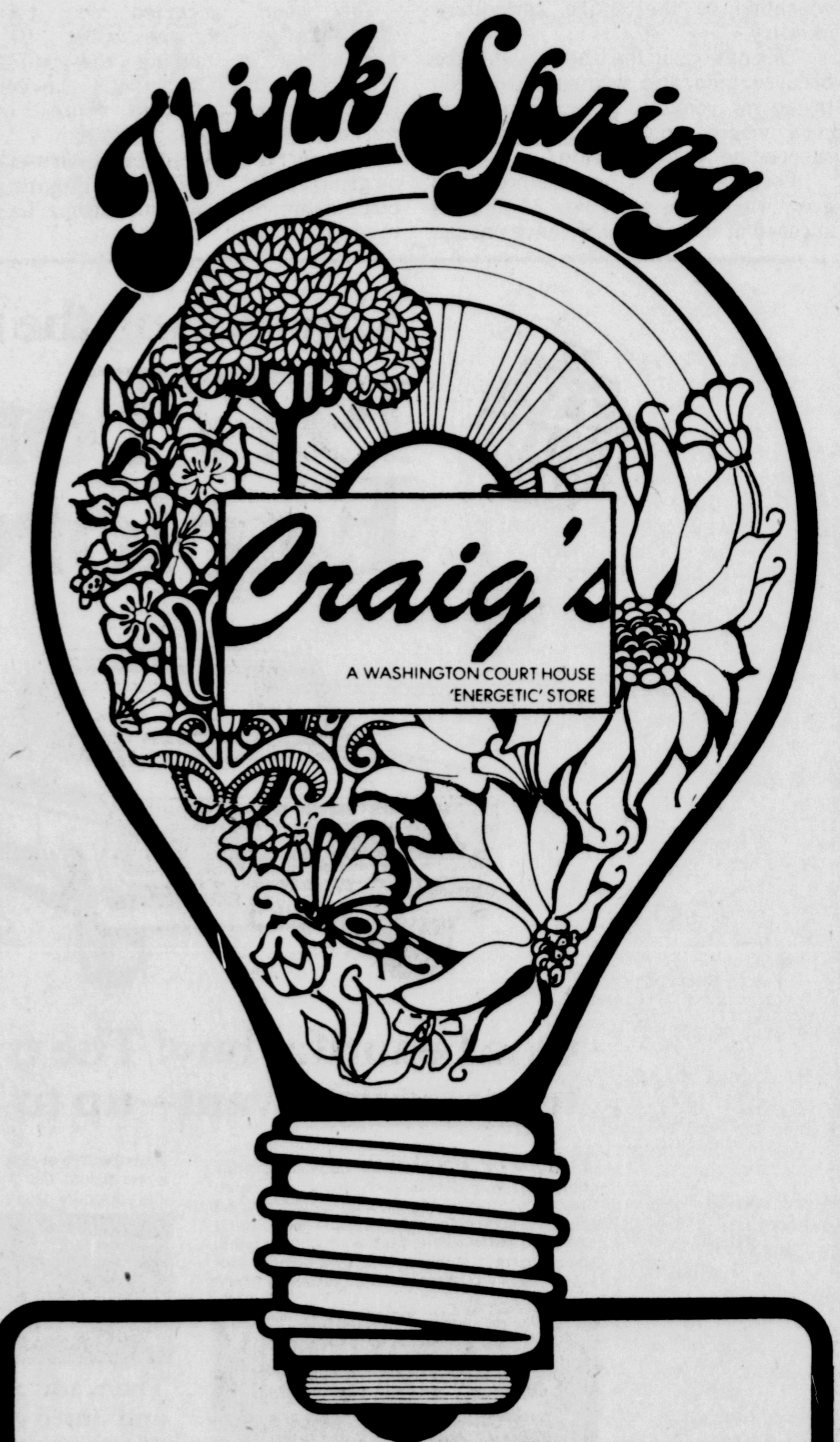

Mrs. Janes presented the next part of the program which was slides on Flower Gardens of Canada. These gardens were Hillcrest Park, Thunder Bay, Ontario; Fountain Lake, Assiniboine Park in Winnipeg, Manitoba; the Capital Regina in Saskatchewan; Ann Hathaway Cottage, Victoria, British Columbia and the Bushardt Gardens.

Mrs. Creamer closed the session by reading "Winter's Over," and Mrs. Cummins read "Winter Days." All repeated the club prayer.

The hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Dale Davidson, Mrs. Ruth Sheeley, Miss Fults, Mrs. Creamer and Mrs. Cummins.

Ohio Perspective

State split over energy pinch

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans in the northern part of the state tend to take energy and environmental problems more seriously than their southern counterparts, a survey conducted just before the current energy crisis set in shows.

The survey, made for the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency by William B. Moreland, an Ohio State University research associate, was turned over to ERDA earlier this week.

ERDA commissioned the survey to glean attitudes of Ohioans and hopes to put the information to use in changing the way residents view the problem of conserving the state's dwindling energy reserves, especially natural gas.

Rural residents questioned during the survey tended, on the question of Ohio's most serious problem, to side with the north. Twenty-two per cent of the rural population sampled cited energy.

In the Cleveland area, 26 per cent mentioned energy as the most serious problem facing the state.

The number of respondents naming energy drops off significantly, the survey shows, in the south. In Columbus and Cincinnati only 10 per cent of those polled listed energy as the

No. 1 problem confronting Ohio.

The north-south trend reversed itself, the survey notes, in the case of Akron and Dayton. Akron respondents more nearly reflected the southern attitude while those polled in Dayton seemed more attuned to the Cleveland attitude.

Leaving aside the question of what problem seems to be the worst, the pollsters then asked those responding to evaluate the seriousness of the energy problem for both Ohio and the United States.

In each section of the state, persons responding to the poll felt the energy problems of the United States as a whole were greater than those of Ohio.

In the rural sector, 38 per cent said it felt the national energy problem was very serious while only 29 per cent of that sector said the same for Ohio.

The drop in the appraisal of the seriousness of the national situation as compared to the Ohio problem was roughly equivalent except in Akron where 48 per cent called the country's problem very serious while 45 per cent said the same for Ohio's outlook.

Conservation measures taken by Ohioans also, the survey shows, follows the north-south split with rural residents reflecting the northern attitude.

In rural areas, the survey found that 60 per cent to 70 per cent have taken measures to prevent heat loss from homes. The same was found in the northern cities, while less than a majority of those surveyed in the south had taken the same measures.

In response to the statement "Deregulation of Natural Gas will Assure Supplies," only the rural sector agreed more often than disagreed. There 41 per cent agreed while 39 per cent disagreed.

Elsewhere in the state a larger percentage disagreed, with agreement and disagreement equal in Dayton at 43 per cent.

Tax revolt under way

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Elyria pharmacist John "Jack" McCurry says he's following the lead of a Michigan group refusing to pay federal income taxes in a protest, and he hopes other Ohioans follow his lead.

McCurry says he is protesting the pay increases congressmen voted for themselves, as well as for judges and some top government officials.

He said he thought there should have been a floor fight over the 28.9 per cent pay raise for members of the Senate and House. Pay increases for federal judges and high-ranking government officials were estimated at 7.1 to 47.6 per cent.

McCurry said he is putting income tax withholdings for himself and seven employees into escrow. The deductions amount to $644 a month, he said, adding that "the interest I will get from the money in the bank will pay the penalty the government will put on me for being late."

"I know they will come after me with penalties for being late, but I am ready and willing to take that risk," he said.

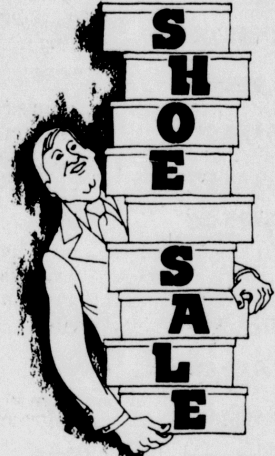

He said he didn't like the government shoving things down the taxpayers' throats.

'Confederate Yankees' love work

By AUSTIN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Being a Union cavalry officer in the Deep South is fun, says Robert Williams, despite its drawbacks.

Williams is commanding officer of D Company, 2nd Maine Cavalry, a horseless unit that fought make believe battles at Gettysburg, Atlanta and Knoxville, waged the Red River campaign, looted an antebellum plantation and molested its mistress — smiling at television cameras all the while.

The 2nd Maine is a group of otherwise unremarkable men who invested about

$1,200 apiece in outfitting themselves as authentically as possible in Civil War garb, complete with muzzle-loading weapons, oldstyle mess kits, bedrolls, tents — even hand-carved dice and tintype pornographic pictures.

At the blat of a bugle, they and similar groups across the country charge off to re-enact the great battles of the Civil War.

Williams, 29, says there's more to his hobby than just playing soldier. "We're sort of living history. There's an awful lot of research involved. And it's good family activity. The wives get involved in making the uniforms and their own period costumes."

Williams said his unit travels to battle in groups, spending about $300 a year apiece for gas and provisions.

"We go in cars, vans, trailers, recreational vehicles. But once we get there, it's all authentic. We take the equipment out of the vehicles and move them off the field. In cold weather, you can use sleeping bags, just as long as they're covered by blankets."

Not everybody shares the passion for authenticity, he says.

"There's always someone who shows up in a grey Sears work shirt with yellow felt sewn on it, carrying a thermos bottle and dragging a cooler. We call them 'Farbs' or 'Hooples.' I haven't the slightest idea what the names mean — just general terms of derision."

NEW ASSOCIATE — Mrs. Jane Heltterbrand, Rt. 2, Leesburg, has joined the staff of McNeil Real Estate, Greenfield, as a sales associate. Mrs. Heltterbrand, the former Jane Teeters, was graduated from Hillsboro High School. She and her husband, Philip have two children and reside on Fishback Road, near New Martinsburg. She plans to handle the sale of farm and residential property in the tri-county area.

Letters from R-H readers

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
Small Fayette County farmers take heed! If you own a farm of less than 30 acres it will cost you $16.00 to have it reappraised as agricultural land for taxing purposes. There are other almost impossible stipulations on 30 acres or less of agricultural producing land. The deadline to make such application is Monday, March 7, 1977.

A.R. Rankin

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
I am 12 years old and in the sixth grade at the Washington Middle School. I think that if the paper says: Washington Middle School Honor Roll, that the sixth grade should be in, too. After all, we're part of the Middle School too, aren't we?

Rick Dobbins
412 E. Market St.

EDITOR'S NOTE: You sure are a part of the Middle School, Rick, but you'll have to consult school officials on the reason for not including the sixth grade in the honor roll listings.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:
As parents of a Miami Trace biddy basketball player, we would like to take this opportunity to let off a little steam in regard to this year's cancellation of the biddy games.

First of all, there was never a valid explanation given as to why the games had to be cancelled. The boys only had five scheduled games to play. We just feel that whomever is responsible for the decision to cancel had no regard at all to the time spent transporting the boys to and from practices (4 nights a week-some weeks), the gasoline consumed, and all the sore muscles the boys incurred. These games meant just as much to the little guys as it does for the high school players. Furthermore, most high school players drive themselves to practice.

Secondly, the pacification to the parents in the form of letting the boys perform at half time during the Trace game was a farce! The parents and family had to pay admission to get to see their son perform for a mere 10 minutes. We can only speak of course for our son, but I'm sure most of the parents would have gladly paid that amount every game to see at least a game and not an exhibition. The time allotted was just enough for the boys to be totally confused and under the circumstances, they could have well been hurt. An announcement was never made that the biddy team would perform at half time, so you could well imagine the confusion as the fans left their seats to go for refreshments and the boys came running onto the floor.

We just feel it was handled without any consideration on the part of the parents, coaches, and the boys themselves. If the energy crisis was the decision maker, then why not to the reserve, varsity, and wrestling teams? We have spoken. Thank you.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Woodrow 2970 U.S. 22N.W.

"You get some funny looks when you go in a store and buy ungrounded coffee, so you just get it and go. It's no worse than walking into a South Carolina restaurant in a Yankee uniform."

D Company is mostly for ceremonial occasions—firing starting guns for steamboat races, for instance. But the company starred in a tea commercial for European TV — that's what occasioned the looting of the plantation and the accompanying mischief.

Williams was drafted into the Union army in 1964 when a halftime show at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., ran short of Yankees. He was covering the event as a reporter for his high school paper and wound up carrying ammunition for artillery pieces.

He joined the 2nd Maine in Florida. His involvement continued through college in Nashville, Tenn., and he organized a company of the 2nd Maine after transferring to the University of New Orleans.

Later, he found the 2nd Maine was particularly suited to be a New Orleans unit. Between battles, he works for a construction firm.

By The Associated Press
The mild weather of the past few days was to continue today, accompanied by rain throughout Ohio. The National Weather Service warned that some rivers in northern Ohio have the potential for flooding because of ice jams.

The mild weather has removed practically all of the snow cover but showers could add to the waters backing up behind the jams. The weather service said the greatest threat now is in northeastern Ohio where the highest probability of showers remains.

A cold front moved into the western part of the state today, easing the chance of showers there. Improvement was expected in eastern Ohio after the cold front moved to the east this afternoon.

Highs today were expected to range in the 50s in northern Ohio to the 60s in the south, dropping back into the 30s tonight.

A strong air flow around a storm center moving north through Minnesota touched off strong gusty winds across Ohio today.

Some showers are possible Friday over the northern third of the state.

Temperatures will reach the upper 40s north to the 50s south, which is cooler than today's predictions, but still above normal.

Extended outlook for Ohio, Saturday through Monday: a chance of showers Saturday and over north half Sunday. Fair Monday. Highs in the 40s. Lows mostly in the 30s early Saturday then in the upper 20s and lower 30s early Sunday and Monday.

Cincy may sue EPA for 'failure'

CINCINNATI (AP) — A city councilman has called on Cincinnati to take the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to court for what he calls a failure to protect the city's drinking water supplies.

Springer said he planned to ask the City Council today to file suit against the federal agency for alleged violations of the Safe Drinking Water Act.

The action comes in the wake of the passage by the city of a 70-ton chemical slug of carbon tetrachloride. The chemical was discharged from a point somewhere on the Kanawha River in West Virginia, EPA officials believe.

"I think in granting a license to pollute the river without establishing serious monitoring procedures, the EPA went against the interests of the law," said Springer, who said he has gathered considerable support for his proposal.

"I think the courts should decide this issue."

The councilman said he believed that the burden should be on the industry to prove that it is not polluting.

Four companies have been granted permits by the federal government to discharge certain amounts of carbon tetrachloride. They are responsible for monitoring their own discharges, with periodic EPA checks.

Since the discovery of the slug last Friday, the EPA monitoring efforts have been increased.

Deputies check dog bite report

Fayette County sheriff's deputies investigated a dog-bite report in Jeffersonville Wednesday.

Given Houseman told deputies that he was walking near his home at the corner of Walnut and Maple streets, when he was bitten by a neighbor's dog.

Deputies advised Houseman to contact Dr. Hugh Payton and reported the incident to the Fayette County dog warden.

JOHN WALKER

PAM JOHNSON

LINDA MORRISON

Washington 'Seniors of the Week'

Our first featured senior of the week is John Howard Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Walker. He lives with his parents at 534 Damon Drive.

John has been enrolled in the college preparatory curriculum for the past four years. His subjects this year are Drama, Literature, Trigonometry, English Composition, American Government, Physics, and English Literature.

John's main interests are chess and reading. He is also very active in school-sponsored clubs.

This year he is vice president of the Hi-Y Club after serving as the club's treasurer last year. He also belongs to the American Field Service Club, the Chess Club, and the National Honor Society. He has also been selected for the "In the Know" team for the second year in a row.

Being president of the senior class, John is also a representative to the Student Council.

John appears to be very interested in law. He has participated in the Youth In Government program for the past three years. He has recently announced his candidacy for the state office of Chief Justice in the Ohio Youth In Government competition scheduled this spring in Columbus.

Academic honors have been numerous for John. Being extremely proficient in the social studies field, John was a finalist in the Ohio University American History test. His sophomore year, John finished first in his district on a similar test.

He has attended Buckeye Boys State and he is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

John would like to further his education by majoring in business administration in college.

Carol Beth Bryant is also a featured Senior of the Week. She resides at 654 MacArthur Way with her parents, Howard and Joyce Bryant. With her sister, Roxanne, no longer at home, Carol has found what it's like being the only child at home.

Carol is enrolled in the College Prep Program. She is taking English Literature, English Composition, Family Living, Typing II, Shorthand II, and is non-majoring in Home Economics this year.

She has been a member of the AFS

Club, band, the Sunburst staff the Blue Lines, 4-H Club and the girls softball team.

Among Carol's numerous hobbies and interests, are horseback riding, swimming, bike riding, amusement parks, and, above all, being with friends.

"Get involved in as many school activities as possible and learn as much as you can, because all too soon your high school years will be over. I've had fun in my high school years, and I'll miss seeing my friends everyday, yet I'll be glad when it's all over," Carol said.

Pam Johnson is another of this week's featured seniors. She resides at 103 Ohio Ave. with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson, and her brother, Craig, 6, and her sister, Joni, 15. She also has two brothers, Randy, 23, and Mark, 21, who live away from home.

Pam is scheduled in college courses this year among her classes are American Government, Algebra, English Literature, and Composition, and Family Living. She has also been active in other school organizations such as Sunburst, Y-Teens, AFS, and

Student Council.

Pam was elected to several club offices during her years. Her freshman year she served as treasurer for Student Council and she is now serving as secretary for that organization. This year she was chosen as treasurer for Y-Teens. Her junior year, she was chosen to represent her class during our Homecoming Activities.

Bike riding, roller skating, ice skating, camping, and watching all Blue Lion sports are some of Pam's hobbies.

As to the future, Pam is still unsure of what she would like to do.

The final senior of the week is Linda Morrison. She resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison at 319 N. Fayette St. Besides having Linda, at home, they have another side of Linda — her twin sister, Brenda.

Linda is enrolled in the college preparatory program in school. She is taking government, Trigonometry, English Composition, English Literature, Home Economics, and Social Psychology.

Miss Morrison is involved in AFS, Y-Teens, and Hi-Y. She was vice-president of Student Council her freshman year, and treasurer of the junior class last year.

In her spare time Linda enjoys making string art and just simply having a good time.

In future years Linda can be found at Ohio State University majoring in Psychology.

As a final comment to the underclassmen Linda left us with this advice, "Make your last year your best year, and don't worry what others think of you."

Lion of the Week follows cage team

Our honored Lion of the Week is Danny Rogers. Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rogers of 1120 N. North St.

Danny is the most faithful fan that the Blue Lion basketball team has. He's like a gypsy with a caravan, following his team no matter where it goes and no matter what the cost.

As a matter of fact, last week it almost cost him his seat. He was so involved with the Bexley-Washington C.H. game, that he completely forgot himself and ended up having a few words with the referee. He tried, fellows.

Danny's favorite games of the entire season are those with Miami Trace. He looks forward to these games the whole week with great anticipation. Leading the fans in cheers of "defense, defense," Danny can be heard everywhere.

We would like to congratulate Danny on his faithfulness to the team.

The Blue Lines

WSHS senior to join Army

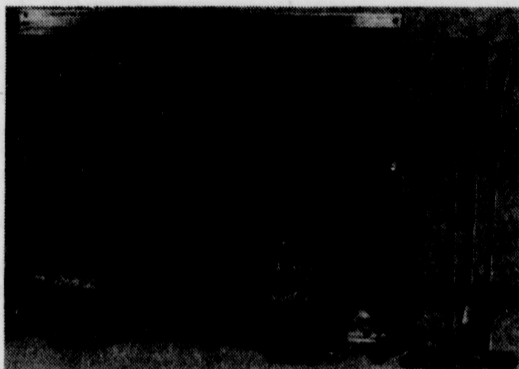

Ronnie Dean Vance, a senior at Washington Senior High School, has enlisted in the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP). Vance will go on active duty with the Army on Aug. 9.

Vance is currently majoring in auto mechanics and is in his second year at Laurel Oaks' Joint Vocational School. Following seven weeks of basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., he will go into advanced individual training at the same post.

Not only athletes aid teams

By MIKE QUALLS

There are members of athletic teams that are seldom recognized but work just as hard in their own way as any other member of "the team." These people are the trainers, managers, and the statisticians.

The trainers of an athletic organization are responsible for diagnosing and treating minor injuries of the players. This may sound easy but sometimes it is not very easy to distinguish between a bad bruise and a slight fracture.

To do this job effectively, the trainer (Russell Lindsay) must have a very well equipped training room. In fact, WSHS has one of the best equipped high school training rooms in this part of Ohio.

Among the equipment, there is a paraffine bath, which is used for treating bruises, strains, pulls, and fractures around the ankle, knee, and the hand-forearm-elbow area; two whirlpools, and an ultrasound machine.

This machine produces sound waves that penetrate farther down into the flesh thus applying more heat to the wound. This machine is used mostly for sprained ankles and back injuries.

There is also a large ice machine which was donated to the athletic department by John Bane on behalf of the Washington C.H. Park Association.

The managers and statisticians make up the remainder of the behind-the-scene participants of an athletic team.

The managers (Mike Cleary, Greg Baily, Jimmy Conley, and Steve Wilson) are responsible for making sure that all of the equipment (balls, extra uniforms and socks, etc. . .) and water gets to each game.

The statisticians (Sandy Spears, Jo and Lu Brown, Robyn Leslie, Rosy O'Flynn, Sally Robinson and Maggie Owen) are responsible for the keeping of statistics of each individual player and game.

Barbells keep Lion athletes busy

What do football players and baseball players have in common?

Give up? Well, it's winter weightlifting.

Coach Paul Ondrus, who is head football and baseball coach at Washington Senior High School, is administering the program this year.

Earlier this week, Coach Ondrus said, that at the beginning of this program they started with about 60 people, and now there are only 40 people left. The most recent dropout was David Smith, who was forced to quit due to an eye injury.

There is a slight change this year than there has been in the past. This year the guys are using free weights, which are more commonly known as barbells. The difference is, that in the past they used a machine to lift on.

This change may make a difference in future years. So, good luck coach!

Carter backs spy committee slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite intense lobbying by President Carter and Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Congress seems unlikely to make sharp reductions in the number of committees with access to intelligence secrets.

The best prospects for some consolidation of committees with access to secret information appear to be in the House of Representatives.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, chairman of the International Relations Committee, expressed quick agreement Wednesday with Carter's suggestion that too many people know too much about U.S. intelligence operations.

O'Neill and Zablocki said they would support creation of a House intelligence committee that would become the principal recipient of intelligence briefings.

The Senate created an intelligence committee last year. But the chairman of that panel said he sees no way of keeping information about CIA operations from members of the Appropriations, Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees.

Carter told congressional leaders

Tuesday that he is concerned that seven congressional panels have access to CIA secrets.

He repeated that concern in a nationally broadcast news conference on Wednesday. In addition, Mondale discussed the problem with O'Neill over lunch on Wednesday.

At his news conference, the second since he became President, Carter was asked about published reports that the CIA paid millions of dollars over a 20-year period to King Hussein of Jordan.

Carter declined to comment on the specific allegation but he said CIA covert operations are being reviewed and "I have not found anything illegal or improper."

The President went on to say he thought there was need for "some degree of secrecy" in the handling of intelligence information and said he is working closely with congressional leaders in an effort to reduce the number of people with access to such material.

He told congressional leaders on Tuesday that he had reduced from 40 to five the number of executive branch officials with access to details of CIA covert operations.

Zablocki, a Wisconsin Democrat who became chairman of the International Relations Committee this year, said that if a House intelligence committee is created he would be willing to give up some of his panel's access to CIA secrets.

Present law requires the CIA to brief House and Senate foreign relations, armed services and appropriations committees, or their appropriate subcommittees, on all covert operations. The seventh committee on that list is the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, told reporters he doesn't believe it would be proper to limit access to intelligence secrets to just one Senate and one House committee. Inouye's statements came shortly after his panel had endorsed the nomination of Adm. Stansfield Turner to head the CIA.

While neither the President nor members of Congress would confirm the reports of CIA payments to Hussein, Inouye and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd indicated they support such activities.

On other matters, Carter said:

—He still believes the defense budget can be reduced by $5 billion to $7 billion but he would not be pinned down to a specific time period for achieving such a reduction.

—He will send Congress early next week his proposal for creation of a new Department of Energy and will probably unveil his over-all energy program before a joint session of Congress on April 20.

—He is considering asking Congress to deregulate natural gas prices for a period of from four to five years "to see how it works out."

—His own personal preference would be for Canada to remain united "and that there not be a separate Quebec province. But that is a decision for the Canadians to make."

—The United States is working with Great Britain in an effort to find a basis for a negotiated settlement of remaining issues blocking peaceful transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia.

—He thinks Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's recent Middle East trip was "very successful." The President plans to meet in Washington with leaders of Israel and the Arab states starting early in March when Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is due in Washington.

—He personally favors public financing of all federal elections in the same manner used for the 1976 presidential election.

Congress favors economic stimulus; questions linger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy majorities in both houses of Congress are now on record in favor of tax cuts and increased federal spending to boost the economy. The next question is how to do it.

First the Senate, on a 72-20 roll call, and next the House, 239 to 169, voted to amend the budget for the current fiscal year to allow tax reductions and spending hikes. But those votes did not commit the lawmakers to any specific plan to prime the economy.

However, the House, before amending the budget on Wednesday to allow a stimulus plan of up to $16.4 billion, indicated it prefers a one-shot rebate plan, such as the $50 per person advocated by President Carter, instead of a permanent tax cut.

By a vote of 258 to 148, the House rejected a Republican plan to reduce individual tax rates permanently by 15 per cent. The GOP, led by Rep. John Rousselot of California, argued that the nation has persistently high unemployment because "excessive tax rates ... deter employment and investment."

Democrats called the GOP tax plan a classic example of the trickle-down theory of economics in which money spent by the wealthy is expected to eventually benefit low-income workers.

The House budget amendment of $16.4 billion compares to $15.5 billion that Carter recommended and $17.2 billion approved by the Senate.

There are two key differences between the House and Senate versions:

—The House plan envisions tax rebates or cuts for taxpayers and special bonuses to nontaxpayers totaling $12.7 billion, compared to $13.8 billion in the Senate. The House version accounts for changes in the Carter tax plan already approved by the Ways and Means Committee.

—The House added $215 million more than the Senate in special aid to help offset tax revenues lost by states, cities and counties because of the lagging economy and bad weather. The House plan totals $1 billion, a figure that reportedly is supported by Carter.

In addition to the tax cuts and special aid to state and local governments, here is how the plan envisioned by a majority of the House would work over the next seven months:

—$700 million for public-service jobs, such as in hospitals and jails. The aim is to expand from the current limit of 310,000 jobs to 600,000 over the next seven months and to 725,000 in 1978. Carter and the Senate recommended the same amount.

—$60 million for the job-opportunities program, which involves 12-month jobs on local economic-development projects funded partly by the federal government. Neither Carter nor the Senate recommended this.

—$500 million more to start construction on such publicworks projects as schools and hospitals, the same as approved by the Senate. Carter asked for only $200 million more.

—$600 million for special employment training and jobs targeted for young and old Americans, who are hardest hit by unemployment. The Senate figure is the same; Carter asked for only $300,000.

—$800 million for construction of antipollution and recreation facilities and railroad and highway construction. The Senate approved the same amount; Carter made no such request.

—He thinks Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's recent Middle East trip was "very successful." The President plans to meet in Washington with leaders of Israel and the Arab states starting early in March when Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is due in Washington.

—He personally favors public financing of all federal elections in the same manner used for the 1976 presidential election.

For income-producing potential

Travel, tourism promoted by development department

Editor's Note: This is the last of four articles describing the work of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, the state agency charged with implementing a wide variety of programs to improve Ohio's business climate and create more and better jobs for Ohioans. This concluding article deals with travel and tourism and film services.)

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development (DECD), headed by director James A. Duerk, works in many areas of development to create jobs for Ohioans and bring revenue to the state. Travel and tourism and film services are specialized areas which have great job and income-producing potential for Ohioans.

PROMOTING TRAVEL

Tourism is big business and becoming bigger as more Ohioans and out-of-state travelers discover the wealth of scenic and historic sites, recreational and cultural facilities that abound in the Buckeye State. Tourism adds $2.8 billion annually to the state's economy, generates over 123,000 jobs, $595 million in payroll, and produces $159 million in state and local taxes, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center, Washington, D.C.

DECD's Office of Travel and Tourism works to develop an awareness, both statewide and nationally, of the many reasons for traveling in Ohio.

Visitors to Ohio numbered 48 million in 1975 and the number is even greater in this Bicentennial year. To serve these travelers, the Office of Travel and Tourism increased from three to 14 the number of tourist information centers located at rest areas on heavily traveled interstate and U.S. highways.

Three of the centers are open all year round. The rest are fully staffed during daylight hours in the summer. At the centers, motorists can get road directions or pick up literature describing nearby attractions and accommodations.

Since the first full week of operation in June, the centers have averaged almost 3,000 visitors each per week, serving more than 353,200 travelers for the season.

Tourists clearly want and need the service, Duerk said, citing the example of one center where the weekly visitor total more than doubled after the highway sign identifying it was posted.

In addition to keeping a tally of the number of travelers served, the information centers surveyed one out of every five persons on their destinations and reasons for stopping at the center. The travel office will follow up the survey to gain further insight on how the information service can be refined.

An array of 130 festivals this year justifies Ohio's nickname of "The Festival State." Many of Ohio's festival themes, especially around harvest time, read like a menu: Swiss cheese, bratwurst, sweet corn, melons, honey, tomatoes, apples, grapes, apple butter, sauerkraut and pumpkins. Others celebrate local products and handicrafts such as pottery, or feature farm machinery, boat races, antiques and local history.

Ohio's tourist attractions include three outdoor historical dramas: "Trumpet in the Land," the state's official Bicentennial play, at New Philadelphia; "Tecumseh," the epic of the Shawnee Indian chief's struggle to unite the Indian tribes, at Chillicothe; and "Gallia Country," the story of the French emigres and the southeastern Ohio counties they settled, at Rio Grande.

To inform people of the myriad events happening each week of the travel season, the travel office maintains a toll-free line (1-800-282-0250) which also carries reports of conditions at Ohio's seven ski resorts during the winter.

FILM LOCATION SITES

Ohioans recently recognized their state's potential in authentic film location sites that could be duplicated, if at all, only at huge expense in Hollywood studios. The realization of this new development potential came after Columbia Pictures filmed portions of "Harry and Walter Go To New York" at Mansfield and Columbus, leaving about $500,000 in revenue for caterers, actors, construction crews and others providing goods and services necessary for a major film production shooting on location.

The result is Ohio's newest development office, the Ohio Film Bureau, which has completed an extensive advertising campaign in the Hollywood press, made introductory calls on scores of officials in the film capital, compiled a directory of filming locations and services and is now negotiating for three films.

The Congo River and its tributaries are navigable for over 8,000 miles into central Africa, and pour 1,200,000 cubic feet of water into the Atlantic Ocean every second.

SAFETY AWARD — Peter J. Trepanier, general manager of the Armco Steel Corp. building systems division in Middletown, presents a National Safety Council award to James R. Hanawalt, manager of manufacturing at the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H., and Edward C. Vollette, special assistant to the general manager. The award was earned by the Washington C.H. plant employees who achieved a second place finish in the heavy fabricating division for the 1975-1976 contest period. During the period of the award, Hanawalt had been plant superintendent at the Washington C.H. plant and Vollette had been manager of manufacturing.

Buffalo Creek not forgotten

LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — Dr. J. S. Church has been receiving some sad but predictable phone calls, pleas for help from people who've looked at the calendar and seen a wall of dark water rushing toward them.

"I can always tell when we're getting near another anniversary," Church said recently. "The calls start coming in. It happens every year about this time."

A psychologist at the LoganMingo

Community Mental Health Clinic, he has worked with the survivors of the Buffalo Creek disaster for the past five years. In that time, Church has dealt with people who not only underwent the horrors of the flood but who later were tormented by fear and were torn by guilt for having survived while friends and loved ones were swept away.

"However, this so-called 'survivor syndrome' has been pretty well resolved," he said. "Most of the people we've seen here have been able to go back to their precrisis ability to cope."

But, he adds, the healing period not only has been terribly slow, it also has been accompanied, in many cases, by a chain of painful events. The fateful wave loosed when the Pittston Co.'s coal waste dam collapsed the morning of Feb. 26, 1972 — claiming 125 lives along Buffalo Creek and causing more than $50 million in damages — was followed by a wave of alcoholism, divorce and other generally destructive behavior.

Although time and modern medicine have helped heal these wounds, the scars still remain. They began to show each time February rolls around. Then, too, there still are cases where the wound remains open.

"Take my daughter, for instance," says Ailene Peters. "She has never gone to bed by herself since the day of the flood. Why, she won't even walk in there to the bathroom by herself, and she's 6 years old."

Ailene and Larry Peters live at Lorado, one of 16 coal camps strung along Buffalo Creek's winding waters. Their home is some 15 miles up the narrow valley from the spot where the creek empties into the Kuyanotte River at Man. Their community is the nearest to Pittston's infamous dams, just two miles on up.

The Peters were the second family to return to Lorado after the flood. Like many of their neighbors, they reside in a mobile home — on which they placed a down payment with the settlement money they received from Pittston.

Many other Buffalo Creek families made similar settlements with the coal company, whose officials had warned residents they would get no more by going to court. Two years ago, Pittston paid $13.5 million in settlement of a suit representing some 600 survivors. This came to something like $13,000 per person, before legal fees to Arnold & Porter, the Washington, D.C., law firm which handled the suit.

More recently, the state settled a $100 million damage suit for $1 million. Just last month, a group of 63 residents, who were children at the time of the flood, sued Pittston for $36 million. They alleged they had suffered permanent pain and anguish because of the company's negligence.

Industrial bill Goes to assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has sent the legislature a bill exempting industries switching from natural gas to alternative fuels, including coal, from the state tangible property and sales tax.

Rhodes said Wednesday in a letter to legislative leaders, accompanying his bill, that it also would provide for exemption of a portion of the corporate franchise tax for industries making the conversion.

He did not estimate the impact of revenue losses to state and local governments, but said "early enactment of the bill will be a step toward effective energy use, and the preservation of thousands of jobs."

Legislation eyes 'team' election

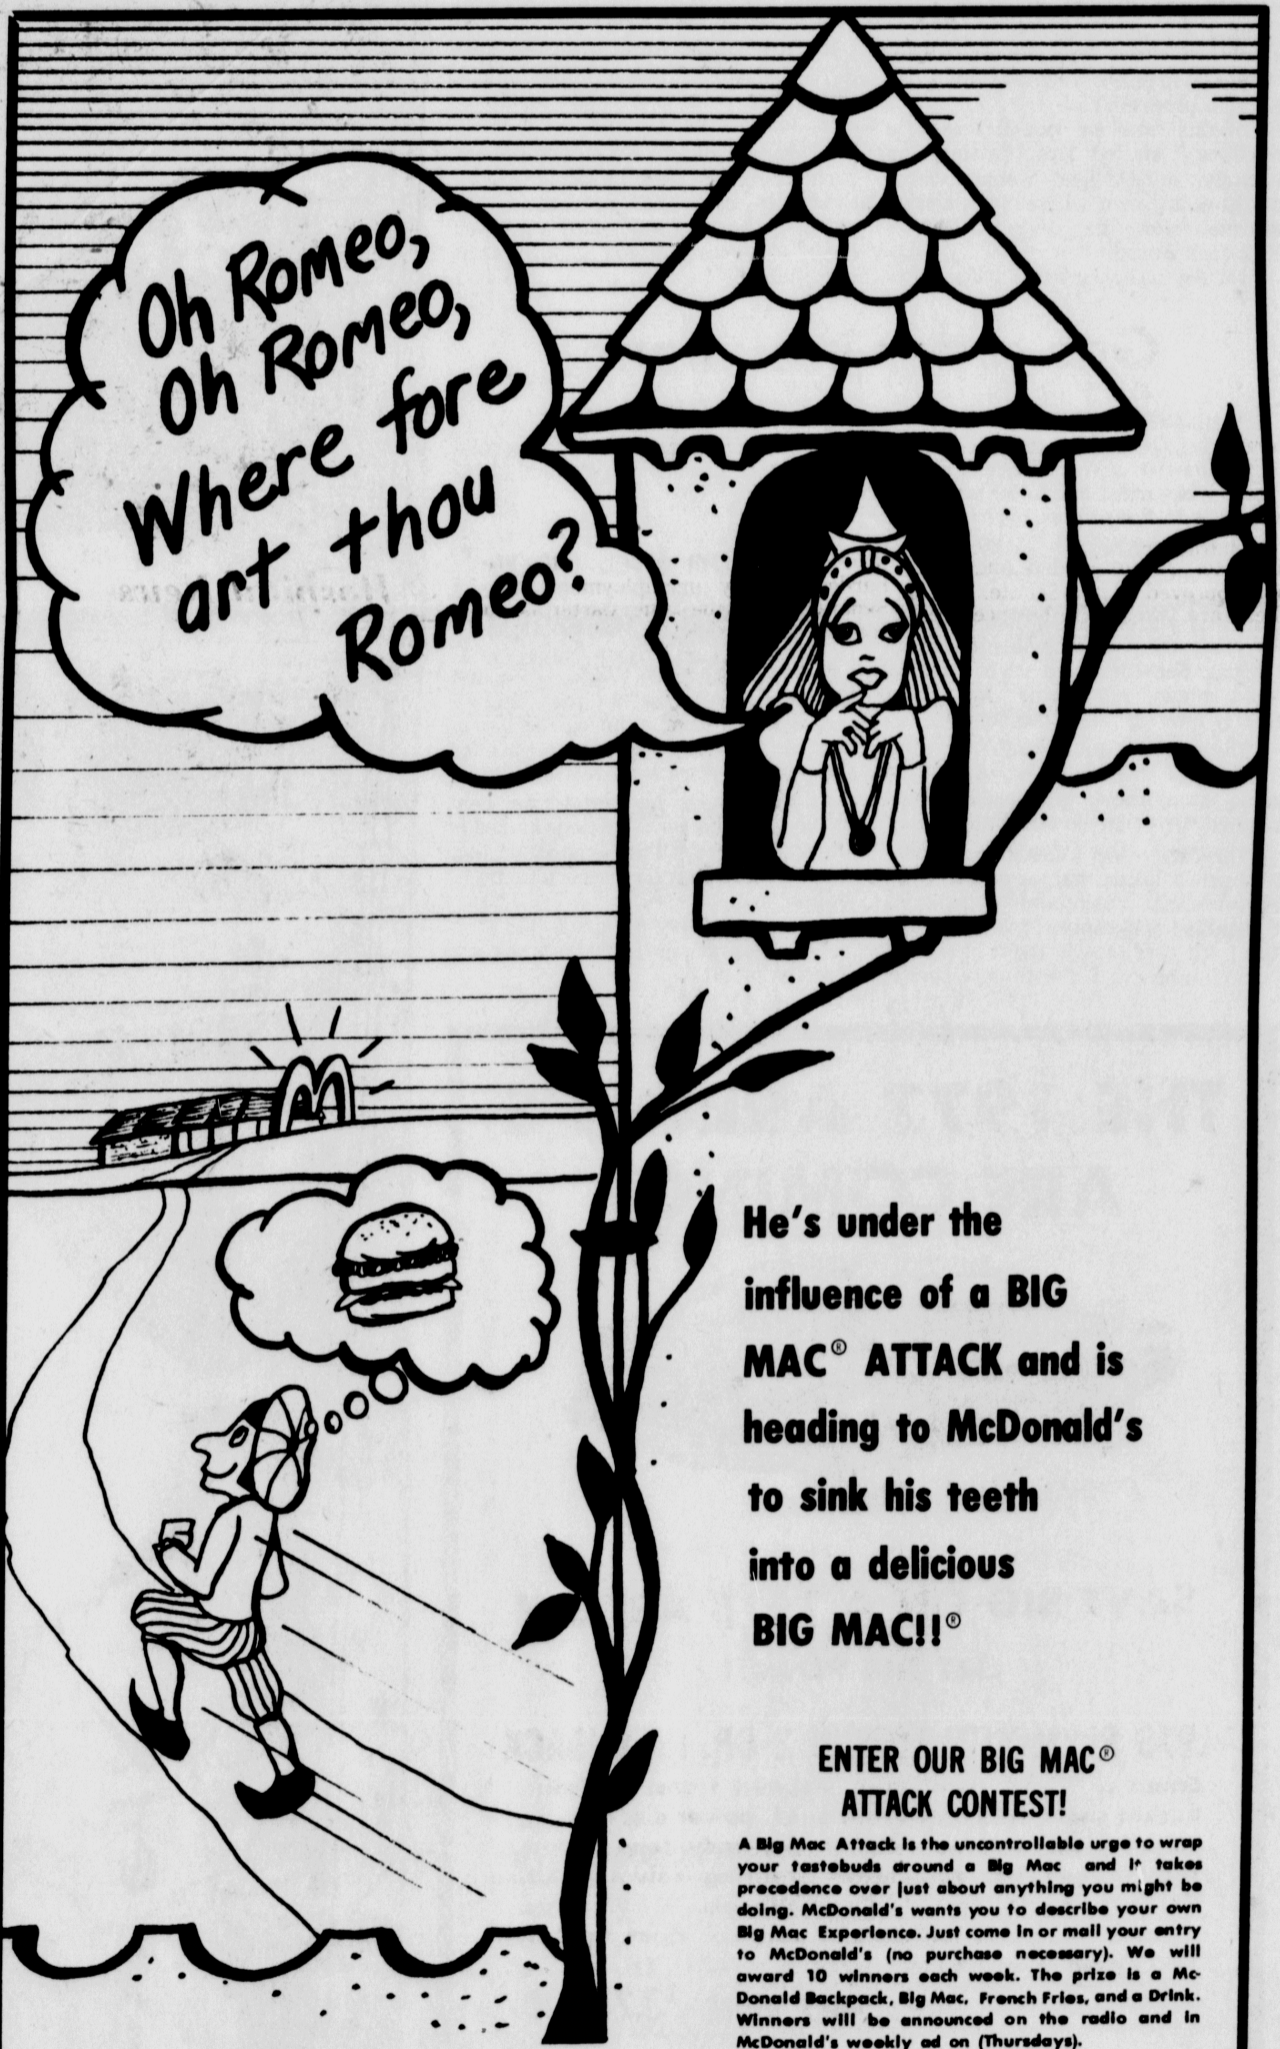

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation that would have the governor and lieutenant governor run as a team in Ohio's 1978 general election is now pending in the Ohio Senate.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, said the bill he introduced Wednesday would not alter the present practice of having the major political parties nominate the contenders separately in a statewide primary.

His bill is designed to implement a constitutional amendment calling for the tandem election of the two top officials. It was approved by voters in the June primary last year.

TV Viewing

BY JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight days, in eight cities, the national Parent-Teacher Association has held much-publicized hearings to see how roused the public is against TV violence and its possible effect on kids.

The last hearing with nearly 60 speakers, from CBS censor to social scientist to teacher, drew more than 600 persons at one point here Tuesday.

Now, Grace Baisinger and her colleagues on the 10-member PTA panel running the hearings will go home to sift through and study the mass of facts, figures, claims and counterclaims they've compiled.

From that, says Mrs. Baisinger, a Washington, D.C., housewife who is a first figures, claims and counterclaims they've compiled.

From that, says Mrs. Baisinger, a Washington, D.C., housewife who is a first vice president of the PTA, will come a report — she doesn't know when it'll be out — and an "action plan" on ways to curb TV violence.

Could the plan call for a national boycott of shows deemed excessively violent or sponsors who often advertise on such programs?

"At this time we wouldn't exclude anything," smiled Mrs. Baisinger, a friendly, middle-aged woman whose daughter is grown, whose husband is an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board.

"During the hearings we had calls for everything from throwing out the TV set to, as the Rev. Jesse Jackson — the Chicago civil rights activist — put it, holding demonstrations if everything else fails.

"But as to what actually will be recommended, we'll have to wait for the report."

A preliminary report on the hearings will be given the PTA's annual convention in nearby Anaheim, Calif., on May 15, she added.

Mrs. Baisinger, who said she attended all eight of the PTA's hearings, said "what we heard most frequently was, 'We're fed up with the quality of television — and violence in particular.'"

Okay, the PTA, the American Medical Association, the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting are among the major groups mobilizing to curb TV violence. But have they the support of average viewers?

Mrs. Baisinger said she thinks so, citing the large audiences and wide range of speakers she said have shown up the PTA's eight hearings.

But Roy Danish, director of the New York-based Television Information Office, the industry's public relations arm, has his doubts.

"This (violence in TV entertainment programs) has been an issue a long time," he said. "But not among the public, although it's certainly a greater issue among organized groups than ever before."

Gas order inhumane

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A Columbia Gas Co. order termed "inhumane" by a West Virginia health official has turned out to be just that, according to the utility.

Kanawha-Charleston Health Department Director Page Seekford's remark was directed at the utility's edict that state nursing homes could not move their thermostats above 65 degrees. Seekford said such a ruling could mean pneumonia for many elderly nursing home residents.

"The order is inhumane," he said. Columbia officials came up with the same assessment Wednesday. They blamed the order on a computer.

"They've (the nursing homes) received a letter that was sent to all commercial customers," said a Columbia spokesman in Columbus, Ohio. "It was sent to them in error."

Toledo shocks Central Michigan; Miami tossed into MAC top spot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Basketball coaches Dick Parfitt of Central Michigan and Bob Nichols of Toledo agreed: The Rockets aren't dead yet in the Mid-American Conference.

"Toledo is opening a door for themselves in the league race," Parfitt observed after the Rockets upset Central 69-61 Wednesday night.

"We still have a chance in this conference," Nichols said. The coaches spoke while the Eastern Michigan-Northern Illinois game was still in progress and unaware that the league-leading Huskies were being upended 75-70.

That vaulted Miami (10-3) back into the No. 1 spot by virtue of its 76-66 victory over Western Michigan, while Northern dropped into a second-place tie with Central Michigan, both 9-3, and Toledo climbed to just one game off the pace at 9-4.

Nichols noted that the Rockets can further enhance their revived title hopes "if we play as well as we're capable of" when they host Northern Illinois next Saturday.

Good second efforts turned out to be the key as Toledo overcame Central's sizzling 77 per cent shooting in the first half and 61 per cent for the game. The Rockets controlled the offensive boards 20-3.

"There was only one story to this game and it was the offensive boards," Parfitt said. "Toledo hit the boards hard and the ball bounced their way because they were aggressive. Hitting like we did in the first half we should have had a sizeable lead."

Central led 38-32 at the half, but Toledo outscored the Chippewas 9-2 at the start of the second period to take the lead and never trailed again.

Ted Williams poured in 30 points for the Rockets. Ben Poquette was top man for Central with 18.

Eastern Michigan's Hurons, who entered the game with only one victory in 12 MAC contests, forced Northern Illinois into overtime and then led throughout the period.

Bill Weaver, who was tops for the winners with 26 points, sank a 16-footer with four seconds left in regulation play to tie the game 61-61. Northern's Matt Hicks scored a game-high 27 points.

Miami had to battle from behind to kill the defending champion Broncos' flickering title hopes. The Redskins trailed until late in the second half when, led by substitute center Bernard Newman with 18 points, they scored 10 unanswered points to take command. Western (6-6) was led by Archie Alldridge with 19 points.

In the other MAC game played Wednesday night, Kent State finished strong to down Bowling Green 76-68, outscoring the Falcons 14-6 in the last seven minutes. The Golden Flashes, climbing into a threeway tie with Bowling Green and Ohio University for sixth place in the standings, were paced by Burrell McGhee with 26 points.

In other Ohio college basketball action Wednesday night, Xavier maintained its domination of cross-river rival Northern Kentucky 67-65 behind the 20-point performance of Dale Haarman.

Dudley Murphy pitched in 25 points to lead John Carroll to a 74-63 triumph over Presidents Conference foe Case Western Reserve.

Youngstown State humiliated Cleveland State 90-65 as Jeff Covington poured in 36 points.

Wright State whipped Akron 93-79 as Bob Schaefer and Bob Cook combined for 46 points, while Shawnee State edged Wilberforce 80-78.

'New Chris Evert' at age 14?

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Tracy Austin grinned, revealing a row of glistening braces on her teeth.

Her brownish hair was tied in pigtails, which fell to her shoulders. She nervously picked away at a bowl of vanilla ice cream and took gulps from a king-sized glass of milk.

"I am in a hurry to get home," she said. "I have so much school work to make up. I'm way behind on my algebra and I haven't had a chance to do any reading up on the Civil War. That's other studies."

"My other two subjects are English and Spanish. I don't have to work as hard on them."

Tracy is the newest wonder child of the mushrooming sport of tennis — already at the tender age of 14 being hailed as the "new Chris Evert."

"I don't think they should call me the new Chris Evert," she said, a blush showing behind her faceful of freckles. "I consider it a compliment. Chris is my idol. I like Billie Jean King, too. But I don't think you can compare me with anybody. I'm just me."

Who is "just me?" Tracy Austin is a phenomenal wisp of a girl, only five feet and an inch tall and weighing 90 pounds. A big gust of wind could blow her right off the court.

Yet she astounded the tennis world recently by knocking off Greer Stevens, an established player, and giving the veteran Rosemary Casals the fight of her life in a pro tournament in Los Angeles.

Tracy also has been beating opponents in the 18-year bracket, her latest triumph coming in a 6-3, 7-6 victory over topseeded Maren Louie of San Francisco Sunday at Port Washington, N.Y.

"She is amazing," said Julie Heldman, once third-ranked among U.S. women players. "She hits the ball harder than most women much older and much stronger. She is very fast on the court and is not afraid to take the net where she is an excellent volleyer."

Like Miss Evert, Tracy is a right-hander who hits a two-fisted backhand. Tracy is the spry of a tennis-playing family from Rolling Hills, Calif., a 45-minute freeway drive from Los Angeles. Her father, George, is in space technology and plays regularly with his wife, Jeanne. Tracy's older sister, Pam, 26, is on the tour, and her three brothers, Jeff, Doug and John, she says "all are better than I am."

The Austin family has some 400 tennis trophies strewn all over the place at home.

Although she plays in women's tournaments and qualifies for the rich purses, Tracy said she remains an amateur — a novelty in the current structure of the game.

"I give all the money back," she says. "So far this year I would have won $8,000 if I had taken the money. But I only take expenses."

Her plans are to finish high school, she said, and then perhaps turn professional, mixing tournament tennis with college.

"I don't care about money. I want to finish school and then I want to be No. 1 in the world."

Finley, Kuhn at it again

CHICAGO (AP) — He's sued Bowie Kuhn for $3.5 million and called him "the village idiot," but Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has amended that estimate of baseball's commissioner.

Finley now says Kuhn is "the nation's idiot" after the commissioner blocked, at least temporarily, his sale of pitcher Paul Lindblad to Texas.

Kuhn notified Finley Wednesday that the sale of the veteran reliever has been shelved until after a hearing next Wednesday in Dallas.

"Pending resolution of these two points, Lindblad will remain on the Oakland roster and should not work out or engage in any contract dealings with Texas," Kuhn said in a telegram from his New York office.

Finley wasted little time in blasting Kuhn again but said he and his attorney will attend the hearing "only because there is no telling what this man (Kuhn) might attempt to do." He said he planned a formal response to Kuhn today.

The man who bought Lindblad for $400,000, though, Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett, said he has no intention of meeting with Kuhn to discuss the sale.

Ron Pritchard ponders future

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ron Pritchard, a four-year starting linebacker for the Cincinnati Bengals, says he is not sure where he fits in the club's plans after undergoing a second knee operation in six months.

And the eight-year veteran said he would not be surprised if he were traded.

"As a tradeable commodity, I'd likely bring as much or more than anyone at linebacker without hurting the team," said Pritchard, who missed most of last season with a knee injury.

He said a change of scenery might be healthy for him.

Reds camp opens Friday

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, with a chance at becoming the first National League club to win three straight titles, open spring training in Tampa, Fla. Friday when an estimated 30 pitchers and catchers report.

Three of the pitchers are still unsigned. Starter Gary Nolan, one of the club's three 15-game winners; relief ace Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy are among five unsigned players on the 40-man roster.

Workouts for the battersmen, including a number of non-roster, begin Saturday. It will be the Reds' first look at newcomers Woody Fryman and Dale Murray, who were acquired from Montreal in exchange for slugger Tony Perez and reliever Will McEneaney.

Veterans Johnny Bench and Bill Plummer will be joined by minor leaguers Don Werner and Jeff Sovern. Manager Sparky Anderson has indicated he may keep a third catcher this year.

Cincinnati, the first National League team in 54 years to repeat as world champs, launch their 25-game Grapefruit League schedule beginning March 12 against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Unbelievably Believable.

The secret of the Aspen wagon's success goes beyond its appealing price. The fact is that it convinces you that it's a much bigger wagon than it really is. With a size all its own. A smooth ride. Plus plenty of room for its cargo... and comfort for its passengers. So, get all the facts straight. By driving, then buying or leasing, an Aspen wagon today.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for base six-cylinder Aspen wagon, including wheel covers and white sidewall tires, and excluding options, destination charges, taxes, and title fees.

Dodge Aspen. See it, price it, drive it at your Dodge Dealer's...and believe.

TRYING TO START SOMETHING?

Maybe a family? Or more of a family? The rewards of the winter winds may be surprising. However, if you don't think you should be looking for a bigger house or want to move from the country into town or from the city into the country, just never mind. It so happens we have a new residence just out at the edge of town, way out, on Dayton Avenue that may be worth your while. Pure country air is energy giving, don't know how much, but it sounds good. Right at this time our business could be better, in fact the last we had was wonderful. We are ready to buy, sell, trade, exchange, do the right thing or the wrong thing, we could try something.

Mary Hemingway's Life With Papa Is Engrossing

HOW IT WAS. By Mary Welsh Hemingway. Knopf. 537 Pages. $12.50.

Fifteen years after Ernest Hemingway's death, his widow tells of her tempestuous years as friend, companion and wife, the adventure, the hurt and the love.

Mary Welsh, child of the northern Minnesota lakes, was a war correspondent in London when she met Hemingway in 1944. Both were married to others at the time, but as Irwin Shaw told her: "A monopoly has just been born, you dummy."

The next year she followed Hemingway to Finca, his home in Cuba.

Her book, "How It Was," is meticulously detailed from her journals. She quotes from Hemingway's letters to her, having decided they were exempt from his stipulation that his correspondence never be published.

The whimsy is a bit heavy sometimes — Hemingway referred to women as "wimmies" and cats as "cotsies" — but the book is an engrossing amble through the lives of two strong-willed people. A long book, but you can't expect an interesting woman who has lived 68 years to zip them off in a slap-dash "wasn't-it-wonderful" reminiscence.

Once, when guests were present, Mary said something which angered Hemingway and he threw his wine in her face.

Later, she told him: "No matter what you say or do — short of killing me, which would be messy — I'm going to stay here and run your house and your Finca until the day when you come here, sober, in the morning, and tell me truthfully and straight that you want me to leave."

And, finally, there was that morning in 1961 when she was awakened by what sounded like "a couple of drawers banging shut" and went downstairs to find her husband of 15 years lying dead on the floor.

Mary Hemingway said at the time that her husband had accidentally shot himself. In her book, she says that was not a conscious lie. She simply could not admit that her beloved Papa had committed suicide.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How to Avoid a Stroke

I am 29 and in good health. My father and his brother both had strokes before they were 60. Although I'm not really frightened I do find that I have more than a moderate concern that this might happen to me. Are there any long-range programs that I should consider in order to avoid a stroke? — Mr. K.L.B., N.J.

The possibility that strokes may be hereditary is minimal. You, therefore, should have this cloud of fear dispelled by reassurance, from me and, particularly, from your own doctor.

Since you are in good physical health it is most important that you forget the threat of an inevitable stroke.

There are very definite, sensible ways that you can plan to continue enjoying good health. Much is known about the cause of strokes. When these causes are eliminated, the chances of stroke are markedly reduced.

Undetected and untreated high blood pressure is a common factor. Marked obesity, high cholesterol and triglycerides in the blood, and unrecognized diabetes increase the risks.

Tobacco is a most important factor in narrowing the blood vessels that lead to the brain.

Regular checkups by your physician, strict adherence to a sensible diet, control of weight, regular exercise, and elimination of tobacco will go far towards preventing stroke.

And, of course, learning the art of reducing emotional tensions and stress is more than a superficial postscript to these suggestions.

Are there real advantages to having hydrotherapy treatments for arthritis and muscle pains? — Mr. M.R.E., Wisc.

Water therapy has been used for hundreds of years for the relief of muscular pains, neuritis and some forms of arthritis.

There are limitless types of hydrotherapy. Some have special devices for activating the flow of water. Jet streams and whirlpools, in addition to the control of temperature, bring relief to many people.

The psychological benefits are great because hydrotherapy produces comfortable feelings of relaxation. When hydrotherapy is used under the direction of the physician, and when treatments are not too vigorous, a great deal of comfort can be obtained.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers. Please write to him in care of this newspaper.

Library receives $3,000 book grant

The Carnegie Public Library in Washington C.H. has received a $3,000 book grant, it was announced today by Mrs. Kathy Lee, chairman of the library's board of trustees, and Eric Halverson, library director.

The grant is Fayette County's share of $33,850 awarded by the Ohio Library Board to the Southwestern Ohio Rural Libraries Association, of which the Carnegie Library is a member.

Halverson said the grant came from $250,000 in 1975 Title I funds that were impounded for 15 months. Once court action released the money, a decision was reached by the state legislature to spend the funds to "fill gaps in the book collections" of Ohio's public libraries.

According to Halverson, an analysis of the book requests submitted by the local library to the state and Cincinnati libraries for inter-library loans, disclosed weak spots in the local book collection. Farming, medicine, business related material, mathematics, earth and life sciences, botany, astronomy, zoology, modern languages, biographies and American history are areas in which the funds will be used to purchase books for the library.

Although the average cost of a book has soared to over $16, Halverson believes this one-time-only grant will greatly aid the library in building basic collections which can be maintained from regular book funds in the future.

"This grant will enable the Carnegie Library to meet the needs of city and county citizens faster and more effectively without greater dependence on inter-library loans," he said.

Area woman to end 22-year stint with downtown store

A new assistant manager will be joining the Colonial Paint Co. store, 143 N. Main St., effective Monday.

George W. (Bud) Naylor, store owner, said his son, Guy Naylor, of Columbus, will become the store's assistant manager.

The 23-year-old Naylor will replace Mrs. Elizabeth (Lib) Fletcher who will be ending a long association with the firm Saturday.

Mrs. Fletcher, 5770 CCC High-W, a bookkeeper and sales clerk at the store for the past 22 years, has accepted a position of manager of a new Dean and Barry paint store in Hillsboro.

Her husband, William, will be associated with her in the new Hillsboro store on a part-time basis.

"She's been excellent and her knowledge of the paint and wall covering business is tops," said Naylor.

The younger Naylor, a 1971 graduate of Washington Senior High School, received a degree in forestry from Ohio State University in 1976. He has been associated with the B&A Paint Co. in Columbus as a salesman for the past year.

Naylor, who is single, will establish residence in Washington C.H.

The Colonial Paint Co. store, which was established by Naylor in 1955, will be undergoing an expansion program in the near future.

The Club pool room, which closed a year ago, has been leased by Naylor. The 30 by 60 foot building is located next to the Colonial Paint store and will provide the firm with increased display area.

A reception for Mrs. Fletcher will be held at the store Saturday morning. Cake and coffee will be served.

Cooper Tire notes record earnings

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Cooper Tire and Rubber Co. has reported record sales and earnings for 1976, with net sales up 45.4 per cent.

Net income for the year were $9.5 million, or $4.91 per share, compared to $2.11 per share for the previous year. Net sales for 1976 totaled $240,113,699, compared to $165,091,985 for 1975.

The board of directors declared a dividend of 17.5 cents per share of common stock to stockholders of record March 4.

Traffic Court

Two persons have been found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol in Washington C.H. Municipal Court by Judge John P. Case.

Barbara K. Hill, 29, Xenia, was fined $200 and court costs as was Willie Bruce, 56, of 420 Walnut St.

Both received three-day jail sentences and had their licenses suspended for 30 days.

In other traffic cases, Judge Case fined Beverly A. Iles, 27, of 529½ Third St., $125 and court costs, and Vernon J. Noble, 31, of 515 Broadway St., $100.

Ms. Iles was fined $25 for reckless operation and $100 for leaving the scene of an accident in a related incident.

Noble was found guilty of driving while under suspension and received a 20-day jail sentence in addition to the fine.

A number of minor traffic cases were heard by Judge Case.

Van Buren liked large bathtub

KINDERHOOK, N.Y. (AP) — Martin Van Buren, the nation's eighth president, was known as "The Little Magician" in part because of his short stature. But he apparently liked a big bathtub.

The tub is one of the discoveries about Van Buren made as National Park Service historians restore Lindenwald, the estate where he lived for 23 years.

Van Buren stood five feet, six inches, but the tub is six feet long and 25 inches wide. It was found beneath a collapsed barn behind the 36-room mansion.

Van Buren succeeded Jackson as president, serving from 1837 until 1841.

The Van Buren bathtub is to be shipped to the National Park Service Restoration Museum at Harper's Ferry, W.Va. for restoration, then returned to Lindenwald.

The fourth constitutional convention to modernize Ohio's constitution was held in 1912. — AP

One tornado death reported in nation

By The Associated Press

A line of thunderstorms pushed across the Southeastern states Wednesday night producing tornadoes, hail and high winds.

One tornado fatality was reported near Louisville, Miss., about 50 miles southwest of Columbus, Miss. Three other tornadoes struck in Alabama. Preliminary reports indicated no extensive damage or injuries.

A tornado watch was in effect through dawn for much of Georgia, the Florida panhandle and extreme Southeast Alabama.

In all 10 confirmed tornadoes were reported, five in Mississippi.

While the Southeast was having its problems with severe thunderstorms, the North Central area was plagued by severe winter weather.

Snow, mixed with rain in some areas, was widespread from the Northern Plains across the upper Mississippi Valley into the upper Great Lakes region.

International Falls, Minn., recorded five inches of snow in 6 hours. Two inches was measured at Aberdeen, S.D.

Winter storm warnings continued early today across eastern South Dakota, northern Wisconsin, most of Minnesota, Upper Michigan and northern Lower Michigan.

Travel advisories were in effect early today for hazardous driving conditions due to snow in eastern Nebraska, southeast North Dakota and northwest Iowa.

Rain continued across much of the central Pacific Coast early today with snow extending from the Sierra Nevada Mountains of California into the central Intermountain Region. Travelers advisories for snow continued across much of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, northern Nevada and northern Utah.

Mild weather continued across the eastern U.S. with today's early morning temperatures in the 50s and 60s extending from the Southeastern states into the Middle Atlantic Coast states and the Ohio River valley.

The mild weather combined with the threat of heavy rain caused flash flood watches to be posted across western North Carolina, most of West Virginia and for several western Pennsylvania rivers.

Temperatures at 2 a.m., EST, ranged from seven below zero at Limestone, Maine, to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Rain brought the threat of flooding to snow-laden western New York and the promise of water to thirsty southern California, but officials said only the bad news was for real.

Temperatures in the 50s — and more rain — were forecast for the Buffalo area today, and the National Weather Service issued a flash flood watch, based on the threat of ice jams. The service said six streams were on the brink of overflowing.

The Army Corps of Engineers shipped sandbags to riverfront areas in Erie, Chautauque, Genesee, Niagara and Orleans counties and said bulldozers would be available to deal with ice in shallow water.

The weather service said melting snow — up to 25 inches left from this winter's record snowfall — could add the equivalent of seven inches of rain to any downpour in warm weather.

The light rain that teased drought-stricken areas of California — about two-tenths of an inch in Los Angeles — was more welcome but less consequential, officials said.

National Weather Service forecaster Bill Hackle said that while the Pacific storm that came in Wednesday normally would be followed by others, a high-pressure system was developing that probably would block them off.

"From all indications, this is just about it," Hackle said. "There's no rain

THE SECOND annual Central Ohio Senior Citizens Hall of Fame awards banquet will be held at 12 noon Wednesday, May 11 in the Rhodes Center on the Ohio State Fairgrounds.

The Senior Citizens Hall of Fame is sponsored by the Central Ohio Area Agency on Aging in cooperation with its advisory council and the central Ohio county committees on aging.

All senior citizens clubs and organizations and other groups are invited to participate by nominating a person 65 years of age or over to become a permanent member of the hall of fame.

All nominations in Fayette County will be reviewed by the Fayette County Commission on Aging and one elderly person will be selected to be honored at the banquet on the basis of the person's contributions and achievements since reaching retirement age.

Last year's inductee from Fayette County was retired newspaperman and author B.E. Kelley and he was honored at a banquet attended by nearly 700 persons.

Nomination forms are available from Julianna Harris, elderly supporting services coordinator, at her office in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, 733 Ohio 41-S. The deadline for submitting nominations is April 6.

Tickets for the May 11 banquet will be available soon at a cost of $3 for senior citizens and $5 for others.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Ms. Harris at 335-2159 or 335-4144.

IF YOUR drinking water has an odd taste or odor, don't be alarmed.

Everitt Robbins, manager of the Ohio Water Service Co., said today that for the first time in more than two months the company is pumping water from Paint Creek to its reservoir. In the past this process has caused drinking water to have an odd taste.

Robbins said the company may be able "to whip the problem" at its filtering plant before the water reaches the customer.

"It's better to have funny tasting water than none at all," Robbins said, referring to the severe drought that has hit the western portion of the nation.

CONGRESSMAN William H. Harsha will be holding office hours in Washington C.H. on Friday.

The Sixth District congressman will meet with constituents from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in Fayette County Common Pleas Court.

Area residents having problems pertaining to federal government should report with Social Security or Veterans Administration numbers and correspondence and other pertinent information.

Fayette County commissioner about developing such a program. He added that animal control equipment must be located before the program can be instituted.

The city stands to receive funds under both Title II and Title VI of the CETA program this year. The program is currently being developed for a period ending September 30.

A.J. (Tony) Pack 403½ Market St., has been hired by the city to head the program. He will have the title of administrative assistant. Shapter had been in charge of the overall program.

Lions variety show could be remedy

Got the mid-winter blahs?

What's an effective way to remedy the mid-winter humdrums? The Washington C.H. Lions Club's annual variety show, of course.

Currently, a total of 85 Lions and Lioness club members are rehearsing in preparation for two performances of the always-popular show. This year's theme is "Showboat: Then and Now."

The variety show, which is the major fund-raising project for the Lions Club, will be presented at 8 p.m. Monday, March 28 and Tuesday, March 29 in the Washington C.H. Middle School auditorium.

Mrs. Cinda Stinson, who has directed the Lions Club variety show for the past eight years, said that rehearsals (twice weekly) were launched in mid-January in the Fayette Progressive School. But, because of the severe winter weather and the energy crisis, the singers and dancers have only been able to practice on a regular basis for the past couple of weeks.

Despite nice weather

By TOM GILLEM

Associated Press Writer
"What energy shortage?" asked the grocery sack boy in Columbus whose employer cut operating hours to conserve energy last month but started opening 24 hours a day again this week.

With temperatures warmer, gas supplies less critical, layoffs fewer and schools planning to reopen soon, some Ohioans may believe energy-related problems are over.

But officials monitoring problems caused by Ohio's worst winter on record know the situation hasn't ended, despite this week's spring-like weather. Looking ahead to March, they say the trend back to normal conditions still depends on one undependable factor—the weather.

"The National Weather Service is predicting 'below normal temperatures' for the next 30 days," Chuck Morris of the state energy emergency management committee said Wednesday. "But that could be one degree, a half-degree or 15 degrees below normal."

Milder weather in recent weeks, coupled with emergency gas purchases and public conservation efforts, has allowed Columbia Gas of Ohio to ease curtailments for many businesses and industries beginning March 1. Alternate fuel sources are also more available, officials say.

William Costello, energy liaison for the Ohio Manufacturers Association said Wednesday his reports indicate most Ohioans laid off because of the energy crisis are going back to work. "If we can get a week or two of pretty good weather where the temperature doesn't get down in the teens and single digit numbers, we would be in pretty good shape," Costello said.

Dr. John Hug, energy coordinator for the state Department of Education, said many school districts plan to return to classes soon, although accurate figures are unavailable.

But Hug said some districts still find themselves in trouble because they ran over winter allocations and into summer allocations, which begin March 1 for some gas utilities and later for others.

"So it's still every man for himself, trying to do the best he can," Hug said.

In spite of the weather-caused delay, Mrs. Stinson said she is confident that the performers will be ready for the two scheduled performances and a full dress rehearsal. The show was originally scheduled to be held March 7 and 8.

This year's show, she said, will be a combination of nostalgic and contemporary music. The entertainment program will also be spiced with snappy dance routines, the usual rib-tickling comedy skits and specialty acts.

Kathy Wallace, vocal music director at Washington Senior High School, is directing the chorus members. Mrs. Mary Jean Schwaigert, pianist, and Bob Woodmansee, banjoist, will accompany the group.

During the second portion of the show, which will feature contemporary tunes, Woodmansee will play lead guitar, Aaron Spaulding will be the drummer, and Bob Ford will play the bass guitar.

Mrs. Carmen Johnson is handling the choreography for the two-hour program and Gene Sagar and Phil Warner are co-stage managers.

The show has been an annual event in Washington C.H. continuously since the first performance in the former Fayette Theatre in 1936, except for a period during World War II.

Last year's bicentennial-flavored show, which shattered all previous attendance records, raised more than $3,000. All proceeds from the variety show are used in the Lions Club's sightseeing program and much of the money is spent locally for eye examinations and glasses for needy Fayette County residents.

Tickets, priced at $2 per person, can be purchased from any Lions Club member. The seats can be reserved at the Patton's Office Supplies store.

On sewer project note

Dissenting vote forces two more Council meetings

By PHIL LEWIS

Record-Herald City Editor

A lone dissenting vote on an ordinance concerning the proposed sewage treatment project has forced the Washington C.H. City Council to hastily call two more meetings before Saturday.

The ordinance concerns the renewal of notes issued last February to fund a phase of the multi-million dollar sewer project. The dissenting vote to have the ordinance approved with the rules suspended was cast by City Council member Billie Wilson.

Six votes in favor of the ordinance would have been needed to pass the legislation as an emergency ordinance with the suspension of rules, meaning the ordinance would go into effect immediately without undergoing the usual three readings and the 30-day waiting period.

With City Council member Ralph Cook absent from Wednesday night's Council meeting, Wilson's vote blocked the passage of the ordinance. The other five Council members voted in favor of the ordinance, but could not provide the needed three-fourths majority.

Then the ordinance was placed on first reading Wednesday night and declared an emergency. A three-fourths majority is not needed for this action and Wilson's vote was ineffective.

Council chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough proposed that two special meetings be held to place the ordinance on its second and third readings before Saturday. The renewal deadline on the $310,000 note is Friday.

"To protect the financial integrity of the city of Washington C.H., we must renew this note," Mrs. McCullough said. She added that the city has never defaulted on a note and if the ordinance is not passed by Friday, the city will default.

One of the meetings is scheduled for 5 p.m. today and the other is scheduled for 8 a.m. Friday. Both meetings will be held in the City Office Building.

Once the ordinance is placed on three readings and approved it can go into effect immediately, thus saving the city from defaulting. Wilson, a long-time opponent of the proposed sewer system, would carry little weight with his vote since a simple majority is all that is needed to pass the ordinance after the required three readings.

Wilson said he has been voting against proposed sewer project legislation ever since it was brought to City Council, and he planned to continue his opposition.

The $310,000 note was issued last year in anticipation of the issuance of bonds for construction and improvements on the city's waste water treatment system.

City Manager George H. Shapter, who prepared the ordinance, proposed that $62,000 of the note be paid this year. That figure amounts to five per cent of the original note. The renewal note will be for $248,000.

One other piece of legislation was brought before Council Wednesday night, and it passed with no difficulty.

The ordinance grants a zoning change for a building at 220 N. Fayette St. from residential to business. The building is owned by the Lafayette Agency, Inc.

The emergency measure was placed on a third reading and then passed unanimously by Council.

Furloughed workers to be rehired

CETA has returned to Washington C.H., according to City Manager George H. Shapter.

Shapter told City Council Wednesday night that a new Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program was being developed. A similar program came to an end last September. It died when federal money used to fund the project ran out.

Until Sept. 30, the city had employed 17 persons under the CETA program. When funds ran dry, 11 of the employees were deemed vital to the city's operation and placed on the city's payroll. The other six were furloughed.

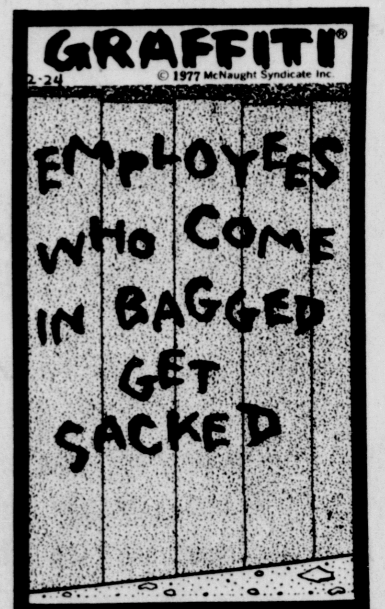

Shapter said those six who were laid off in September will be the first to be placed to jobs under the new program. The filling of three key positions are also on the priority list. The six employees laid off were working for the city street department.

A parking meter control officer, a field inspector trainee, and a clerk typist are now being sought. Shapter also stated that CETA funds may be used to combat the city's animal control problem.

"This could be a good opportunity to do something with dog and animal control," Shapter said. He added that "possibly three persons" could be hired under CETA for an animal control program.

Shapter said he had met with one

needs customers."

Energy Resource and Development Agency Director Robert S. Ryan has said that Columbia is about to wrap up deals for emergency purchases of one billion cubic feet and it may be those deals that make Columbia confident it can last the winter.

Heckman, while questioning the company's forecasting, credited Columbia with consistency, noting that it has never predicted the home service shortage.

"I question that stance, but it has been consistent," he said.

Heckman also announced that the commission will have a detailed plan and funding request ready on Friday for its investigation of gas utilities.

He said the commission will investigate two areas:

—The supply situation this winter and how the Federal Power Commission affected delivery of Ohio supplies.

—The possibility that gas companies reaped excess earnings because of the crisis and if the earnings shifted substantially from commercial and industrial customers to residential users.

The committee members, in taking testimony from Heckman and in an earlier session with Peter Susey, ERDA deputy director, haven't taken off the gloves. Both men essentially have been allowed to give presentations and have answered questions seeking to clarify the testimony.

Seek federal aid for Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum urged President Carter on Wednesday to declare Ohio eligible for major federal disaster relief, citing an "overwhelming crisis" in the state because of storm damage.

The Ohio senator, in a letter to Carter, noted that the President's declaration of an emergency in Ohio provided federal funds for essential road clearing services following the blizzard that struck the state on the last weekend in January.

In 1834, E.D. Howe published Mormonism Unveiled, attacking the Mormon community at Kirkland, and it helped fan the antagonism against the church in Ohio.—AP

State school bill backs income tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill sponsored by Rep. Robert E. Netzel, R-81 Laura, proposes that a one-half of one per cent local option income tax for education be permitted without a vote of those to be taxed.

But Netzel told the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday that "I don't approve of the one-half per cent factor." He did not explain why it was in the bill which would require voter approval of any larger tax.

Netzel and two Republican colleagues also told the committee they favor exempting corporations and nonresidents from any such tax.

Joining him with their own versions of the tax concept were Reps. James E. Betts, R-3 Rocky River, and Waldo B. Rose, R-64 Lima.

Netzel and Rose presented copies of their bills, which deal at length with collection and administrative machinery. Betts said his bill had not yet been referred to the committee.

Stanley J. Bowers, counsel for the Ohio Manufacturers Association, joined them in asking for corporate exemptions.

Air crash kills Pennsy official

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A twin-engine plane exploded in flight and crashed into a house near here today, killing Pennsylvania's transportation secretary and seven other persons, police said.

There was no immediate word on whether anyone was killed in the house, which was set afire.

A. H. Childs, director of the transportation department's bureau of aviation, confirmed that William Sherlock, 36, the secretary, and his chief of staff, William Smith, were among the dead.

Department officials also said Senate Republican leader Richard Frame was on board, but they could not confirm that he was among the dead.

William Campbell, information officer for the department, said two other agency officials may have been in the plane when it crashed outside Harrisburg in suburban Swatara Township.

Witnesses said the plane hit a small tree, skidded 300 feet, flattened the house and came to rest 150 feet across another street in the residential area.

Ljubica Vranicar, who lives near the crash site, said, "I was upstairs sewing. I heard this noise. This crash. I came outside and everything was on fire."

The officials were going to St. Marys, Elk County, to present a $52,000 check to the Area Transportation Authority of North Central Pennsylvania.

Tanker hits bridge

HOPEWELL, Va. (AP) — A tanker tore out a section of a bridge over the James River here during commuting time this morning, and a Coast Guard spokesman said four cars on the bridge fell into the river.

The spokesman said two persons had been pulled alive from the river, about 25 feet deep at the point of the accident, but that it was not known how many others were in the cars that fell into the water. No bodies had been recovered.

One end of the broken section of the Benjamin Harrison Bridge came to rest atop the tanker Marine Floridian, which was immobilized beneath the bridge.

Police said the 612-foot tanker, an empty sulphur carrier, was en route from Hopewell, an industrial city about 25 miles southeast of Richmond, to Newport News when the accident happened.

The State Highway Department said the drawbridge, near the middle of the span, had been raised to allow the tanker to pass but that the ship missed the opening and hit the bridge just north of the drawbridge.

The Coast Guard said one of its cutters, the Red Cedar, reported that the tanker was experiencing steering difficulties.

The 4,463-foot bridge, named for a three-time Virginia governor, was built at a cost of $5.5 million and opened in 1967. It links Jordan Point with Charles City County.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today, continuing the slow decline that began a week ago. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped more than a point in the early going. Losers took a 4-3 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was still troubled by inflation worries. Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board warned Wednesday that business confidence had been hurt by fears that increased government spending would create added inflationary pressures.

Burns also said he wasn't optimistic about chances for reducing the inflation rate this year.

Handwriting on the wall

Last November, at the first of the National PTA's hearings on violence in television programming, an industry spokesman offered a soft answer to turn away wrath. Roy Danish, director of the Television Information Office, said: "We broadcasters are doing a great deal to remove gratuitous violence."

Many who heard or read that must have been tempted to retort: Not so you could notice. And since then viewers have continued to be regaled with enough violence for the sake of violence to cast further doubt on the claim.

Danish also said that "more can and will be done in this area." The position now taken by NBC-TV might be seen as a modest start on this, at least in promissory terms. We are told that come fall NBC will tone down the violence. Nothing very specific has been said, however.

Recently the Los Angeles Times reported that NBC-TV's president, Robert T. Howard, "declined to single out any programs now being shown on NBC that he would classify as excessively violent." The writer concluded: "So how the NBC schedule next season will differ from the current one remains something of a mystery. Howard would say only that the emphasis will be on comedy, variety, limited series and adaptations of novels rather than 'hard action' shows."

Little has been heard from the other networks, but they may soon feel they must join NBC in stating good intentions. The handwriting on the wall says there is a groundswell of public sentiment favoring less of what Danish called "gratuitous violence". This is underlined by a Gallup Poll indicating that 67 per cent of the nation's parents think there is a relationship between TV violence and crime and other antisocial conduct. Even by their somewhat cynical "give-em-what-they-want" standard, the networks may soon be forced to make constructive revisions in what they offer the public as entertainment.

A WORD EDGEWISE....By John P. Roche

The deadly choice

As the Rhodesian situation heats up, it becomes more and more apparent that men of good will have engaged in an unwitting conspiracy to hide the real options. There has been talk of black majority rule, a proposal for an international fund to reassure Rhodesian whites they have a financial future in black Zimbabwe, and endless calls for negotiations. But the tragic murder of seven Catholic missionaries is an omen: the Rhodesian whites, outnumbered 22-1, have two choices — get out, or die.

Almost a year ago, before the unraveling of white power really began, I suggested an international effort to transplant the white farmers to such a safe haven as Australia. However, the diplomats were convinced that since white expertise would be "necessary" for the economy of Zimbabwe, the whites should stay and work things out. The problem with diplomats is they are convinced that a real negotiator could work out a non-aggression pact between cats and mice. Unfortunately some confrontations are non-negotiable.

Let us explore the Rhodesian future. First, no decent person will object to black majority rule — at least in the normal usage of this phrase which infers a democratic policy run by the majority. However, in African usage it is a code phrase for black dictatorship, a regime in which the black majority is almost invariably dominated by a military junta.

For that matter, Ambassador Andy Young should not forget that the American South in which he grew up operated on the principle of white majority rule.

Second, assuming Zimbabwe will be a black dictatorship, what guarantees could exist for a white minority? The only circumstance under which an alien body could be protected from Gresham's Law of guerrilla warfare (of which more later) is the existence of a tightly knit black nationalist movement in complete control of the gunnery. Here Kenya comes to mind, dominated from the pre-liberation era by one man, the charismatic Jomo Kenyatta, and his followers. In Kenya the white population was handled brilliantly, though the Asians got the boot.

Whether Kenyatta would be as successful today is questionable. He was operating in the period before Moscow took a hand in the African game. It is clear that in Rhodesia there is no unified black opposition; hardly a month goes by without another split in the two original liberation organizations. If tomorrow the white leader, Ian Smith, wanted to concede, he would have no idea where to take the concession!

Which brings us to Gresham's Law of guerrilla warfare. Gresham's original law noted that bad money drives good out of circulation. In the guerrilla war contest it suggests that the most violent, reckless, trigger-happy gunmen will push the moderates offstage. Particularly, to introduce the new wild card, if they are encouraged and given a sophisticated arsenal by Moscow, Cuba, or perhaps a cadre of Somalis or Cubans. Throw in a sanctuary where they can train, leave and reenter without harassment by their hosts, and the picture is in focus.

Mozambique, run by the pro-Soviet black dictator Samora Machel, is the perfect sanctuary with ports open to Soviet armors. Unlike Rhodesia's other black neighbors — Zambia and Botswana — Machel runs a savage regime and would have no scruples about sponsoring a night of the long knives among his white neighbors. (He's no racist: He's been treating blacks the same way.) President Kenneth Kuanda of Zambia, in contrast, is a rational moderate who has been closely associated with Christian elements in the liberation movement. In a crunch the latter would find themselves outgunned, as were the anti-Communist black organizations in Angola.

The point of this doomsday scenario is that our efforts should concentrate on evacuating the whites from Rhodesia, not urging them to negotiate their death warrants. Once the guerrilla mass gets critical, the moderate blacks will be shoved aside, eliminated, and the hardliners will follow the rule used with the missionaries: "If they're white, shoot them." The slogan, to paraphrase our Indian fighters, will be, "The only good white's a dead white." Time is running out. Send the diplomats to chat on Christmas Island, and let's organize an airlift.

Nelsonville mayor has her hands full

NELSONVILLE, Ohio (AP) — When Violet Hollenbaugh became mayor she didn't know trouble would come in bunches.

This winter is putting her to the test. "We've got nearly 400 houses without water because the pipes froze," she said last week. "We've got only about 2,000 houses in the whole city."

The frost line in this southeast Ohio community has been measured up to 36 inches this winter.

"We've never had frozen ground that deep before," she said. "I don't think the temperature got above zero during January."

The hall leading to her second floor office was stacked with plastic jugs filled with water.

"The Salvation Army, police, volunteers, anybody, is taking water to some of our older people," she said. "City equipment to thaw pipes can only get to about a half-dozen houses a day."

"Yesterday they got to seven houses and broke the ice at only one."

"We've got a mess. The city reservoir ran dry last week. We found a couple of main water lines froze and broke and all the water ran out."

Kenneth Kinnear, retired principal of Nelsonville High School, came in while she talked to report water to his house had been frozen nearly two weeks.

"I ought to let you sit," she jokingly told him. "I remember all those detentions you gave me in high school."

Kinnear, nearly 70 himself, agreed water should be restored first to the older citizens and said he could do without a while longer.

Mrs. Hollenbaugh, whose family settled here before Daniel Nelson platted the city 160 years ago, said she ran for mayor to prove it should be a fulltime job. She had served previously on City Council and said she wanted to show that the part-time jobs of mayor and service director could be combine into a full-time position.

Nelsonville is barely above the 5,000 population needed to maintain a city status in Ohio. Less than that is classed as a village.

"We've got a population of 5,277," she said. "The last federal census showed us under 5,000 but we were so close the state let us take our own census."

Mrs. Hollenbaugh made national news last year when she put a chain across railroad tracks in the middle of town to emphasize the need to repair a street crossing at the tracks.

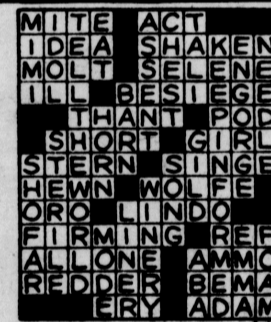

"I got on TV and everything with that," she said. "Of course the chain wasn't tight enough to hurt anybody. You could have knocked it loose with a bicycle."

"We got the street crossing fixed but now it needs doing again."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Let driver keep on trucking

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of wives who have threatened to leave their husbands unless they gave up their dangerous jobs as policemen. Well, I'm not about to leave my husband because of his dangerous job, only he's not a cop, but a newspaper truck driver who drives 200 miles a night, five nights a week. My husband (I'll call him Mike) is in the hospital from his second serious accident in five years. Five years ago a drunk hit him head on. Both Mike's legs were broken and his finger was torn off. (The drunk was killed instantly.)

Last week, Mike hit a deer! The deer's legs came right through the windshield and into the cab of the truck. The deer proceeded to kick Mike in the face. Luckily a constable arrived on the scene and shot the deer, or it might have kicked Mike to death.

All Mike's front teeth were knocked out, and it took 65 stitches to sew his face up.

Abby, newspapers must be delivered, so Mike goes out in all kinds of weather. Sometimes these Pennsylvania roads are one sheet of ice, and it's so foggy you can't see your hand in front of your face. He's been driving for 20 years, and lately, every time I say goodbye to him, I'm a nervous wreck until he gets home safe.

I've begged him to get a different job, but he won't. If you or anyone else can offer a reasonable suggestion for coping with this problem, I'll listen. I love Mike with all my heart and figure if he loved me as much, he'd see my point and change jobs.

MIKE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If you've begged Mike to change jobs and he's refused, it's evidence that he's doing what he wants to do and probably what he does best. Granted, his job has a higher risk factor than most, but threatening to leave him will only undermine his confidence in himself and add yet another burden to his already burdened one.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I raised three fine daughters. Two are now happily married. Our youngest, 23, has fallen in love with an assistant college professor who doesn't even have enough money to buy her an engagement ring.

They want to get married with "no muss, no fuss" (her words). All they want at the ceremony are his parents, their sisters and brothers, us, a few of their close friends and the preacher! Should we allow our daughter, a fifth-generation American, to get married without dignity like a West Virginia Hillbilly?

UNHAPPY IN VIRGINIA

DEAR UNHAPPY: Every bride is entitled to the kind of wedding she wants. And her plans sound dignified enough for me.

P.S. And what do you mean "Allow." At 23, she doesn't need your permission or even your presence. Just be glad she wants YOU there.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school, and my parents still treat me like I was 2 years old. Last Friday night I went to a basketball game with some kids and said I'd be home by 12:30 p.m. Well, I didn't get home until 1:25 a.m.; but it wasn't my fault. The kid who owned the car went for a ride afterward, and I couldn't get home without him.

When I got home my mother was practically in hysterics. My father said if I'd been gone another five minutes they'd have called the police.

I've been grounded for six months. I tried to explain that it wasn't my fault, and if they'd let me off this time it would never happen again, but they won't listen. Don't you think their punishment is too rough for what I did?

GROUNDED

DEAR GROUNDED: Yes. But if you take your punishment like a man, perhaps your parents will be so impressed with maturity of your behavior, they'll shorten the grounding time. Try it.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1977. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1868, impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson were begun in Congress.

On this date: In 1761, James Otis of Massachusetts protested against the English system of search and seizure, declaring, "A man's house is his castle."

In 1863, Arizona was organized as a territory.

In 1903, the United States acquired a naval station on Cuba's Guantanamo Bay.

In 1945, American troops liberated the Philippine capital of Manila from Japanese occupation during World War II.

In 1946, Juan Peron was elected president of Argentina.

One year ago: Jimmy Carter won the Presidential primary in New Hampshire. On the Republican side, it was a virtual standoff between President Ford and Ronald Reagan.

Today's birthday: Jamaican political leader Sir Alexander Bustamante is 93 years old.

Thought for today: Nothing in life is to be feared. It is only to be understood — scientist Marie Curie, 1867-1934.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25

ARIES

(March 21 to April 21)

A day for building up double strength in certain areas. Tighten up your schedule, eliminate flaws, loopholes for error. Thus, "battered down," you can steer your course more successfully.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Study trends, new resources for tapping. Develop your top-flight faculties and you can make this day one to remember.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Your native intuition and self-reliance stimulated now. And both will be needed if you are to solve some possible "tricky" situations. Don't become anxious, however.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Stellar aspects now suggest the revival of old projects if still feasible or the launching of new ones — to better your course and outlook. Choose wisely, noting all potentials.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Stepping out of the picture is no way to avert difficulty or tension. Step right in there with your good will and ingenuity, and you can conquer all.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If you've had difficulty in launching a cherished project because of opposition, you'll get a chance to prove a significant point after noon — and barriers will fall.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Avoid a tendency toward nervous tension. Don't try to rush things and don't fret, even though friends and (or) associates may prove annoying at times.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Everything may not go as planned, but revisions could prove beneficial in the long run. Innately, you are keenly perceptive, so look ahead!

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Given the right impetus by you, your vehicle of success can speed ahead unimpeded. Smart initiative and enthusiastic efforts will pay off now.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Develop those unique ideas that so often come to your bright mind but are too quickly tossed aside because of your conservatism or hesitancy.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A fine day for personal betterment, social affairs and long-range planning. Shun a tendency toward extravagance, however.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Don't let petty annoyances get you down. Stand back and examine matters carefully, evaluate situations perceptively. Then you can cope.

YOU BORN TODAY, like most Pisceans, have a strong affinity for the artistic but you also have a very practical streak which, coupled with your remarkable intuition, gives you the ability to put your creative abilities to the best use. Music and literature are the best outlets for your talents but, even if you do not adopt one of these as a life work, you may develop into a connoisseur in either field. Paradoxically, with such artistic leanings, you are also a whiz with figures, and could become an outstanding financier. But here you MUST be realistic. The Piscean is often superstitious and may act on hunches or "omens" — which could prove disastrous. Other fields in which you could excel: shipbuilding and shipowning, statesmanship, the theater, painting and sculpture.

Wilmington College economist says

Ag careers 'begging to be filled'

WILMINGTON, Ohio — American agriculture has failed to tell the nation's young people what great opportunities it offers in the final quarter of the 20th century, according to an agricultural economist at Wilmington College.

"Job and career opportunities in agriculture and related fields are practically begging to be filled," said Dr. Donald Chafin, chairman of the agriculture department at the College. "More bright young people are needed in agriculture, and job opportunities for college graduates in this field are excellent," he added.

"Yet we have failed to explain this. We have failed to tell high school students that each year thousands of new opportunities in agriculture are available to college graduates.

"And we have failed to point out that there are not nearly enough college graduates with agricultural backgrounds to fill even half of these opportunities."

Chafin explained that agriculture employs nearly 40 per cent of the nation's entire work force.

"Agriculture is the nation's largest industry, although only about nine per cent of the population lives on farms," he added.

"But there are about 500 distinct occupations that are a part of the agriculture industry."

Included among such occupations are engineering, research, sales, banking and finance, education and journalism.

"It's interesting, and not well-known, that agricultural journalists have comparatively high average salaries. And yet few young people think of a career in ag journalism or ag communications," Chafin said.

He added that agricultural scientists and researchers have given society such things as frozen fruit concentrates, dehydrated food, and even a blood plasma substitute.

"Banks," he said, "along with other credit agencies and insurance companies and more than 12,000 farm co-ops play a major role in agriculture. They will need several thousand college graduates with agricultural training in the next decade."

Careers in other business-related agriculture fields also are expanding rapidly, Chafin said.

"Economics, management, transportation, sales—all play vital roles in the agricultural industry of the United States," he added.

Before coming to Wilmington College last summer, Chafin served as farm manager for the Northern Trust Company, of Chicago, managing thousands of acres of farm land in the south.

"I've seen for myself what opportunities there are in agriculture," he said.

Chafin said that the great challenge facing world agriculture is "how to feed more people on fewer acres."

He says the challenge can be met by the application of research and education to the entire agriculture industry.

"This nation, on the whole, is well-fed because men and women have been trying for years to grow two ears of corn where one grew before—and succeeding at it," he said.

"The job ahead is to make three ears grow where two grow now. And we'll succeed at that, too, if we have enough trained people in agriculture.

"And ag education in college is the best possible training."

Wilmington College is the only private, liberal arts college in Ohio with a fully-accredited, degree-granting, four-year program in agriculture and its related fields, Chafin added.

"We stress the practical approach for both farm-reared students and those with urban or suburban backgrounds," he explained.

"Wilmington College has nearly 1,000 acres of farm land it uses both as commercial enterprises and as learning laboratories for students. Our ag facilities and equipment are valued at more than $2 million."

Enrollment in agricultural programs at Wilmington College has more than tripled in recent years, Chafin added.

"At a place like Wilmington College, the student can combine ag studies with other disciplines to suit his or her career goals. The nation needs people like this, trained for a career and yet possessing strong leadership possibilities," he explained.

A malfunction of a semi-tractor-trailer rig's rear brakes resulted in a vehicle fire on Interstate 71 early Wednesday.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the rig's rear brakes locked and the resulting friction caused a fire. Flames engulfed the rear drive wheels of the rig.

The driver of the rig, Richard A. Mills, 41, of Martinsville, was able to extinguish the fire before firemen from Grange Township in Madison County reached the scene.

There was no major damage sustained by the rig, according to the sheriff's department report.

Area law enforcement officers also investigated three minor traffic accidents Tuesday.

POLICE

WEDNESDAY, 11:19 a.m. — A car driven by Edith M. Hawkins, 25, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., reportedly struck a pickup truck driven by Sue A. Hamilton, 36, Bainbridge on the McDonald's Restaurant parking lot, S. Elm Street.

The Hawkins vehicle was backing from a parking spot and the Hamilton truck had just entered the lot at the time of the mishap.

5:05 p.m. — Richard M. Ackley, 20, Twin Acres Motel, was cited by police officers for failure to yield the right of way following a two-car collision in the 800 block of S. North Street.

Ackley reportedly turned onto North Street from an alley and did not see a car driven by Isaac J. Holbert, 22, of Xenia, resulting in the collision.

SHERIFF

WEDNESDAY, 11:15 a.m. — John L. Stark, 78, of Cincinnati, was cited for failure to maintain an assured clear distance following a rear-end collision on an I-71 exit ramp at U.S. 35-NW.

The Stark auto reportedly struck a semi tractor-trailer rig in the rear on the ramp. The rig was driven by Elza May Jr., 46, of 1016 Temple St.

Rhodes gets 'suggestions'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If he didn't know it already, Gov. James A. Rhodes is learning there are plenty of smartalecks out there.

"Have visitors and guests only in winter," wrote one respondent. "Their body heat will cut your fuel bill. Explain to friends and in-laws that you must live alone from April to November."

That was one suggestion offered to the governor, who is scouring North America for natural gas and solutions to Ohio's energy crisis.

The state spent about $12,000 recently on newspaper advertisements soliciting gas supplies in the Southwest. The governor and his top energy advisors also have made flying trips to Canada, Texas and Oklahoma beating the bushes for gas supplies.

Peter Susey, deputy director of the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency, has seen most of the replies solicited by the advertising campaign and notes that many show little sympathy for Ohioans and their gas crisis.

Clark lawyer loses privilege

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court has indefinitely suspended Robert E. Renshaw's right to practice law in Ohio.

The court accepted the recommendation of the Ohio Bar Association in making the ruling Wednesday. The Clark County lawyer was accused of three counts of misconduct in handling estates.

The court did not call for disbarment on grounds that there were "mitigating circumstances" and that Renshaw had made restitution.

Local reappraisal topic at meeting

The recent reappraisal of Fayette County real property was discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Fayette County Board of Realtors Wednesday in the Terrace Lounge.

Fayette County Auditor Mary Morris and Dale Teeters, of the Sabre Systems reappraisal firm, discussed the re-evaluation process and the rate determination for 1976 taxes.

The meeting was conducted by realtor president James Polk. Twenty-five members attended.

Howard Miller, chairman of the board-sponsored private property week, discussed plans for this year's event. Miller is investigating the possibility of the board sponsoring a parade of outstanding homes in the Washington C.H. area and also providing speakers from the meetings of clubs and civic organizations.

Mothers' Circle holds meeting

The February meeting of Mothers' Circle took place in the home of Mrs. Birch Rice. Mr. and Mrs. David Roe were introduced by Mrs. Patrick Riley, and they in turn presented a very interesting and educational program on "Diamonds the Timelss Gem."

Mrs. Allen Myers, presented conducted the meeting, and Mrs. Bill Pool and Mrs. Ray Loudner presented reports.

Mrs. Tom Vrettos will be hostess for

March, and assisting her will be Mrs. Gordon Boyer, Mrs. Sidney Terhune and Mrs. Donald Wald.

Plans for the husband's party for June were discussed. Eldon Miller is invited for that function.

Suggestions for use of the funds of the circle were given to Mrs. Gene Elliott, philanthropic chairman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rachel Marti, Mrs. Leonard Bach and Mrs. Phil Lines.

Garden Presidents Council announces plans for 1977

The Garden Club Presidents Council met at Anderson's Restaurant for the first meeting of 1977. Four of the five clubs were represented.

The Fayette County Fair Flower Show schedule is ready to be presented to the Fair Board on March 1. The theme this year will be "Curling Up With a Book." The entire schedule will be ready to present to the clubs at their March meetings. It will also appear in The Record-Herald the first of April.

The Council plans a flower show workshop to be held May 12 at the Fish and Game Lodge. Mrs. Nell Hughes, an accredited Flower Show Judge, will demonstrate different arrangements using the Ohio Garden Manual Chapter 5, traditional exhibits as her topic. The demonstrations will begin promptly at 10 a.m. Members are requested to bring their own containers and flowers for the all-day session with gardeners.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer, Fayette County contact chairman for Region 16, presided at the meeting.

arrangements and also answer questions. This is listed as a "Fun Day for Gardeners." This will be interesting, informative and fun.

The Council will cooperate with the Fayette Memorial Hospital Auxiliary in planting flowers in the new courtyard at the hospital. The presidents of each garden club will form a committee to investigate further this project.

A brief meeting of the Council will be held during the "Fun Day" activities on May 12 to evaluate the workshop and make plans possibly for another later in the season.

All garden clubs in Fayette County are welcome to participate in this spring workshop. Make plans now to be at the Fish and Game Lodge on Thursday, May 12 at 10 a.m. with flowers, containers and a sack lunch for the all-day session with gardeners.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer, Fayette County contact chairman for Region 16, presided at the meeting.

Need for EMT explained to Welcome Wagon

The monthly meeting of the Welcome Wagon Club was held recently in the Main St. Mall. Guest speaker for the occasion was John Lachet of the Fayette County Life Squad.

Mr. Lachet showed the club the movie which demonstrated the need for a life squad. He also talked about the training program for EMT (Emergency Medical Technicians) and answered many questions.

Mrs. Warren Huber conducted the meeting when Mrs. Richard Glass and Mrs. John Heiby made reports.

Refreshments of heart-shaped cakes and punch were served to Mrs. Mike Lander, Mrs. Jack Lago, Mrs. Ralph Dolan, Mrs. Robert Snodgrass, Mrs. Glass, Mrs. Robert Munn, Mrs. Hank Shafer, Mrs. Bill Tippet, Mrs. Bob Yates, Mrs. Bate Middlebrook, Mrs. Steve Reiter, Mrs. Bill Katenkamp, Mrs. Dennis Wollam, Mrs. Huber, Mrs. Heiby, Mrs. Mike McCormick, Miss Shirley Fenter, Mrs. Rose Ella Lachet and Ms. Larry Lawrie.

SALMON PIE — It's thrifty because only a small can of salmon is used in its filling.

Salmon pie can be thrifty

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

One of the best ways we know to stretch a small can of salmon is to use it in a pie that makes a lovely main dish for lunch or supper. When we tried the following recipe with the deep red Sockeye variety of salmon, we found the delightful flavor of the fish permeated the filling.

We also found that, served at lunch, all the Salmon Pie needed to accompany it was a salad of greens tossed with olive oil, wine vinegar, salt and pepper. For supper service you might like to accompany it with a steamed green vegetable and crisp cole slaw.

One caution: be sure to follow our directions and let the pie "sit" before cutting so you can remove wedges neatly. After we took the pie out of the oven, we put it on a counter near the range; even after a half-hour wait, it was quite hot enough to be enjoyable — and we like our hot food served hot!

SALMON PIE

Margarine Pastry, see below
Milk
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely diced celery
1/4 cup finely diced green pepper
1 small scallion, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour

Youth Activities

MERRY MAIDENS 4-H

The Merry Maidens 4-H club held its organization meeting recently at the Madison Mills Grade School following school dismissal. Mrs. Marcy showed slides of the past year's activities.

Cheryl Blue, retiring president, opened the meeting by asking Lisa Melvin to lead the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H Pledge. Cynthia Blue gas the inspirational thought by reading a poem entitled "The Snow" by Henry Beer. Cheryl read a letter received thanking the group for the donation of money and canceled postage stamps saved for the Bald Eagle Fund in the Bicentennial Year.

Mrs. Melvin told of the officer's responsibilities pertaining to the club program. Cheryl and Lisa led the group in the election of officers. The club officers are: President — Cynthia Blue; vice-president — Brenda Delay; secretary — Pam Hollar; treasurer — Cheryl Blue; news reporter — Coleen Blue; safety leader — Angie Autry; health leader — Jodi Huff; historian, Caren Mohr; and recreational leaders, Carol Bihl and Julie Hidy.

The next meeting new officers will be installed at the Madison Mills Grade School. Jodi Hanawalt and Susan Payne volunteered refreshments.

PERRY PEPPY FARMERS 4-H

The first meeting of the Perry Peppy Farmers was held at Max Carson's house on February 21, 1977. The meeting came to order under last year's secretary Sue Mitchell. Pledges were given by Bruce Carson (the American Pledge) and Danny Wehner (the 4-H Pledge). We then decided to elect officers this meeting. Officers are as follows: President: Mike Wehner; vice-president: Randy Hinkley; secretary: Anna Wehner; treasurer: Sue Mitchell; news reporter: Monica Wehner; Senior health and safety: Kathy Mitchell; Jr. health and safety: Teresa Gross; recreation: Joe Vanddyke; Kris Clouse and Todd Fox.

New Business discussed dues and had a motion for $2.00 per person. Family of five pays $6.00. The motion was approved. Dues are to be in by the end of March. We also discussed the lamb banquet which is March 10, when all members who take sheep are welcome to attend. Then we had a discussion on a money making project. We are going to raffle something off. The next meeting is at Gary Garrison's house, March 14 at 7:30 p.m. Meeting closed by Monica Wehner, seconded by Danny Wehner.

An afternoon of visiting was enjoyed and cake and fruit punch were served.

Pretzels not selling

"My pretzel business has fallen from about $30,000 a week to zero," Sam Rothberg of United Food Distributors said Tuesday. "Last year I did $150,000 worth of business in pretzels. In the last five days I haven't sold a one."

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Reports that virtually all pretzels are coated with lye has given a downward twist to sales of the old favorite here.

Use of lye in pretzel-making was publicized when the FDA ordered Pepperidge Farms to recall 56,000 cases of pretzels manufactured under six brand names at its New Holland plant.

United is a major distributor for Billy's Pretzels, one of the brands recalled by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration last week.

The FDA said sodium hydroxide, or lye, is routinely used to make pretzels look glazed. Mixed with water, the chemical is absorbed by the pretzel and when baked, converts to sodium carbonate, a harmless substance.

In the recalled pretzels, the solution evidently was not mixed properly and some lye got into the packages. The problem was discovered when people's mouths began to burn.

Only pretzels from Pepperidge Farms' now-closed New Holland plant were affected, but sales of all pretzels are suffering.

"We're hardly selling any pretzels at all," lamented Sam Ginzberg, a 77-year-old wholesaler. "I've been in this business since 1921 and I've never seen anything like it. People are just staying clear of pretzels — all kinds of pretzels."

State split over energy pinch

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans in the northern part of the state tend to take energy and environmental problems more seriously than their southern counterparts, a survey conducted just before the current energy crisis set in shows.

The survey, made for the Ohio Energy Resource and Development Agency by William B. Moreland, an Ohio State University research associate, was turned over to ERDA earlier this week.

ERDA commissioned the survey to glean attitudes of Ohioans and hopes to put the information to use in changing the way residents view the problem of conserving the state's dwindling energy reserves, especially natural gas.

Rural residents questioned during the survey tended, on the question of Ohio's most serious problem, to side with the north. Twenty-two per cent of the rural population sampled cited energy.

In the Cleveland area, 26 per cent mentioned energy as the most serious problem facing the state.

The number of respondents naming energy drops off significantly, the survey shows, in the south. In Columbus and Cincinnati only 10 per cent of those polled listed energy as the

No. 1 problem confronting Ohio.

The north-south trend reversed itself, the survey notes, in the case of Akron and Dayton. Akron respondents more nearly reflected the southern attitude while those polled in Dayton seemed more attuned to the Cleveland attitude.

Leaving aside the question of what problem seems to be the worst, the pollsters then asked those responding to evaluate the seriousness of the energy problem for both Ohio and the United States.

In each section of the state, persons responding to the poll felt the energy problems of the United States as a whole were greater than those of Ohio.

In the rural sector, 38 per cent said it felt the national energy problem was very serious while only 29 per cent of that sector said the same for Ohio.

The drop in the appraisal of the seriousness of the national situation as compared to the Ohio problem was roughly equivalent except in Akron where 48 per cent called the country's problem very serious while 45 per cent said the same for Ohio's outlook.

Conservation measures taken by Ohioans also, the survey shows, follows the north-south split with rural residents reflecting the northern attitude.

In rural areas, the survey found that 60 per cent to 70 per cent have taken measures to prevent heat loss from homes. The same was found in the northern cities, while less than a majority of those surveyed in the south had taken the same measures.

In response to the statement "Deregulation of Natural Gas will Assure Supplies," only the rural sector agreed more often than disagreed. There 41 per cent agreed while 39 per cent disagreed.

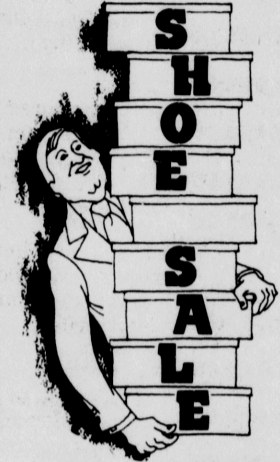

Elsewhere in the state a larger percentage disagreed, with agreement and disagreement equal in Dayton at 43 per cent.

Tax revolt under way

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Elyria pharmacist John "Jack" McCurry says he's following the lead of a Michigan group refusing to pay federal income taxes in a protest, and he hopes other Ohioans follow his lead.

McCurry says he is protesting the pay increases congressmen voted for themselves, as well as for judges and some top government officials.

He said he thought there should have been a floor fight over the 28.9 per cent pay raise for members of the Senate and House. Pay increases for federal judges and high-ranking government officials were estimated at 7.1 to 47.6 per cent.

McCurry said he is putting income tax withholdings for himself and seven employees into escrow. The deductions amount to $644 a month, he said, adding that "the interest I will get from the money in the bank will pay the penalty the government will put on me for being late."

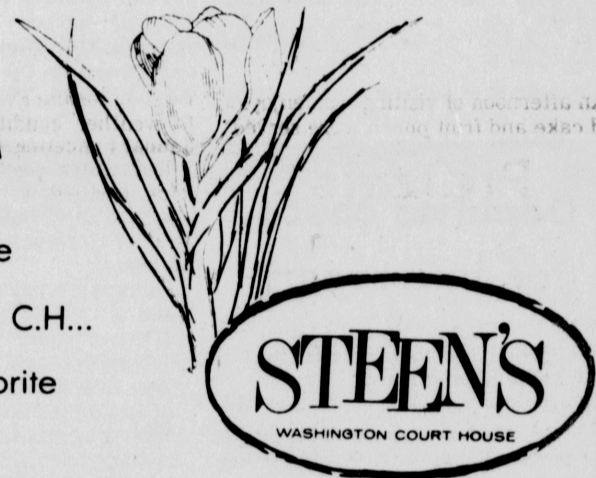

"I know they will come after me with penalties for being late, but I am ready and willing to take that risk," he said. He said he didn't like the government shoving things down the taxpayers' throats.

'Confederate Yankees' love work

By AUSTIN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Being a Union cavalry officer in the Deep South is fun, says Robert Williams, despite its drawbacks.

Williams is commanding officer of D Company, 2nd Maine Cavalry, a horseless unit that fought make believe battles at Gettysburg, Atlanta and Knoxville, waged the Red River campaign, looted an antebellum plantation and molested its mistress — smiling at television cameras all the while.

The 2nd Maine is a group of otherwise unremarkable men who invested about

$1,200 apiece in outfitting themselves as authentically as possible in Civil War garb, complete with muzzle-loading weapons, oldstyle mess kits, bedrolls, tents — even hand-carved dice and tintype pornographic pictures.

At the blast of a bugle, they and similar groups across the country charge off to re-enact the great battles of the Civil War.

Williams, 29, says there's more to his hobby than just playing soldier. "We're sort of living history. There's an awful lot of research involved. And it's good family activity. The wives get involved in making the uniforms and their own period costumes."

Williams said his unit travels to battle in groups, spending about $300 a year apiece for gas and provisions. "We go in cars, vans, trailers, recreational vehicles. But once we get there, it's all authentic. We take the equipment out of the vehicles and move them off the field. In cold weather, you can use sleeping bags, just as long as they're covered by blankets."

Not everybody shares the passion for authenticity, he says.

"There's always someone who shows up in a grey Sears work shirt with yellow felt sewn on it, carrying a thermos bottle and dragging a cooler. We call them 'Farbs' or 'Hooples.' I haven't the slightest idea what the names mean — just general terms of derision."

"You get some funny looks when you go in a store and buy unground coffee, so you just get it and go. It's no worse than walking into a South Carolina restaurant in a Yankee uniform."

D Company is mostly for ceremonial occasions—firing starting guns for steamboat races, for instance. But the company starred in a tea commercial for European TV — that's what occasioned the looting of the plantation and the accompanying mischief.

Williams was drafted into the Union army in 1964 when a halftime show at the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., ran short of Yankees. He was covering the event as a reporter for his high school paper and wound up carrying ammunition for artillery pieces.

He joined the 2nd Maine in Florida. His involvement continued through college in Nashville, Tenn., and he organized a company of the 2nd Maine after transferring to the University of New Orleans.

Later, he found the 2nd Maine was particularly suited to be a New Orleans unit. Between battles, he works for a construction firm.

NEW ASSOCIATE — Mrs. Jane Helderbrand, Rt. 2, Leesburg, has joined the staff of McNeil Real Estate, Greenfield, as a sales associate. Mrs. Helderbrand, the former Jane Teeters, was graduated from Hillsboro High School. She and her husband, Philip have two children and reside on Fishback Road, near New Martinsburg. She plans to handle the sale of farm and residential property in the tri-county area.

DIVORCE SUITS FILED

Phyllis L. Dardin, 1310 S. Elm St., had filed suit for divorce in Common Pleas Court from Eugene E. Darden, Montevallo, Ala. Married May 13, 1955 in Washington C.H., there are three children issue of this union, two of whom are adults and emancipated, and one minor. The plaintiff asks that she be granted a divorce; temporary and permanent custody of the minor child; that she retain all personal effects which are now in her possession, and that she be given other equitable relief to which she may be entitled.

Joyce A. Bryan, 4853 U.S. 62-S, has filed suit for divorce from Ricky R. Bryan, 721 Eastern Ave., on the grounds of gross neglect. Married September 18, 1976, the couple has no children, but the plaintiff is pregnant, according to the petition. The plaintiff asks that she be granted a divorce; reasonable alimony; her costs herein including a reasonable sum for her expenses and attorney's fees in this action, and other such relief as may be necessary and proper.

Carmen Penwell, 2769 Bulldog Court, has filed suit for divorce from Freddie Penwell, Jr., same address, on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect. Married December 8, 1971, the couple has one minor child. The plaintiff asks that she be granted a divorce; custody of the minor child; reasonable support for the child; her costs herein including a reasonable sum for her expenses and attorney's fees in this action, and other such relief as may be necessary and proper; a restraining order and possession of the marital residence, and marital property division by the court.

Willie Roe, 308 Mace St., has filed suit for a divorce from Max W. Roe, 153 E. Court St., on the grounds of extreme cruelty and gross neglect. Married January 2, 1960, the couple has no children. The plaintiff asks that she be granted a divorce; reasonable alimony and her costs herein including a reasonable sum for her expenses and attorney's fees in this action, and other such relief as may be necessary and proper; a restraining order and possession of the marital residence.

DISSOLUTIONS FILED

The following couples have filed for the dissolutions of their respective marriages in Common Pleas Court: Wayne Arnold, 4213 Palmer Road NW, and Marilyn L. Arnold, same address; Nancy C. Klontz, 228 Kathryn Court, and Vernon E. Klontz, same address; Charles E. Bryan, 128½ E. Temple St., and Pamela K. Bryan, 459 Woodland Drive; Betty J. Waddle, 7451 US 22 SW, and Marvin W. Waddle, same address.

Small Fayette County farmers take heed! If you own a farm of less than 30 acres it will cost you $16.00 to have it reappraised as agricultural land for taxing purposes. There are other almost impossible stipulations on 30 acres or less of agricultural producing land. The deadline to make such application is Monday, March 7, 1977.

EDITOR'S NOTE: You sure are a part of the Middle School, Rick, but you'll have to consult school officials on the reason for not including the sixth grade in the honor roll listings.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

As parents of a Miami Trace biddy basketball player, we would like to take this opportunity to let off a little steam in regard to this years' cancellation of the biddy games.

First of all, there was never a valid explanation given as to why the games had to be cancelled. The boys only had five scheduled games to play. We just feel that whomever is responsible for the decision to cancel had no regard at all to the time spent transporting the boys to and from practices (4 nights a week-some weeks), the gasoline consumed, and all the sore muscles the boys incurred. These games meant just as much to the little guys as it does for the high school players. Furthermore, most high school players drive themselves to practice.

Secondly, the pacification by the parents in the form of letting the boys perform at half time during the Trace game was a farce! The parents and family had to pay admission to get to see their son perform for a mere 10 minutes. We can only speak of course for our son, but I'm sure most of the parents would have gladly paid that amount every game to see at least a game and not an exhibition. The time allotted was just enough for the boys to be totally confused and under the circumstances, they could have well been hurt. An announcement was never made that the biddy team would perform at half time, so you could well imagine the confusion as the fans left their seats to go for refreshments and the boys came running on the floor.

We just feel it was handled without any consideration on the part of the parents, coaches, and the boys themselves. If the energy crisis was the decision maker, then why not to the reserve, varsity, and wrestling teams? We have spoken. Thank you.

Cincy may sue EPA for 'failure'

CINCINNATI (AP) — A city councilman has called on Cincinnati to take the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to court for what he calls a failure to protect the city's drinking water supplies.

Springer said he planned to ask the City Council today to file suit against the federal agency for alleged violations of the Safe Drinking Water Act.

The action comes in the wake of the passage by the city of a 70-ton chemical slug of carbon tetrachloride. The chemical was discharged from a point somewhere on the Kanawha River in West Virginia, EPA officials believe.

"I think in granting a license to pollute the river without establishing serious monitoring procedures, the EPA went against the interests of the law," said Springer, who said he has gathered considerable support for his proposal.

"I think the courts should decide this issue."

The councilman said he believed that the burden should be on the industry to prove that it is not polluting.

Four companies have been granted permits by the federal government to discharge certain amounts of carbon tetrachloride. They are responsible for monitoring their own discharges, with periodic EPA checks.

Since the discovery of the slug last Friday, the EPA monitoring efforts have been increased.

The mild weather of the past few days was to continue today, accompanied by rain throughout Ohio. The National Weather Service warned that some rivers in northern Ohio have the potential for flooding because of ice jams.

The mild weather has removed practically all of the snow cover but showers could add to the waters backing up behind the jams. The weather service said the greatest threat now is in northeastern Ohio where the highest probability of showers remains.

A cold front moved into the western part of the state today, easing the chance of showers there. Improvement was expected in eastern Ohio after the cold front moved to the east this afternoon.

Highs today were expected to range in the 50s in northern Ohio to the 60s in the south, dropping back into the 30s tonight.

A strong air flow around a storm center moving north through Minnesota touched off strong gusty winds across Ohio today.

Some showers are possible Friday over the northern third of the state.

Temperatures will reach the upper 40s north to the 50s south, which is cooler than today's predictions, but still above normal.

Extended outlook for Ohio, Saturday through Monday: a chance of showers Saturday and over north half Sunday. Fair Monday. Highs in the 40s. Lows mostly in the 30s early Saturday then in the upper 20s and lower 30s early Sunday and Monday.

JOHN WALKER

PAM JOHNSON

LINDA MORRISON

Washington 'Seniors of the Week'

Our first featured senior of the week is John Howard Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Walker. He lives with his parents at 534 Damon Drive.

John has been enrolled in the college preparatory curriculum for the past four years. His subjects this year are Drama, Literature, Trigonometry, English Composition, American Government, Physics, and English Literature.

John's main interests are chess and reading. He is also very active in school-sponsored clubs.

This year he is vice president of the Hi-Y Club after serving as the club's treasurer last year. He also belongs to the American Field Service Club, the Chess Club, and the National Honor Society. He has also been selected for the "In the Know" team for the second year in a row.

Being president of the senior class, John is also a representative to the Student Council.

John appears to be very interested in law. He has participated in the Youth In Government program for the past three years. He has recently announced his candidacy for the state office of Chief Justice in the Ohio Youth In Government competition scheduled this spring in Columbus.

Academic honors have been numerous for John. Being extremely proficient in the social studies field, John was a finalist in the Ohio University American History test. His sophomore year, John finished first in his district on a similar test.

He has attended Buckeye Boys State and he is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

John would like to further his education by majoring in business administration in college.

Carol Beth Bryant is also a featured Senior of the Week. She resides at 654 MacArthur Way with her parents, Howard and Joyce Bryant. With her sister, Roxanne, no longer at home, Carol has found what it's like being the only child at home.

Carol is enrolled in the College Prep Program. She is taking English Literature, English Composition, Family Living, Typing II, Shorthand II, and is non-majoring in Home Economics this year.

She has been a member of the AFS

Club, band, the Sunburst staff the Blue Lines, 4-H Club and the girls softball team.

Among Carol's numerous hobbies and interests, are horseback riding, swimming, bike riding, amusement parks, and, above all, being with friends.

"Get involved in as many school activities as possible and learn as much as you can, because all too soon your high school years will be over. I've had fun in my high school years, and I'll miss seeing my friends everyday, yet I'll be glad when it's all over," Carol said.

Pam Johnson is another of this week's featured seniors. She resides at 103 Ohio Ave. with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson, and her brother, Craig, 6, and her sister, Joni, 15. She also has two brothers, Randy, 23, and Mark, 21, who live away from home.

Pam is scheduled in college courses this year among her classes are American Government, Algebra, English Literature, and Composition, and Family Living. She has also been active in other school organizations such as Sunburst, Y-Teens, AFS, and

Student Council.

Pam was elected to several club offices during her years. Her freshman year she served as treasurer for Student Council and she is now serving as secretary for that organization. This year she was chosen as treasurer for Y-Teens. Her junior year, she was chosen to represent her class during our Homecoming Activities.

Bike riding, roller skating, ice skating, camping, and watching all Blue Lion sports are some of Pam's hobbies.

As to the future, Pam is still unsure of what she would like to do.

The final senior of the week is Linda Morrison. She resides with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrison at 319 N. Fayette St. Besides having Linda, at home, they have another side of Linda — her twin sister, Brenda.

Linda is enrolled in the college preparatory program in school. She is taking government, Trigonometry, English Composition, English Literature, Home Economics, and Social Psychology.

Miss Morrison is involved in AFS, Y-Teens, and Hi-Y. She was vice-president of Student Council her freshman year, and treasurer of the junior class last year.

In future years Linda can be found at Ohio State University majoring in Psychology.

As a final comment to the underclassmen Linda left us with this advice, "Make your last year your best year, and don't worry what others think of you."

Lion of the Week follows cage team

Our honored Lion of the Week is Danny Rogers. Danny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rogers of 1120 N. North St.

Danny is the most faithful fan that the Blue Lion basketball team has. He's like a gypsy with a caravan, following his team no matter where it goes and no matter what the cost.

As a matter of fact, last week it almost cost him his seat. He was so involved with the Bexley-Washington C.H. game, that he completely forgot himself and ended up having a few words with the referee. He tried, fellows.

Danny's favorite games of the entire season are those with Miami Trace. He looks forward to these games the whole week with great anticipation. Leading the fans in cheers of "defense, defense," Danny can be heard everywhere.

We would like to congratulate Danny on his faithfulness to the team.

The Blue Lines

WSHS senior to join Army

Ronnie Dean Vance, a senior at Washington Senior High School, has enlisted in the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP). Vance will go on active duty with the Army on Aug. 9.

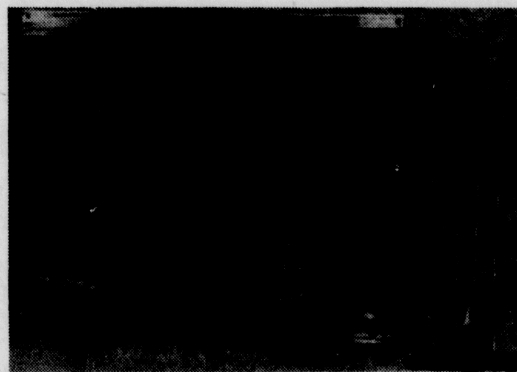

Vance is currently majoring in auto mechanics and is in his second year at Laurel Oaks' Joint Vocational School.

Following seven weeks of basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., he will go into advanced individual training at the same post.

By MIKE QUALLS

There are members of athletic teams that are seldom recognized but work just as hard in their own way as any other member of "the team." These people are the trainers, managers, and the statisticians.

The trainers of an athletic organization are responsible for diagnosing and treating minor injuries of the players. This may sound easy but sometimes it is not very easy to distinguish between a bad bruise and a slight fracture.

To do this job effectively, the trainer (Russell Lindsay) must have a very well equipped training room. In fact, WSHS has one of the best equipped high school training rooms in this part of Ohio.

Among the equipment, there is a paraffine bath, which is used for treating bruises, strains, pulls, and fractures around the ankle, knee, and the hand-forearm-elbow area; two whirlpools, and an ultrasound machine.

This machine produces sound waves that penetrate farther down into the flesh thus applying more heat to the wound. This machine is used mostly for sprained ankles and back injuries.

There is also a large ice machine which was donated to the athletic department by John Bane on behalf of the Washington C.H. Park Association.

The managers and statisticians make up the remainder of the behind-the-scene participants of an athletic team.

The managers (Mike Cleary, Greg Baily, Jimmy Conley, and Steve Wilson) are responsible for making sure that all of the equipment (balls, extra uniforms and socks, etc. . .) and water gets to each game.

The statisticians (Sandy Spears, Jo and Lu Brown, Robyn Leslie, Rosy O'Flynn, Sally Robinson and Maggie Owen) are responsible for the keeping of statistics of each individual player and game.

Barbells keep Lion athletes busy

What do football players and baseball players have in common?

Give up? Well, it's winter weightlifting.

Coach Paul Ondrus, who is head football and baseball coach at Washington Senior High School, is administering the program this year.

Earlier this week, Coach Ondrus said that at the beginning of this program they started with about 60 people, and now there are only 40 people left. The most recent dropout was David Smith, who was forced to quit due to an eye injury.

There is a slight change this year than there has been in the past. This year the guys are using free weights, which are more commonly known as barbells. The difference is, that in the past they used a machine to lift on.

This change may make a difference in future years. So, good luck coach!

Carter backs spy committee slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite intense lobbying by President Carter and Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Congress seems unlikely to make sharp reductions in the number of committees with access to intelligence secrets.

The best prospects for some consolidation of committees with access to secret information appear to be in the House of Representatives.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, chairman of the International Relations Committee, expressed quick agreement Wednesday with Carter's suggestion that too many people know too much about U.S. intelligence operations.

O'Neill and Zablocki said they would support creation of a House intelligence committee that would become the principal recipient of intelligence briefings.

The Senate created an intelligence committee last year. But the chairman of that panel said he sees no way of keeping information about CIA operations from members of the Appropriations, Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees.

Carter told congressional leaders

Tuesday that he is concerned that seven congressional panels have access to CIA secrets.

He repeated that concern in a nationally broadcast news conference on Wednesday. In addition, Mondale discussed the problem with O'Neill over lunch on Wednesday.

At his news conference, the second since he became President, Carter was asked about published reports that the CIA paid millions of dollars over a 20-year period to King Hussein of Jordan.

Carter declined to comment on the specific allegation but he said CIA covert operations are being reviewed and "I have not found anything illegal or improper."

The President went on to say he thought there was need for "some degree of secrecy" in the handling of intelligence information and said he is working closely with congressional leaders in an effort to reduce the number of people with access to such material.

He told congressional leaders on Tuesday that he had reduced from 40 to five the number of executive branch officials with access to details of CIA covert operations.

Zablocki, a Wisconsin Democrat who became chairman of the International Relations Committee this year, said that if a House intelligence committee is created he would be willing to give up some of his panel's access to CIA secrets.

Present law requires the CIA to brief House and Senate foreign relations, armed services and appropriations committees, or their appropriate subcommittees, on all covert operations. The seventh committee on that list is the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, told reporters he doesn't believe it would be proper to limit access to intelligence secrets to just one Senate and one House committee. Inouye's statements came shortly after his panel had endorsed the nomination of Adm. Stansfield Turner to head the CIA.

While neither the President nor members of Congress would confirm the reports of CIA payments to Hussein, Inouye and Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd indicated they support such activities.

On other matters, Carter said:

—He still believes the defense budget can be reduced by $5 billion to $7 billion but he would not be pinned down to a specific time period for achieving such a reduction.

—He will send Congress early next week his proposal for creation of a new Department of Energy and will probably unveil his over-all energy program before a joint session of Congress on April 20.

—He is considering asking Congress to deregulate natural gas prices for a period of from four to five years "to see how it works out."

—His own personal preference would be for Canada to remain united "and that there not be a separate Quebec province. But that is a decision for the Canadians to make."

—The United States is working with Great Britain in an effort to find a basis for a negotiated settlement of remaining issues blocking peaceful transition to black majority rule in Rhodesia.

—He thinks Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's recent Middle East trip was "very successful." The President plans to meet in Washington with leaders of Israel and the Arab states starting early in March when Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is due in Washington.

—He personally favors public financing of all federal elections in the same manner used for the 1976 presidential election.

Congress favors economic stimulus; questions linger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy majorities in both houses of Congress are now on record in favor of tax cuts and increased federal spending to boost the economy. The next question is how to do it.

First the Senate, on a 72-20 roll call, and next the House, 239 to 169, voted to amend the budget for the current fiscal year to allow tax reductions and spending hikes. But those votes did not commit the lawmakers to any specific plan to prime the economy.

However, the House, before amending the budget on Wednesday to allow a stimulus plan of up to $16.4 billion, indicated it prefers a one-shot rebate plan, such as the $50 per person advocated by President Carter, instead of a permanent tax cut.

By a vote of 258 to 148, the House rejected a Republican plan to reduce individual tax rates permanently by 15 per cent. The GOP, led by Rep. John Rousselot of California, argued that the nation has persistently high unemployment because "excessive tax rates ... deter employment and investment."

Democrats called the GOP tax plan a classic example of the trickle-down theory of economics in which money spent by the wealthy is expected to eventually benefit low-income workers.

The House budget amendment of $16.4 billion compares to $15.5 billion that Carter recommended and $17.2 billion approved by the Senate.

There are two key differences between the House and Senate versions:

—The House plan envisions tax rebates or cuts for taxpayers and special bonuses for nontaxpayers totaling $12.7 billion, compared to $13.8 billion in the Senate. The House version accounts for changes in the Carter tax plan already approved by the Ways and Means Committee.

—The House added $215 million more than the Senate in special aid to help offset tax revenues lost by states, cities and counties because of the lagging economy and bad weather. The House plan totals $1 billion, a figure that reportedly is supported by Carter.

In addition to the tax cuts and special aid to state and local governments, here is how the plan envisioned by a majority of the House would work over the next seven months:

—$700 million for public-service jobs, such as in hospitals and jails. The aim is to expand from the current limit of 310,000 jobs to 600,000 over the next seven months and to 725,000 in 1978. Carter and the Senate recommended the same amount.

—$60 million for the job-opportunities program, which involves 12-month jobs on local economic-development projects funded partly by the federal government. Neither Carter nor the Senate recommended this.

—$500 million more to start construction on such publicworks projects as schools and hospitals, the same as approved by the Senate. Carter asked for only $200 million more.

—$600 million for special employment training and jobs targeted for young and old Americans, who are hardest hit by unemployment. The Senate figure is the same; Carter asked for only $300,000.

—$800 million for construction of antipollution and recreation facilities and railroad and highway construction. The Senate approved the same amount; Carter made no such request.

For income-producing potential

Travel, tourism promoted by development department

Editor's Note: This is the last of four articles describing the work of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, the state agency charged with implementing a wide variety of programs to improve Ohio's business climate and create more and better jobs for Ohioans. This concluding article deals with travel and tourism and film services.)

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development (DECD), headed by director James A. Duerk, works in many areas of development to create jobs for Ohioans and bring revenue to the state. Travel and tourism and film services are specialized areas which have great job and income-producing potential for Ohioans.

PROMOTING TRAVEL. Tourism is big business and becoming bigger as more Ohioans and out-of-state travelers discover the wealth of scenic and historic sites, recreational and cultural facilities that abound in the Buckeye State. Tourism adds $2.8 billion annually to the state's economy, generates over 123,000 jobs, $595 million in payroll, and produces $159 million in state and local taxes, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center, Washington, D.C.

DECD's Office of Travel and Tourism works to develop an awareness, both statewide and nationally, of the many reasons for traveling in Ohio.

Visitors to Ohio numbered 48 million in 1975 and the number is even greater in this Bicentennial year. To serve these travelers, the Office of Travel and Tourism increased from three to 14 the number of tourist information centers located at rest areas on heavily traveled interstate and U.S. highways.

Three of the centers are open all year round. The rest are fully staffed during daylight hours in the summer. At the centers, motorists can get road directions or pick up literature describing nearby attractions and accommodations.

Since the first full week of operation in June, the centers have averaged almost 3,000 visitors each per week, serving more than 353,200 travelers for the season.

Tourists clearly want and need the service, Duerk said, citing the example of one center where the weekly visitor total more than doubled after the highway sign identifying it was posted.

In addition to keeping a tally of the number of travelers served, the information centers surveyed one out of every five persons on their destinations and reasons for stopping at the center. The travel office will follow up the survey to gain further insight on how the information service can be refined.

An array of 130 festivals this year justifies Ohio's nickname of "The Festival State." Many of Ohio's festival themes, especially around harvest time, read like a menu: Swiss cheese, bratwurst, sweet corn, melons, honey, tomatoes, apples, grapes, apple butter, sauerkraut and pumpkins. Others celebrate local products and handicrafts such as pottery, or feature farm machinery, boat races, antiques and local history.

Ohio's tourist attractions include three outdoor historical dramas: "Trumpet in the Land," the state's official Bicentennial play, at New Philadelphia; "Tecumseh," the epic of the Shawnee Indian chief's struggle to unite the Indian tribes, at Chillicothe; and "Gallia Country," the story of the French emigres and the southeastern Ohio counties they settled, at Rio Grande.

To inform people of the myriad events happening each week of the travel season, the travel office maintains a toll-free line (1-800-282-0250) which also carries reports of conditions at Ohio's seven ski resorts during the winter.

FILM LOCATION SITES

Ohioans recently recognized their state's potential in authentic film location sites that could be duplicated, if at all, only at huge expense in Hollywood studios. The realization of this new development potential came after Columbia Pictures filmed portions of "Harry and Walter Go To New York" at Mansfield and Columbus, leaving about $500,000 in revenue for caterers, actors, construction crews and others providing goods and services necessary for a major film production shooting on location.

The result is Ohio's newest development office, the Ohio Film Bureau, which has completed an extensive advertising campaign in the Hollywood press, made introductory calls on scores of officials in the film capital, compiled a directory of filming locations and services and is now negotiating for three films.

The Congo River and its tributaries are navigable for over 8,000 miles into central Africa, and pour 1,200,000 cubic feet of water into the Atlantic Ocean every second.

SAFETY AWARD — Peter J. Trepanier, general manager of the Armco Steel Corp. building systems division in Middletown, presents a National Safety Council award to James R. Hanawalt, manager of manufacturing at the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H., and Edward C. Vollette, special assistant to the general manager. The award was earned by the Washington C.H. plant employees who achieved a second place finish in the heavy fabricating division for the 1975-1976 contest period. During the period of the award, Hanawalt had been plant superintendent at the Washington C.H. plant and Vollette had been manager of manufacturing.

Buffalo Creek not forgotten

LOGAN, W.Va. (AP) — Dr. J. S. Church has been receiving some sad but predictable phone calls, pleas for help from people who've looked at the calendar and seen a wall of dark water rushing toward them.

"I can always tell when we're getting near another anniversary," Church said recently. "The calls start coming in. It happens every year about this time."

A psychologist at the LoganMingo

Community Mental Health Clinic, he has worked with the survivors of the Buffalo Creek disaster for the past five years. In that time, Church has dealt with people who not only underwent the horrors of the flood but who later were tormented by fear and were torn by guilt for having survived while friends and loved ones were swept away.

"However, this so-called 'survivor syndrome' has been pretty well resolved," he said. "Most of the people we've seen here have been able to go back to their precrisis ability to cope."

But, he adds, the healing period not only has been terribly slow, it also has been accompanied, in many cases, by a chain of painful events. The fateful wave loosed when the Pittston Co.'s coal waste dam collapsed the morning of Feb. 26, 1972 — claiming 125 lives along Buffalo Creek and causing more than $50 million in damages — was followed by a wave of alcoholism, divorce and other generally destructive behavior.

Although time and modern medicine have helped heal these wounds, the scars still remain. They began to show each time February rolls around. Then, too, there still are cases where the wound remains open.

"Take my daughter, for instance," says Ailene Peters. "She has never gone to bed by herself since the day of the flood. Why, she won't even walk in there to the bathroom by herself, and she's 6 years old."

Ailene and Larry Peters live at Lorado, one of 16 coal camps strung along Buffalo Creek's winding waters. Their home is some 15 miles up the narrow valley from the spot where the creek empties into the Kuyanotte River at Man. Their community is the nearest to Pittston's infamous dams, just two miles on up.

The Peters were the second family to return to Lorado after the flood. Like many of their neighbors, they reside in a mobile home — on which they placed a down payment with the settlement money they received from Pittston.

Many other Buffalo Creek families made similar settlements with the coal company, whose officials had warned residents they would get no more by going to court. Two years ago, Pittston paid $13.5 million in settlement of a suit representing some 600 survivors. This came to something like $13,000 per person, before legal fees to Arnold & Porter, the Washington, D.C., law firm which handled the suit.

More recently, the state settled a $100 million damage suit for $1 million. Just last month, a group of 63 residents, who were children at the time of the flood, sued Pittston for $36 million. They alleged they had suffered permanent pain and anguish because of the company's negligence.

Industrial bill Goes to assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes has sent the legislature a bill exempting industries switching from natural gas to alternative fuels, including coal, from the state tangible property and sales tax.

Rhodes said Wednesday in a letter to legislative leaders, accompanying his bill, that it also would provide for exemption of a portion of the corporate franchise tax for industries making the conversion.

He did not estimate the impact of revenue losses to state and local governments, but said "early enactment of the bill will be a step toward effective energy use, and the preservation of thousands of jobs."

Legislation eyes 'team' election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation that would have the governor and lieutenant governor run as a team in Ohio's 1978 general election is now pending in the Ohio Senate.

Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, said the bill he introduced Wednesday would not alter the present practice of having the major political parties nominate the contenders separately in a statewide primary.

His bill is designed to implement a constitutional amendment calling for the tandem election of the two top officials. It was approved by voters in the June primary last year.

TV Viewing

BY JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For eight days, in eight cities, the national Parent-Teacher Association has held much-publicized hearings to see how roused the public is against TV violence and its possible effect on kids.

The last hearing with nearly 60 speakers, from CBS censor to social scientist to teacher, drew more than 600 persons at one point here Tuesday.

Now, Grace Baisinger and her colleagues on the 10-member PTA panel running the hearings will go home to sift through and study the mass of facts, figures, claims and counterclaims they've compiled.

From that, says Mrs. Baisinger, a Washington, D.C., housewife who is a first figure, claims and counterclaims they've compiled.

From that, says Mrs. Baisinger, a Washington, D.C., housewife who is a first vice president of the PTA, will come a report — she doesn't know when it'll be out — and an "action plan" on ways to curb TV violence.

Could the plan call for a national boycott of shows deemed excessively violent or sponsors who often advertise on such programs?

"At this time we wouldn't exclude anything," smiled Mrs. Baisinger, a friendly, middle-aged woman whose daughter is grown, whose husband is an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board.

"During the hearings we had calls for everything from throwing out the TV set to, as the Rev. Jesse Jackson — the Chicago civil rights activist — put it, holding demonstrations if everything else fails.

"But as to what actually will be recommended, we'll have to wait for the report."

A preliminary report on the hearings will be given the PTA's annual convention in nearby Anaheim, Calif., on May 15, she added.

Mrs. Baisinger, who said she attended all eight of the PTA's hearings, said "what we heard most frequently was, 'We're fed up with the quality of television — and violence in particular.'"

Okay, the PTA, the American Medical Association, the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting are among the major groups mobilizing to curb TV violence. But have they the support of average viewers?

Mrs. Baisinger said she thinks so, citing the large audiences and wide range of speakers she said have shown up the PTA's eight hearings.

But Roy Danish, director of the New York-based Television Information Office, the industry's public relations arm, has his doubts.

"This (violence in TV entertainment programs) has been an issue a long time," he said. "But not among the public, although it's certainly a greater issue among organized groups than ever before."

Gas order inhumane

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A Columbia Gas Co. order termed "inhumane" by a West Virginia health official has turned out to be just that, according to the utility.

Kanawha-Charleston Health Department Director Page Seekford's remark was directed at the utility's edict that state nursing homes could not move their thermostats above 65 degrees. Seekford said such a ruling could mean pneumonia for many elderly nursing home residents.

"The order is inhumane," he said. Columbia officials came up with the same assessment Wednesday. They blamed the order on a computer.

"They've (the nursing homes) received a letter that was sent to all commercial customers," said a Columbia spokesman in Columbus, Ohio. "It was sent to them in error."

"Columbus had a list on a master computer and nursing homes should have been purged as commercial customers. The only thing I can say is we're sorry."

Borden Inc. sees income increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Borden Inc. has reported a 19.4 per cent increase in net income during the fourth quarter and a 21.4 per cent increase for the year over record levels of 1975.

Although sales declined 3.7 per cent in the final quarter of 1975 compared to the previous year, they were up slightly for the entire year for a record high $3.3 billion.

Fourth quarter earnings were 85 cents per share, up 71 cent from the last quarter of 1975.

Schlichter widens scoring lead

Panthers, Blue Lions feel Williams' presence

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor
Wilmington's Gary Williams is rapidly establishing himself as one of the best players in the South Central Ohio League. At least, players from Fayette County HURRICANE WHIRLWIND — Gary Williams of Wilmington has moved past Eric Dunson of Greenfield McClain into fourth on the SCOL scoring list. Despite Dunson scoring at least 19 points in his last six games, Williams has been steadily improving his average all season. Miami Trace's Art Schlichter still leads both lists.

Last Tuesday, Miami Trace traveled to Wilmington with hopes of knocking off the high-flying Hurricane. But, Williams had other thoughts as he collected 30 points and pulled down 20 rebounds.

Earlier in the season, it was Washington C.H. that got in the path of Hurricane Williams as the 6-4 junior scored 22 points and pulled down another 20 rebounds in a 64-41 win over the Lions.

Tuesday night, Williams turned in his tenth double figure performance in a row and his sixth game of 20-plus points. It marked the first time that he had dented the 30-point barrier.

After a poor game versus Circleville when Williams scored only two points, his average dipped to 11.8 overall and an even 11 points in the league.

Since that time, it has been on the steady incline and he just passed McClain's Eric Dunson for fourth on the SCOL list with an 18.7 average. He is fifth on the overall list with a 17.4 card.

Miami Trace's Art Schlichter virtually wrapped up an SCOL scoring crown last Tuesday with his 34 points against Wilmington. Schlichter leads the overall column with a 24.2 average while he sports a 23.5 average in the SCOL.

John Denen of Washington C.H. holds down second in both lists with a 22.6 overall card and a 21.4 league mean. Tim Fuller of Hillsboro is in third with a 21.6 average overall and a 21.3 card in the SCOL.

Schlichter and Denen both have two more games in which to improve upon their averages. Fuller has played his final regular season game.

Dunson finished out his season with a blaze of glory. He scored at least 19 points in his last six games as a Greenfield McClain Tiger and holds fourth place on the overall list with an 18.5 average.

Behind Williams in fifth is McClain's Chuck Cole in sixth with a 16.5 average. Cole's season came to an abrupt end when he tore knee ligaments in the 14th game of the year forcing him to miss the last four games and the tournament schedule.

Another Williams teammate, David Nared, in ninth spot at 15.3 and Doug Sifrit of Madison Plains ranks tenth with a 14.8 average.

Following the top four in the SCOL comes Dunson in fifth with an even 18 point average. Sixth is Nared at 15.7 closely followed by Sifrit is seventh with a 15.5 average.

Merrill is eighth with a 15.3 mean, Cole is ninth with a 14.8 average, and Gary Self of Madison Plains rounds out the league top ten at 14.2.

Just three players in the SCOL have scored in double figures in each of their games. Merrill, Schlichter, and Fuller have at least 10 points in each game. Fuller has completed his season while Schlichter has two games yet to play and Merrill has three remaining.

Tigers whip Duke, 67-63

Clemson's 'Tree' proves too much for Duke to climb

HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Sports Writer
Here's today's quickie quiz, college hoop fans:

Question — Bill Foster (a) will (b) won't be sorry to see Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins finish his career.

Answer — (a). Also (b).

Explanation — Duke's Bill Foster will; Clemson's Bill Foster won't.

Rollins, a 7-foot-1 senior, scored 16 points, grabbed 15 rebounds, blocked 10 shots and made five steals as 19th-ranked Clemson beat Duke 67-63 Wednesday night and reached the 20-victory level for the first time ever.

"It's no big secret it was just too much 'Tree' Rollins, especially in the second half," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "When a man gets 10 blocked shots, it also gives you 15 scares. I don't know what more you can expect out of a guy."

By winning, Clemson pulled within one-half game of pacesetter North Carolina and Wake Forest in the torrid Atlantic Coast Conference race. Colon Abraham was the Tigers' high scorer with 20 points, including the first nine,

Owners seem to be making players happy

By The Associated Press
For six months free agency didn't really mean freedom for Tito Fuentes. It meant unemployment.

Fuentes, not one of the star players who were free-market prizes in last November's draft, agreed to a one-year contract Wednesday with the Detroit Tigers. Fuentes, 33, a veteran of 11 major league seasons, will receive $90,000 — a far cry from the $2 million and $3 million packages signed by other free agents, like Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi.

The second baseman batted .263 for the San Diego Padres last season, one point below his lifetime batting average after 1,335 games with San Francisco and San Diego.

But, at least, after six months of searching, he's landed a job.

Several other players signed contracts Wednesday, opting against a chance at free agency following the 1977 season.

The Kansas City Royals signed five, including Hal McRae and Fred Patek, important cogs in the American League club's rise to the West Division title last season.

McRae batted .332, mostly as a designated hitter, and was nosed out of the AL hitting crown by teammate George Brett in their last at-bats of the season. He signed a five-year contract.

Patek, the Royals' regular shortstop since 1971, signed a three-year contract. So did outfielder Tom Poquette, who hit .302 as a rookie last year, and Pete LaCock, who batted .221 last year for the Chicago Cubs.

Pitcher Larry Gura, who was 4-0 with the Royals in 1976 after being acquired from the New York Yankees, signed a two-year contract.

The signings left only Kansas City pitcher Dennis Leonard unsigned on the club.

Other pitchers joining the ranks of the signed were Doug Rau and Elias Sosa with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Rau, who was second in the National League with a 2.57 earned run average last season, agreed to a four-year contract. His 1976 record was 16-12.

Sosa, acquired by the Dodgers from Atlanta last year after a 6-8 season, signed a one-year agreement.

Mike Lum became the 35th player on the world champion Cincinnati Reds' roster to come to terms, signing a two-year contract. Lum, the club's busiest pinch hitter last season, batted .228 in 84 games.

Infielders Garry Templeton and Jerry DaVanon signed one-year contracts with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moving in the other direction was infielder Chris Arnold, who was waived by San Francisco.

Pistons whip Los Angeles

By The Associated Press
Bob Lanier knows how to win games but not how to influence people.

"Everything around here I do is taken for granted," said Lanier after he played "Beat the Clock" and won for the second game in a row. "If I had missed that basket, I would have been a goat for five games."

Lanier hit a 12-foot baseline jumper over Kareem AbdulJabbar with nine seconds left to give the Detroit Pistons a 102-101 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

On Sunday, it was Lanier's hook shot with 16 seconds remaining that tilted the decision in Detroit's favor over Phoenix.

"That's what he gets paid for and he comes through every night," said an appreciative Detroit Coach Herb Brown.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the New York Nets surprised the Denver Nuggets 91-88, the New Orleans Jazz downed the Milwaukee Bucks 106-96, the Washington Bullets beat the Indiana Pacers 109-101 and the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Kansas City Kings 94-93.

while Jim Spanarkel topped Duke with 21.

Clemson had a 13-point lead with 7½ minutes left in the first half but was held to four points the rest of the way as Duke outscored the Tigers 13-4.

Said Clemson Coach Bill Foster: "It wasn't pretty and we had our chances in the first half to break it open, but we missed too many free throws and easy shots."

Meanwhile, ninth-ranked North Carolina climbed into a tie for the ACC lead with a 90-73 rout of North Carolina State. In the only other game involving a member of The Associated Press' Top Twenty, No. 15 Syracuse trounced Niagara 106-82. Elsewhere, Kansas State nailed down its third Big Eight crown in six years with a 68-55 decision over Oklahoma.

Phil Ford paced North Carolina over N.C. State with 24 points and teamed with Jeff Wolf to help the Tar Heels open a 12-point lead in the first half. The bulge reached a whopping 30 points with 6½ minutes to go as the Tar Heels shot a blistering 64 per cent in the second half.

Jimmy Williams scored 14 of his 18 points in the first half as Syracuse downed Niagara. Williams, a 5-10 senior guard, had help from 6-11 freshman Roosevelt Bouie with 16 points and Dale Shackelford with 14. Vern Allen's 23 couldn't prevent Niagara from falling.

Freshman Curtis Redding scored of his game-high 20 points as Kansas State outscored Oklahoma 15-6 in the first seven minutes of the second half to build a 29-24 advantage into a 44-30 spread. Oklahoma, which has never won in K-State's 27-year-old Ahearn Field House, could get no closer than 10 the rest of the way.

A K-State loss and a Missouri win would have produced a tie in the Big Eight but Missouri was upset by last-place Iowa State 95-86 and dropped into a third-place tie with Oklahoma. ISU's Andrew Parker and Leonard Allen combined for 45 points and Parker, who had 24, iced the victory with four free throws in the final minute.

A number of top independents kept rolling. Notre Dame boosted its record to 18-6 with a 111-86 romp over Loyola of Chicago as Duck Williams scored a career-high 30 points, four free throws by Glenn Sanders in the final seconds helped 18-5 St. Bonaventure turn back Fairfield 73-68, 19-7 St. John's whipped Boston College 92-69 behind Glen Williams' 25 points and 20-5 North Texas State outlasted Centenary 107-104 in double overtime.

Essie Hollis with 30 points and Sanders with 19 helped St. Bonaventure come back from a 42-34 halftime deficit.

Notre Dame also trailed in the early going but, after falling behind 24-13, the Irish went ahead with a 25-10 tear. It was the most points for Notre Dame this season.

MT sponsors girls tourney

If you like high school basketball, but would rather watch the girls than the boys, you're in luck.

Miami Trace will be hosting a girls SCOL tournament this Saturday, Feb. 26 that begins at 12 noon.

Three games will be on tap that day. Wilmington will meet Hillsboro, Madison Plains will play Miami Trace, and Circleville will do battle with Greenfield McClain. Washington C.H.

In the second round, the winner of the Wilmington-Hillsboro contest will meet Washington C.H. while the winners of the other two contests will meet each other on Tuesday, Mar. 1 at 6:30 p.m.

The final match will be Thursday, Mar. 3 at 6:30 p.m. All games will take place at the MTHS gym and admission will be $1 for adults and $.75 for students.

Hillsboro names grid boss

HILLSBORO, Ohio — The Hillsboro Board of Education has hired Loveland football coach Gerald W. Peters to replace Mike Doyle.

Peters, 34, compiled a 40-28-2 record in his seven years at Loveland, where he had also coached wrestling, baseball, track, and freshman basketball at various points in a 13-year career there.

Peters was the 1975-1976 president of the Southwestern Ohio Football Coaches Association. He attended Madiera High School and Marietta College.

Author miffed over light treatment of Negro League stars

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — The customers always write.

Across the continent from Hollywood, Calif., comes a livid cry of outrage over the dissolution of baseball's Hall of Fame Committee on Negro Leagues "after passing out lefthanded compliments to only nine players."

"Tokenism," says A.S. "Doc" Young, author, editor, historian of black culture in America. "It is an insult to the great black players who performed in the years before they were finally admitted to the major leagues in 1947."

Young was particularly incensed over an all-time all-star team chosen by Fred Lieb, 88-year-old member of the Hall of Fame Veterans Committee, without a single black face in the lineup.

Lieb's team consisted of Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Lou Gehrig, Eddie Collins, Honus Wagner, Pie Traynor, Bill Dickey, Mickey Cochrane, Cy Young, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson and Lefty Grove. "All lily-white," Young fumes. "Mr. Lieb is pushing a mean theory ... that white ball players are vastly superior to black players and always have been."

The Californian criticizes what he calls the "Turn Back the Clock Gang," unwilling to admit that the records established by Ruth, Cobb & Co. were made "when many better players were barred from the game because of race and color."

He mentioned particularly Satchel Paige, "who probably won 2,500 games as a pitcher," and Josh Gibson, "who hit 969 home runs."

"That ridiculous committee," Young said, referring to the now defunct Hall of Fame Committee on Negro Leagues, "ignored Andrew 'Rube' Foster, Willie Foster, Smokey Joe Williams, Bullet Joe Rogan, Raleigh 'Bizz' Mackey, Mule Suttles and Chet Brewer."

"Suttles hit the ball as far as Ruth. Brewer was a winning pitcher for 40 seasons, summer and winter, in the United States and South America. "Black teams were playing baseball as early as 1867. Yet, 110 years later, that committee — two of whom (Monte Irvin and Judy Johnson) got themselves elected to the Hall of Fame — closed down after selecting only nine Negro League players."

"We cannot forget Maury Wills on the base paths and in the category of leadership. Willie Mays was, most probably, as great as any player who ever lived. With Mays, Aaron, Frank Robinson and Roberto Clemente on the roster of outfielders, we can dispense with Ruth, Cobb and Speaker."

"Who can say that Joe Morgan wouldn't have been a super star — Joe Morgan and Lou Brock in the time of Eddie Collins and Ty Cobb? Given good health, Luke Easter would have hit home runs with Babe Ruth.

Noe and Lanham win NAIA honors

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Jim Noe of Mid-Ohio Conference champion Rio Grande has won the first Larry Arrington Award as the Most Valuable Player in NAIA District 22 basketball.

Noe, a 6-foot-5 senior, averaged 22 points and almost 14 rebounds to win the award, named for the Malone College basketball player who died of cancer.

Art Lanham, who guided Rio Grande to 21 victories in 24 games this season, was named the District 22 Coach of the Year by his fellow mentors.

Noe was a unanimous selection of the coaches for the district all-star team that also included another three-time pick, Kenny Smith of Central State.

Toledo shocks Central Michigan; Miami tossed into MAC top spot

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Basketball coaches Dick Parfitt of Central Michigan and Bob Nichols of Toledo agreed: The Rockets aren't dead yet in the Mid-American Conference.

"Toledo is opening a door for themselves in the league race," Parfitt observed after the Rockets upset Central 69-61 Wednesday night.

"We still have a chance in this conference," Nichols said.

The coaches spoke while the Eastern Michigan-Northern Illinois game was still in progress and unaware that the league-leading Huskies were being upended 75-70.

That vaulted Miami (10-3) back into the No. 1 spot by virtue of its 76-66 victory over Western Michigan, while Northern dropped into a second-place tie with Central Michigan, both 9-3, and Toledo climbed to just one game off the pace at 9-4.

Nichols noted that the Rockets can further enhance their revived title hopes "if we play as well as we're capable of" when they host Northern Illinois next Saturday.

Good second efforts turned out to be the key as Toledo overcame Central's sizzling 77 per cent shooting in the first half and 61 per cent for the game. The Rockets controlled the offensive boards 20-3.

"There was only one story to this game and it was the offensive boards," Parfitt said. "Toledo hit the boards hard and the ball bounced their way because they were aggressive. Hitting like we did in the first half we should have had a sizeable lead."

Central led 38-32 at the half, but Toledo outscored the Chippewas 9-2 at the start of the second period to take the lead and never trailed again.

Ted Williams poured in 30 points for the Rockets. Ben Poquette was top man for Central with 18.

Eastern Michigan's Hurons, who entered the game with only one victory in 12 MAC contests, forced Northern Illinois into overtime and then led throughout the period.

Bill Weaver, who was tops for the winners with 26 points, sank a 16-footer with four seconds left in regulation play to tie the game 61-61. Northern's Matt Hicks scored a game-high 27 points.

Miami had to battle from behind to kill the defending champion Broncos' flickering title hopes. The Redskins trailed until late in the second half when, led by substitute center Bernard Newman with 18 points, they scored 10 unanswered points to take command. Western (6-6) was led by Archie Aldridge with 19 points.

In the other MAC game played Wednesday night, Kent State finished strong to down Bowling Green 76-68, outscoring the Falcons 14-6 in the last seven minutes. The Golden Flashes, climbing into a three-way tie with Bowling Green and Ohio University for sixth place in the standings, were paced by Burrell McGhee with 26 points.

In other Ohio college basketball action Wednesday night, Xavier maintained its domination of cross-river rival Northern Kentucky 67-65 behind the 20-point performance of Dale Haarman.

Dudley Murphy pitched in 25 points to lead John Carroll to a 74-63 triumph over Presidents Conference foe Case Western Reserve.

Youngstown State humiliated Cleveland State 90-65 as Jeff Covington poured in 36 points.

Wright State whipped Akron 93-79 as Bob Schaefer and Bob Cook combined for 46 points, while Shawnee State edged Wilberforce 80-78.

'New Chris Evert' at age 14?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Tracy Austin grinned, revealing a row of glistening braces on her teeth.

Her brownish hair was tied in pigtails, which fell to her shoulders. She nervously picked away at a bowl of vanilla ice cream and took gulps from a king-sized glass of milk.

"I am in a hurry to get home," she said. "I have so much school work to make up. I'm way behind on my algebra and I haven't had a chance to do any reading up on the Civil War. That's social studies."

"My other two subjects are English and Spanish. I don't have to work as hard on them."

Tracy is the newest wonder child of the mushrooming sport of tennis — already at the tender age of 14 being hailed as the "new Chris Evert."

"I don't think they should call me the new Chris Evert," she said, a blush showing behind her faceful of freckles. "I consider it a compliment. Chris is my idol. I like Billie Jean King, too. But I don't think you can compare me with anybody. I'm just me."

Who is "just me?"

Tracy Austin is a phenomenal wisp of a girl, only five feet and an inch tall and weighing 90 pounds. A big gust of wind could blow her right off the court.

Yet she astounded the tennis world recently by knocking off Greer Stevens, an established player, and giving the veteran Rosemary Casals the fight of her life in a pro tournament in Los Angeles.

Tracy also has been beating opponents in the 18-year bracket, her latest triumph coming in a 6-3, 7-6 victory over topseeded Mareen Louie of San Francisco Sunday at Port Washington, N.Y.

"She is amazing," said Julie Heldman, once third-ranked among U.S. women players. "She hits the ball harder than most women much older and much stronger. She is very fast on the court and is not afraid to take the net where she is an excellent volleyer."

Like Miss Evert, Tracy is a right-hander who hits a two-fisted backhand.

Tracy is the sprit of a tennis-playing family from Rolling Hills, Calif., a 45-minute freeway drive from Los Angeles. Her father, George, is in space technology and plays regularly with his wife, Jeanne. Tracy's older sister, Pam, 26, is on the tour, and her three brothers, Jeff, Doug and John, she says "all are better than I am."

The Austin family has some 400 tennis trophies strewn all over the place at home.

Although she plays in women's tournaments and qualifies for the rich purses, Tracy said she remains an amateur — a novelty in the current structure of the game.

"I give all the money back," she says. "So far this year I would have won $8,000 if I had taken the money. But I only take expenses."

Her plans are to finish high school, she said, and then perhaps turn professional, mixing tournament tennis with college.

"I don't care about money. I want to finish school and then I want to be No. 1 in the world."

Finley, Kuhn at it again

CHICAGO (AP) — He's sued Bowie Kuhn for $3.5 million and called him "the village idiot," but Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has amended that estimate of baseball's commissioner.

Finley now says Kuhn is "the nation's idiot" after the commissioner blocked, at least temporarily, his sale of pitcher Paul Lindblad to Texas.

Kuhn notified Finley Wednesday that the sale of the veteran reliever has been shelved until after a hearing next Wednesday in Dallas.

"Pending resolution of these two points, Lindblad will remain on the Oakland roster and should not work out or engage in any contract dealings with Texas," Kuhn said in a telegram from his New York office.

Finley wasted little time in blasting Kuhn again but said he and his attorney will attend the hearing "only because there is no telling what this man (Kuhn) might attempt to do." He said he planned a formal response to Kuhn today.

The man who bought Lindblad for $400,000, though, Texas Rangers owner Brad Corbett, said he has no intention of meeting with Kuhn to discuss the sale.

Reds camp opens Friday

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, with a chance at becoming the first National League club to win three straight titles, open spring training in Tampa, Fla. Friday when an estimated 30 pitchers and catchers report.

Three of the pitchers are still unsigned. Starter Gary Nolan, one of the club's three 15-game winners; relief ace Rawly Eastwick and Pat Darcy are among five unsigned players on the 40-man roster.

Workouts for the batterymen, including a number of non-roster, begin Saturday. It will be the Reds' first look at newcomers Woody Fryman and Dale Murray, who were acquired from Montreal in exchange for slugger Tony Perez and reliever Will McEnaney.

Veterans Johnny Bench and Bill Plummer will be joined by minor leaguers Don Werner and Jeff Goren. Manager Sparky Anderson has indicated he may keep a third catcher this year.

Cincinnati, the first National League team in 54 years to repeat as world champs, launch their 25-game Grapefruit League schedule beginning March 12 against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Ron Pritchard ponders future

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ron Pritchard, a four-year starting linebacker for the Cincinnati Bengals, says he is not sure where he fits in the club's plans after undergoing a second knee operation in six months.

And the eight-year veteran said he would not be surprised if he were traded.

"As a tradeable commodity, I'd likely bring as much or more than anyone at linebacker without hurting the team," said Pritchard, who missed most of last season with a knee injury.

He said a change of scenery might be healthy for him.

Dodge Aspen Wagon.

Unbelievably Believable.

The secret of the Aspen wagon's success goes beyond its appealing price. The fact is that it convinces you that it's a much bigger wagon than it really is. With a size all its own. A smooth ride. Plus plenty of room for its cargo . . . and comfort for its passengers. So, get all the facts straight. By driving, then buying or leasing, an Aspen wagon today.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price for base six-cylinder Aspen wagon, including wheel covers and white sidewall tires, and excluding options, destination charges, taxes, and title fees.

Dodge Aspen. See it, price it, drive it at your Dodge Dealer's...and believe.

Mary Hemingway's Life With Papa Is Engrossing

HOW IT WAS. By Mary Welsh Hemingway. Knopf. 537 Pages. $12.50.

Fifteen years after Ernest Hemingway's death, his widow tells of her tempestuous years as friend, companion and wife, the adventure, the hurt and the love.

Mary Welsh, child of the northern Minnesota lakes, was a war correspondent in London when she met Hemingway in 1944. Both were married to others at the time, but as Irwin Shaw told her: "A monopoly has just been born, you dummy."

The next year she followed Hemingway to Finca, his home in Cuba.

Her book, "How It Was," is meticulously detailed from her journals. She quotes from Hemingway's letters to her, having decided they were exempt from his stipulation that his correspondence never be published.

The whimsy is a bit heavy sometimes — Hemingway referred to women as "wimmies" and cats as "cotsies" — but the book is an engrossing amble through the lives of two strong-willed people. A long book, but you can't expect an interesting woman who has lived 68 years to zip them off in a slap-dash "wasn't-it-wonderful" reminiscence.

Once, when guests were present, Mary said something which angered Hemingway and he threw his wine in her face.

Later, she told him: "No matter what you say or do — short of killing me, which would be messy — I'm going to stay here and run your house and your Finca until the day when you come here, sober, in the morning, and tell me truthfully and straight that you want me to leave."

And, finally, there was that morning in 1961 when she was awakened by what sounded like "a couple of drawers banging shut" and went downstairs to find her husband of 15 years lying dead on the floor.

Mary Hemingway said at the time that her husband had accidentally shot himself. In her book, she says that was not a conscious lie. She simply could not admit that her beloved Papa had committed suicide.

Earleen Fisher Tatro Associated Press

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How to Avoid a Stroke

I am 29 and in good health. My father and his brother both had strokes before they were 60. Although I'm not really frightened I do find that I have more than a moderate concern that this might happen to me. Are there any long-range programs that I should consider in order to avoid a stroke? — Mr. K.L.B., N.J.

Dear Mr. B.:
The possibility that strokes may be hereditary is minimal. You, therefore, should have this cloud of fear dispelled by reassurance, from me and, particularly, from your own doctor.

Since you are in good physical health it is most important that you forget the threat of an inevitable stroke.

There are very definite, sensible ways that you can plan to continue enjoying good health. Much is known about the cause of strokes. When these causes are eliminated, the chances of stroke are markedly reduced.

Undetected and untreated high blood pressure is a common factor. Marked obesity, high cholesterol and triglycerides in the blood, and unrecognized diabetes increase the risks.

Tobacco is a most important factor in narrowing the blood vessels that lead to the brain.

Regular checkups by your physician, strict adherence to a sensible diet, control of weight, regular exercise, and elimination of tobacco will go far towards preventing stroke. And, of course, learning the art of reducing emotional tensions and stress is more than a superficial postscript to these suggestions.

Are there real advantages to having hydrotherapy treatments for arthritis and muscle pains? — Mr. M.R.E., Wisc.

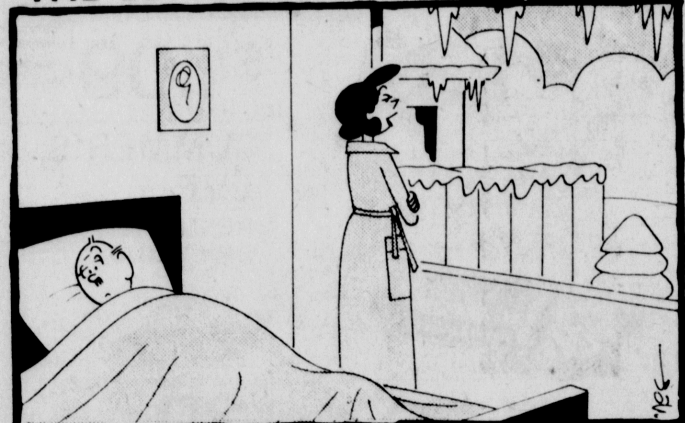

Dear Mr. E.:
Water therapy has been used for hundreds of years for the relief of muscular pains, neuritis and some forms of arthritis.

There are limitless types of hydrotherapy. Some have special devices for activating the flow of water. Jet streams and whirlpools, in addition to the control of temperature, bring relief to many people.

The psychological benefits are great because hydrotherapy produces comfortable feelings of relaxation. When hydrotherapy is used under the direction of the physician, and when treatments are not too vigorous, a great deal of comfort can be obtained.

Library receives $3,000 book grant

The Carnegie Public Library in Washington C.H. has received a $3,000 book grant, it was announced today by Mrs. Kathy Lee, chairman of the library's board of trustees, and Eric Halverson, library director.

The grant is Fayette County's share of $33,850 awarded by the Ohio Library Board to the Southwestern Ohio Rural Libraries Association, of which the Carnegie Library is a member.

Halverson said the grant came from $250,000 in 1975 Title I funds that were impounded for 15 months. Once court action released the money, a decision was reached by the state legislature to spend the funds to "fill gaps in the book collections" of Ohio's public libraries.

According to Halverson, an analysis of the book requests submitted by the local library to the state and Cincinnati libraries for inter-library loans, disclosed weak spots in the local book collection. Farming, medicine, business related material, mathematics, earth and life sciences, botany, astronomy, zoology, modern languages, biographies and American history are areas in which the funds will be used to purchase books for the library.

Although the average cost of a book has soared to over $16, Halverson believes this one-time-only grant will greatly aid the library in building basic collections which can be maintained from regular book funds in the future.

"This grant will enable the Carnegie Library to meet the needs of city and county citizens faster and more effectively without greater dependence on inter-library loans," he said.

Area woman to end 22-year stint with downtown store

A new assistant manager will be joining the Colonial Paint Co. store, 143 N. Main St., effective Monday.

George W. (Bud) Naylor, store owner, said his son, Guy Naylor, of Columbus, will become the store's assistant manager.

The 23-year-old Naylor will replace Mrs. Elizabeth (Lib) Fletcher who will be ending a long association with the firm Saturday.

Mrs. Fletcher, 5770 CCC High-W, a bookkeeper and sales clerk at the store for the past 22 years, has accepted a position of manager of a new Dean and Barry paint store in Hillsboro.

Her husband, William, will be associated with her in the new Hillsboro store on a part-time basis.

"She's been excellent and her knowledge of the paint and wall covering business is tops," said Naylor.

The younger Naylor, a 1971 graduate of Washington Senior High School, received a degree in forestry from Ohio State University in 1976. He has been associated with the B&A Paint Co. in Columbus as a salesman for the past year.

Naylor, who is single, will establish residence in Washington C.H.

The Colonial Paint Co. store, which was established by Naylor in 1955, will be undergoing an expansion program in the near future.

The Club pool room, which closed a year ago, has been leased by Naylor. The 30 by 60 foot building is located next to the Colonial Paint store and will provide the firm with increased display area.

A reception for Mrs. Fletcher will be held at the store Saturday morning. Cake and coffee will be served.

Cooper Tire notes record earnings

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Cooper Tire and Rubber Co. has reported record sales and earnings for 1976, with net sales up 45.4 per cent.

Net income for the year was $9.5 million, or $4.91 per share, compared to $2.11 per share for the previous year.

Net sales for 1976 totaled $240,113,699, compared to $165,091,985 for 1975.

The board of directors declared a dividend of 17.5 cents per share of common stock to stockholders of record March 4.

Municipal Court

A 35-year-old Washington C.H. man was fined a total of $200 in Municipal Court Wednesday on separate charges of disturbing the peace and possession of marijuana.

Judge John P. Case levied the two $100 fines after finding Melvin Garrison guilty of both counts. Garrison was arrested by Washington C.H. police officers last week on the first charge. After he was brought to city police headquarters for incarceration, a routine search turned up a small amount of marijuana.

Two persons were found guilty of check fraud by Judge Case.

Kemnard Tackett, 28, Rt. 2, Washington C.H., was fined a total of $150 on two counts of check fraud. He also received a 30-day jail sentence.

Robert B. Jones, 27, Bloomingburg, was fined $30 and court costs on a check fraud charge. He received a 10-day jail sentence which was suspended providing he makes restitution for a $4.32 check.

Alphus E. Crawford, 52, Central Place, was fined $50 for disorderly conduct by intoxication by Judge Case. He was also fined $20 for failure to pay a previous court levied fine.

Gregory Muetzell, 20, Columbus, was fined $50 and court costs by Judge Case after being found guilty of shooting at a pheasant from a motor vehicle on a public roadway.

Van Buren liked large bathtub

KINDERHOOK, N.Y. (AP) — Martin Van Buren, the nation's eighth president, was known as "The Little Magician" in part because of his short stature. But he apparently liked a big bathtub.

The tub is one of the discoveries about Van Buren made as National Park Service historians restore Lindenwald, the estate where he lived for 23 years.

Van Buren stood five feet, six inches, but the tub is six feet long and 25 inches wide. It was found beneath a collapsed barn behind the 36-room mansion.

Van Buren succeeded Jackson as president, serving from 1837 until 1841. The Van Buren bathtub is to be shipped to the National Park Service Restoration Museum at Harper's Ferry, W.Va. for restoration, then returned to Lindenwald.

The fourth constitutional convention to modernize Ohio's constitution was held in 1912. — AP
